Exposes Spearhead of Totalitarianism.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Rep. Joe Starnes.

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The Dies committee on un-American activities today issued a special report exposing and denouncing what it describes as a communist inspired movement "aimed at destroying our representative form of government." It charges that 27 leaders of the movement were prominently identified with an organization which openly advocated treason.

The report names the so-called Union for Democratic Action as the spearhead of the campaign of "creeping totalitarianism." As active collaborators in the subversive movement, it names various satellite communist front organizations and five publications: Henry Luce's Time magazine; The New Masses and The Daily Worker, both official organs of the Communist party; Marshall Field's PM, and the left wing magazine, New Republic.

Urge Defense Sabotage.

The report identifies Kenneth Crawford, Washington correspondent for PM and a member of the UDA executive committee, as a member of three other Communist front organizations.

Twenty-six other officers, directors and sponsors of the UDA are accused of treasonable association with an organization called the American League Against War and Fascism, which openly advocated sabotage of the national defense in time of peace and in time of war.

This Communist front outfit, according to the report, was "nothing more or less than a bold advocate of treason."

The report cited the words of the league's official program, dated January, 1936, in which it was described as a mass organization that proposed "a plan of action at the specific points where the war machine can and must be stopped." The platform of the league, adopted at its third annual congress in Cleveland in January, 1936, called for "work toward the stopping of the manufacture and transport of munitions in time of peace or war . . . thru mass demonstrations, picketing, and strikes" and pledged the members "to promote and support refusal of workers to handle all materials of war."

UDA Leaders Urged Treason.

"The same persons who formed the official backbone of the organization promulgating the foregoing plan for treason are now the persons who constitute the official backbone of the Union for Democratic Action," states the report of the Dies committee.

The report discloses that the real name of the UDA research director, who now uses the name of "Lewis Corey," is Louis Fraina; that he was one of the organizers of the Communist party in the United States, and that he is the author of one of its principal textbooks.

Corey, or Fraina, the report notes, presumably assisted in preparation of the "vituperative and scurrilous" document issued by the Union for Democratic Action in collaboration with the New Republic, which undertakes to purge congress of its leading anti-Communist members.

Aim to Undermine Congress.

In the guise of criticizing individual members of congress, these totalitarian conspirators actually are engaged in an effort to undermine public confidence in congress as an institution of representative government, the report charges.

"The issue, simply stated, is whether the congress of the United States shall be the reality or the relic of American democracy," the report adds. "If this movement ever reaches its fulfilment in the Nazification of the American government, we shall find ourselves bearing a striking resemblance to the hateful thing against which we now are mobilizing our total resources."

Flail New Deal for Shortage of Rubber, Metals

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Failure of the government to acquire the stockpiles of rubber, tin, copper, aluminum and other materials—the lack of which is hampering our war effort—was laid squarely at the door of the New Deal today in a report by the house committee on military affairs.

"The real responsibility," said the committee, "lies with no one individual or agency, but rather with the congress, the administration, and the public. In the case of all three, too much emphasis was placed for the last few years on social reforms rather than national security; and our experts in industries and government have been far too complacent in allowing us in the past to have no fear of a shortage if war should come.

Tells of Warning Year Ago.

"These facts, with additional information and specific recommendations concerning our lack of stockpiles in critical and strategic materials, together with our neglect to provide for them, were made known to the public by the committee on military affairs of the house five months before Pearl Harbor; but heed was conspicuous by its absence."

The committee defended the record of Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones and his Rubber Reserve company in efforts to take care of the nation's rubber needs. The report said the contribution of Jones had been "grossly underestimated."

Under Jones' supervision, the report said, the Rubber Reserve company accumulated the largest rubber stockpile in history despite the monopolistic control of the world's rubber supply. The committee also said it was convinced there was no avoidable delay by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in pushing the synthetic rubber program.

"The course adopted by Mr. Jones was concurred in by the President and was at least tacitly concurred in by the congress," said the committee.

Flays REA Hoarding.

The necessity of conserving critical materials still is being disregarded, the committee found, citing the waste and hoarding of copper by the New Deal Rural Electrification administration in furthering its postwar utility program.

The "tragic waste of copper," said the committee, "amounts to nothing short of criminal negligence during a national emergency."

The committee also cited a similar waste of steel on transmission cable poles by the New Deal Bonneville Power administration.

The report exposes the waste of hundreds of millions of dollars in improvident and loosely drawn war production contracts by the war department. So far more than a third of a billion dollars out of 2 billions in contracts has been recovered by renegotiation compelled by the investigation.

Assails Growing Burocracy.

"There has been an improvement," says the report, "but unbelievable red tape, top heavy organization, and a lack of orientation to a state of war still lead the parade in wartime Washington.

"Whenever a new or varied problem is presented, a new commission, board, committee, or agency usually is created. War organization costs have been given little attention and restraint on expenditures as a result of the virtual blank check by the congress for the prosecution of the war has been almost entirely disregarded.

"The committee and every American agree that the winning of the war, irrespective of the cost, comes first. There comes a time in such an effort as is exemplified by the present war program when reckless abandon in the expenditure of taxpayers' money upon the ground of expediency must yield to judgment and reason. It must cease to be a habit."

"Sordid Picture" of Waste.

Evidence developed by the committee reveals "a sordid picture" of excessive commissions by so-called defense brokers, huge profits by vendors, exorbitant salaries, bonuses, and fees for management and related services in many war department contracts.

The committee added that while the war department had taken steps to correct conditions when abuses had been brought to its attention, "there is urgent need for a far more stringent control over these practices which persist."

Churchill Kin of Roosevelt, Expert Finds

New York, June 23 (AP).—President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain are eighth cousins once removed, but you have to go back to the Mayflower to prove it.

Announcement of the discovery of blood relationship between two of the world's leaders was made today at the office of the New York Genealogical and Biographical society by Conklin Mann, editor of the "bible" of genealogy, the "New York Genealogical and Biographical Record."

The relationship comes thru the line of Mr. Churchill's mother, Lady Randolph Churchill, who was Jennie Jerome of Brooklyn, Mann said. Actually, however, you have to go back to 1620 when a 10 year old boy, John Cooke, came to Plymouth on the Mayflower.

Discovery Is Accidental.

The relationship between the wartime leaders was discovered accidentally by Mann, who has spent the last four months compiling the complete American pedigree of Mr. Churchill. He now has completed a list of more than 250 of Mr. Churchill's American ancestors, thru his mother, he said.

"Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have three Mayflower ancestors in common," he explained. "Two of these are Francis Cooke and Richard Warren. The third is John Cooke, son of Francis Cooke, who came to Plymouth on the Mayflower in 1620 with his father. He was the boy of 10.

"Mr. Roosevelt is descended from two of the daughters of John Cooke and Sarah Warren. One was Esther Cooke, who married Thomas Taber, the other was Sarah Cooke, who married Arthur Hathaway. Mr. Churchill is descended from a third daughter, Elizabeth Cooke, who married Daniel Willcox of Portsmouth, R. I., and Dartmouth, Mass., then in Plymouth colony."

Descendants Intermarry.

Mann said that for more than 150 years some of the descendants of John Cooke and other ancestors of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill lived as neighbors in Dartmouth, Bristol county, Massachusetts.

"During that time," he said, "they witnessed each other's deeds and wills and many of their children intermarried. Not until the revolution when the migration into New York state began did they become separated."

Another among Mr. Churchill's ancestors, Mann said, was Arthur Howland, the Quaker brother of John Howland, who came to Plymouth on the Mayflower. Mr. Roosevelt is descended from John Howland, Mann said.

MAN SLAYS BOY, 14, FOR WHISTLING WHILE AT WORK, KILLS SELF

Belleville, Ill., June 23 [Special].—Fred Opallach, 14 years old, of St. Louis, was stabbed to death today by Frank Koberg, 47, proprietor of a cleaning and dyeing plant, who then fatally wounded himself by cutting his throat and firing a bullet into his head.

Koberg's wife, Bertha, who witnessed the slayings, said her husband "seemed to be losing his mind lately" and suddenly went berserk today over the boy whistling as he worked. Fred was spending his vacation and helping the Kobergs, with whom his family long had been friends, and was well liked by Koberg, the woman said.

Koberg fought with the German army during the first World war and came here with his wife and two sons in 1925. He became a citizen of the United States on Sept. 9, 1940.

Allied Flyers Over Timor Shoot Down Jap Fighter

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—One Japanese fighter was shot down over the Japanese occupied island of Timor yesterday and seven other fighters were driven off when they tried to intercept allied reconnaissance planes at Rabaul, New Guinea, a communique said today.

2 Australians Convicted of Conspiring to Aid Japs

PERTH, Australia, June 23 (AP).—Two men who helped form a branch of an organization with the reported object of organizing sabotage to assist the Japanese, were convicted today of conspiring to aid the enemy. The men were Laurence Frederick Bullock and Charles Leonard Williams.

It Rains Frogs as Raddy Gets Bridal Shower

You who read in THE TRIBUNE yesterday about Raddy the frog, who was given to the Brookfield zoo last Thursday, will be interested to learn that he glumly refused his supper last night, unaware that his idyllic romance with Lily may be resumed today.

Lily, or a frog who's her double, has been found.

Raddy and Lily came to the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Radwill at 2521 56th avenue in Cicero eight years ago. The frogs immediately set to work earning their keep by catching the insects that preyed on the parsnips and the corn.

The Radwills, touched by their diligence, gave them a summer cage in which to sleep at night, and snug quarters in the basement for winter. The Radwills named them, and Raddy and Lily learned to come when they were called. No happier frogs could have been found in the world. They hopped here, and they hopped there, always together.

But trouble came in April. Lily left Raddy, hippity-hop. Raddy became so morose that Radwill gave him to the zoo.

Cupid Lends an Ear.

Jerry Cordell read about it yesterday. He guessed that the sorrowful frog of feminine gender, croaking mournfully in his bathtub at the moment, was Lily, penitent and broken hearted. His frog wouldn't eat, either.

Jerry is 17 years old, a Hyde Park High school student who is a volunteer assistant to Clifford H. Pope, curator of reptiles at the Field museum. Two weeks ago, Jerry said, Pope reported that he had an irreproachable frog in his sink, but he couldn't keep it because he hadn't found it in its natural habitat. He had caught it in Lake Michigan and felt that it must be a runaway from some small lake or stream.

Reunion Set for Today.

Last night Jerry telephoned THE TRIBUNE about his frog. Director Edward H. Bean of the zoo was notified. He said Jerry's frog must indeed be Lily. Arrangements were made for a reunion today.

Only one thing worried Bean. His son, Robert H. Bean, assistant director, meanwhile had rounded up two frog girl friends for Raddy and given them to the keeper to cheer Raddy up at his poolside breakfast this morning. Raddy's going to have a lovely time explaining to Lily—if it is Lily—if she gets there to patch up her shattered romance before the other two charmers can be caught and asked to leave.

PRICE CEILINGS ON SERVICES TO CONSUMER SET

Charges Limited to March Maximums.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The Office of Price administration this evening fixed ceilings for consumer services, effective next Wednesday, separate from the general maximum price regulations. It shaves and stabilizes costs of important items for every one, covering as it does the charges for a multitude of services ranging from diaper laundering to undertakers' fees. It is estimated that the order affects a million establishments doing a 5 billion dollar business.

In general, service charges are fixed as of March 1. The laundry that charged 12 cents for a shirt in March and raised the rate to 15 cents in April or June, will have to cut its figure back to 12 cents on July 1. The cleaner who charged 75 cents in March for a suit of clothes and now charges 85 cents will have to revert to 75 cents next Wednesday.

Among Budget Items Covered.

Among the better known family budget items covered by the regulations are the following: shoe shining and repairing; pressing, alteration and repair of garments; hat cleaning and blocking; laundry; automobile service, storage and repair [including parking lots]; repair of electrical appliances, including radios; food locker service and rental; upholstery and furniture repair; cleaning and dyeing; fur repair and storage; film developing and printing; storage of furniture and household goods; clock and watch repair; floor waxing and sanding, and undertaker's services.

Repair Services Included.

Also covered are less common services which are becoming increasingly important in view of the growing scarcity of goods for civilians. These include household repairs "done by the job" and repair services for the following articles: corsets, farm machinery, cameras, sewing machines, hosiery, luggage and handbags, harness, bicycles, lawn mowers, stoves, and tires.

Other services within the terms of the new regulation include the following: custom hemstitching and tucking; retouching of photographs; locksmithing; repair of musical instruments; gunsmithing; cabinet repair; household mattress renovating; picture framing and mounting to order; and repairs of umbrellas, fountain pens, and eyeglasses.

Many Complexities in Order.

Approximately a million business establishments will be required to conform. Owing to their variety, the regulations can't be as simple as was stated in the general principle of each reverting to its highest rates last March. The simple principle was described in the April 28 announcement of the general maximum price regulation. The complexities, with other modifications, were contained in tonight's amendment.

SUMMARY OF WAR DEVELOPMENTS ON MAJOR FRONTS

War's latest developments:

Heavy axis mechanized formations, said to be the greater part of the German and Italian armored forces in Libya, were reported moving up toward the hastily consolidated British outposts near the Egyptian frontier. American bombers raided the axis supply base at Bengazi and the RAF raided other axis Libyan bases as well as points in Crete and Greece.

Chinese struck counterblows at two Japanese spearheads on the Hangchow-Nanchang railway and kept a 50 mile gap between them for the seventh day. The Chinese also stopped a Japanese drive 40 miles north of Canton.

Russian forces fell back to new positions before a powerful new German offensive on the Kharkov front. On the Sevastopol front the Russians declared they had closed the breaches the Germans had torn in the fortifications of the Black sea naval base, and said they were holding off numerically superior forces.

[Details on pages 1, 5, and 6.]

Push Russians Back in a New Kharkov Drive

MOSCOW, June 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—A powerful new German offensive on the Kharkov front has forced Marshal Timoshenko's forces to fall back to new positions, the Russians announced early today. They added that Sevastopol's defenders continued to hold off numerically superior Nazi forces after closing gaps torn in their fortifications by the enemy.

"On the Kharkov front our troops conducted operations against advancing German troops," said the midnight communique. "Our troops were pressed back to new positions."

Lack Details of Battle.

New fighting erupted in this area of the southern sector Monday after a period of quiet in the struggle for this vital industrial center and one of the keys to the Caucasus.

Detailed information was lacking but it was possible that Adolf Hitler might be starting one phase of a grand assault in an effort to reach the oil of the Caucasus even before a decision is reached at Sevastopol.

Presumably the renewed fighting was in the Izyum-Barvenkova sector south of Kharkov where the Russians stand athwart the rail line running south to Rostov, the main gateway to the Caucasus. It was there that the Russians got the jump on the Nazis and bent their lines back in their surprise spring offensive which broke up Hitler's preparations for a massive drive upon Rostov.

Sevastopol Defense Stiffens.

In the battle for Sevastopol the Russian defenses about the Crimean base stiffened after Red forces threw the Nazis out of their newly pierced fortifications. Nevertheless, the peril to the Russians there remained of the utmost gravity.

While the haggard garrison continued to repulse German assaults, the soviet Black sea fleet shelled enemy lines and brought in supplies thru a cascade of steel and fire, military dispatches said.

The Russians claimed that the Germans and Rumanians who drove wedges into the north and south defense lines had been stopped and that the foe never reached the depth of the fortifications despite a vast superiority in men and material.

Reds Encircled, Nazi Say.

BERLIN, June 23 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command said in a communique today:

"In the northern part of the fortress of Sevastopol remnants of the enemy on the extreme tip of land north of Sewernaja bay have been encircled. . . . Further defense installations have been taken.

"Remnants of a smashed soviet division in wooded territory northeast of Kharkov were annihilated. Six hundred and sixty dead were counted and 946 prisoners and 200 guns were captured."

SURVIVORS TELL STIRRING TALES OF SEA ATTACKS

Several Groups Went Thru 2 Sinkings.

A CARIBBEAN PORT, June 23.—Axis submarine warfare—apparently shifting the bulk of its operations from the United States east coast because of the convoy system announced yesterday — has concentrated the greatest fury of its campaign against united nations shipping in the Caribbean sea lanes in recent weeks. A navy announcement this afternoon reported 13 ships sunk in that area in the 12 day period June 3-14.

Navy reports disclosed that 770 persons, including 135 passengers, were aboard the ships torpedoed during this period Already 635 of this group, including 126 passengers rescued, have been brought ashore at this port. Forty-eight persons are known to have perished and 87 are missing.

88 Lost on U. S. Ship.

In addition, three other vessels were announced officially as sunk off the United States coast. An American merchantman went down off New England with 3 known dead and 85 others believed lost. Eighty-one were rescued. A British vessel also was sunk off New England with five of the crew lost and 83 rescued. The third attack in American waters—an Argentine ship—was sunk 100 miles out of New York with a loss of three lives. Thirty-six were saved.

The 13 Caribbean U-boat attacks brought to 308 the ship toll for the Atlantic and adjacent waters since Pearl Harbor. Of this number, 268 have been sunk in American coastal waters with 1,555 killed, 1,785 missing and believed lost, and 8,998 rescued.

Crews Are Undaunted.

The undaunted crew members of many of the Caribbean ships already have returned to sea in new posts aboard other ships.

Meanwhile the streets and shops of this port are crowded with hundreds of survivors. Many calls have been made upon local citizens for clothing inasmuch as the stocks of local stores already have been restricted and depleted by the exigencies of the wartime shipping and supply situation.

Survivors carrying the lifebelts which saved their lives are a familiar sight at present. They display autographs placed on the lifebelts by fellow passengers. One crew member wore his life belt everywhere ashore, even while eating.

Saved His Life Twice.

"This belt saved by life twice," he said. "I'm not going to part with it."

Three sets of survivors here are survivors of two sinkings. Their own ships had been torpedoed, and likewise their first rescue ships. Then they were brought ashore by a second rescue boat.

The 87 missing are believed to still be adrift in lifeboats or possibly to have been rescued by ships traveling to distant ports which they have not yet reached.

A statement issued by naval authorities praised "the maritime regulations making possible effective launching of lifeboats and life rafts" and pointed to "complete coöperation between friendly merchant ships and naval vessels which effected rescues."

Full Fury on June 10.

A recapitulation disclosed that the axis attack struck in its fullest fury June 10 when five united nations' ships were torpedoed.

One of the groups which survived two sinkings consisted of 17 United States seamen headed by Capt. H. G. Beck, 38 years old, of Houston, Tex. Their medium sized United States cargo ship was sunk the night of June 4 and a British merchantman which picked them up was sunk early in the morning of June 10.

Survivors were adrift on rafts for 40 hours after the torpedoing of their own ship and adrift in lifeboats for 87 hours after the sinking of the second.

Beck reported no submarine was sighted during the attack on his ship, but that a U-boat surfaced after sinking the British merchantman and that the English speaking submarine commander knew the name not only of the British ship but of a second one sunk 15 minutes earlier in the same waters.

The submarine had picked up a survivor from the second British ship and took the occasion to transfer the seaman to the lifeboats.

"Went Down Like Rock."

Discussing the torpedoing of his own vessel, Beck said it "went down like a rock" after being blasted by a torpedo amidships.

"The men on deck barely had time to jump for rafts as the ship went down under us," he continued. "Nobody got out from down below—three men in the engine room and 12 in the crew's quarters."

A story of heroic United States seamen who disregarded danger to rescue fellow crewmen was told by Capt. Robert M. Pierce, 41, of San Pedro, Cal., skipper of a medium sized United States cargo ship that was sunk June 11.

The skipper disclosed that two torpedoes ripped into his ship's sides about 10 a. m. and that the explosion from one demolished the crew's quarters, pinning several men below deck.

Altho the vessel began to settle fast, deck seamen rushed below to free their imprisoned comrades from débris.

Rescue Eight Injured.

They managed to carry eight injured men to the deck above just as the water began to splash aboard the sinking ship.

The crew managed to get all three lifeboats away and had to wait only seven hours for a rescue ship which brought the captain and 33 of his 37 men safely to port.

Pierce reported that the enemy submarine surfaced after the attack and took motion pictures of the sinking merchantman and the lifeboats. The submarine remained in the vicinity for perhaps an hour.

A U-boat commander wearing riding boots and possessing a good command of the English language except for inability to pronounce the letter "T," directed a torpedo attack which sank a United States passenger cargo vessel June 12. The ship carried 108 passengers.

201 Believed Still Adrift.

Rescue vessels already have brought 172 survivors ashore and the rest of the ship's complement of 201 are believed still adrift in lifeboats, all of which had time to clear the stricken vessel after it was hit about 9:25 p. m.

James R. Glover, 25, of New York City, third officer of the ship, said the navy gun crew aboard the passenger ship remained at stations until the last but could not locate the raider.

Later, when the lifeboats were picking their way thru débris in the black of the night looking for additional survivors, "the sub surfaced right beside his boat," Glover said.

"He [the captain] asked about food, and we said we needed cigarets. He looked the boat over very carefully and then said coldly 'You can have 24 cigarets.'

'See You in Hell First.'

"At that, one of the fellows in the back of the boat yelled 'I'll see you in hell first.'

"The sub commander laughed, handed over the cigarets and left."

Glover said the U-boat's first torpedo hit the passenger ship well forward to starboard—"There was a big flash of flame just ahead and below where I stood on the bridge. I was standing the watch. The second torpedo hit right under us on the starboard side, about 50 feet aft of the first."

Chief Engineer Frederick Tyler of New York City got his biggest excitement next day when the lifeboat in which he was traveling was followed for a long portion of the day by a submarine.

"We could see its periscope popping up every now and then," he reported.

Mrs. Edna T. Johansson of New Orleans, stewardess and sole woman aboard the ship, expressed the wish that she were a man so she could wreak physical revenge on the axis attackers.

Mrs. Johansson, 48 year old mother of four children, plans to go right on doing her bit aboard ships.

"They Don't Scare Me."

"They don't scare me," she said. "If I was a man I'd go after them [the Germans] and I don't mean maybe!"

Mrs. Johansson was in a hallway of the ship when she heard a crashing noise and felt "the ship swing like jelly."

All knew immediately that the ship had been torpedoed. "I went to the boat deck," Mrs. Johansson said, "and started to open the door to the outside. As soon as it opened just a few inches, I could see it was like a cyclone outside—things were flying all around—everywhere. I closed the door and went back to the salon where I always leave a little emergency bag of clothes and things. And then the second 'B-L-A-M' came.

"We went on deck after that. It was so dark we couldn't see who was who. Some one saw me and shouted to put me in a lifeboat first.

Sub Lights on Lifeboat.

"We got away from the side of the ship almost right away. That sub had its lights on us. It was only about 350 feet away. I never saw a light as bright as that light.

"There were 32 in our boat—mostly passengers. Every one had life-belts. There was a big rain during the night. The boys had to bail out the boat. When morning came we put up our sail and soon a plane came over, and, boy, did that look good to us!"

Survivors of a medium sized United States cargo ship torpedoed June 13 told of the bravery of a navy gun crew that remained on duty altho one torpedo split the gun deck and another exploded a magazine below them.

Only when water was lapping over the deck's edge, gas fumes were rising from the shattered magazine and the attacking submarine had yet failed to surface, did the sailors finally leave the ship.

Sinks in 12 Minutes.

The stricken vessel plunged beneath the waves almost immediately thereafter—just 12 minutes from the time the first torpedo struck at about 1:30 p. m.

Altho the ship settled fast, all 56 members of the crew managed to get safely away in two lifeboats. One seaman subsequently was lost overboard from a small rescue craft, but the other 55 reached here in safety.

Ensign Malcolm S. McLeod, 22, of Bellingham, Wash., commanding the gun crew, praised the heroism shown June 13 by Second Engineer Abe Ediger of Kansas City.

"None of us would have been here now had it not been for Abe Ediger," the young naval officer said. "It was Ediger who took charge in the engine room when the torpedoes hit. He ordered his firemen and oilers above to safety and then himself set the engines full astern—in order to stop her. If he hadn't stopped her it never would have been possible to lower a single lifeboat."

Skipper Rescued

Capt. Luis P. Scalese, skipper of the Argentine freighter Rio Tercero, which was sunk 120 miles out of New York on Monday. Capt. Scalese and 35 of his crew were rescued and brought to New York yesterday.

'BLOWN TO HELL'; 88 LOST

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Eighty-five persons were missing, three United States soldiers were known dead, and 81 persons rescued when a medium sized United States merchant ship was torpedoed and sunk in the Atlantic, the navy announced yesterday. Unless the missing are rescued, it may prove one of the worst American ship disasters in these waters since Pearl Harbor.

At the same time the Argentine government announced from Buenos Aires that its freighter, the Rio Tercero, which was sunk Monday 100 miles from New York, was the victim of a German submarine. Thirty-six survivors, including one passenger, reached New York aboard a naval patrol vessel and five were missing. Survivors said that American planes bombed the U-boat before it could submerge.

Second Argentine Casualty.

The announcement brought a new element into the relations of neutral Argentina and Germany which only last week apologized for torpedoing the Argentine tanker Victoria.

The American ship went down in three minutes when two enemy torpedoes found her 75 miles off the Atlantic coast on June 15.

Many of those aboard were trapped in their cabins below deck when the ship, running at full speed at night suddenly heaved over on its side and then went down before its 10 lifeboats could be launched.

23 U. S. Soldiers Saved.

The survivors, including 23 United States soldiers, brought to a New England port by vessels which were nearby when the ship sank, said "she was blown to hell."

There was not even time to fire the deck gun at the raider before the ship listed. Only a few lifeboats could be cut away to help the men struggling in the water.

Capt. Arthur E. Buck, 51 years old, a pilot for the British admiralty, said "I don't know why every one wasn't killed. . . . The torpedoes apparently tore the ship in half, causing a list of 70 to 75 degrees."

THREE ABOARD FROM CHICAGO.

Three of those aboard the vessel torpedoed off New England are from Chicago. Their names and biographical data follow:

Henry S. Love Jr., 18 years old, seaman second class, reported missing, was married last March 28. His wife, Joy, 18, whom he met at a dance at the Service Men's center, lives with her parents at 7309 Dante avenue. He was graduated a year ago from high school in Gillespie, Macoupin county, where his parents live.

Corp. James A. Boula, 28, a survivor, is the only son of Mrs. Mathilda Boula, a widow who runs a grocery at 3834 West 24th street. He enlisted in the army a year ago. He called his mother last Sunday and said he was happy and feeling good.

Corp. Don G. Moore, 23, was severely injured and is in a hospital at Brighton, Mass. Prior to his enlistment in the army, he lived with his grandmother, Mrs. Alice Gurnea, 622 Naperville street, Wheaton. He had been in Iceland since March and was returning to the United States to enter officer's training school.

RETURN TO SHIP, DROWN

A NEW ENGLAND PORT, June 23 (AP).—The story of a merchant skipper and two other officers who perished after returning to a torpedoed British freighter in an attempt to bring it safely into port was told today by survivors.

The rescued men—83 members of the vessel's crew and three passengers—were landed at an east coast port after their large freighter was torpedoed the night of June 15 about 75 miles off the New England coast.

Paul Stansbury, 26 years old, the third officer, told the story—a very black night, a submarine no one saw, and two torpedoes.

Crew and passengers abandoned ship, all safely excepting an oiler who died in the first explosion and an engineer who was trapped by a grating at the top of an engine room ladder and drowned.

Skipper Goes Back.

At daybreak, with the vessel settling slowly but still afloat, the survivors were taken from lifeboats by a rescue ship.

Capt. H. C. Jeffery, his chief officer, Philip Munday, and an officer of the rescue ship returned to the freighter in a small boat with five other men and signaled that they could get the torpedoed ship into port.

Then, Stansbury said, the after bulkheads must have given way suddenly, for the ship began to settle rapidly.

The three officers jumped into the small boat, tied at the torpedoed freighter's side, and as the merchantman sank it dragged the small boat and its three men with it.

The five others were thrown clear and managed to crawl aboard a life raft that washed clear of the sinking vessel.

More Space Is Leased for Draft Organization

The Chicago office of the selective service organization soon will occupy the seventh as well as the sixth floor at 105 West Monroe street. A lease for the seventh floor was approved yesterday by the Probate court in connection with the settling of the estate of Cyrus H. McCormick.

549 Enroll in a Night for Illinois Tech War Training

The Illinois Institute of Technology announced yesterday that 549 men had enrolled in its war training courses on the first night of registration. It is expected that 2,000 will be enrolled in the summer courses, in which instruction is given at night to workers employed in war industries. Registration will continue each night thru Friday on the Armour campus at 3300 Federal street.

GERMANS, FINNS HUNT FOR SOVIET SUBS IN BALTIC

Swedish Ore Carrier Sunk in Territorial Waters.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 23.—German and Finnish naval units and a squadron of Italian motor torpedo boats are searching the Baltic sea for soviet submarines which recently escaped from the Kronstadt naval base thru the great mine fields in the Finnish gulf.

The Swedish foreign office reported officially today that the Swedish ore carrier Ada Gorthon was torpedoed and sunk in Swedish territorial waters yesterday off the southern coast of the Island of Oland. The ship sank in less than a minute and 14 members of the crew, including all the officers, were drowned. Swedish fishermen reported sighting a submarine periscope.

Four Ships Hit in Week.

The total number of ships known to have been sunk or damaged in the Baltic during the past week is four. This includes a Danish ship en route to Finland which was torpedoed between the Island of Gotland and the Swedish coast. Its cargo of butter kept it afloat and it is now in Visby harbor. The other ships were operating between Finland and North German ports.

Now that Kronstadt has succeeded in sending subs into the Baltic, it appears the Germans consider it imperative that this last naval base of Russia on the Baltic be captured. The Germans have brought Italian and their own storm boats to fight on the Finnish gulf near Kronstadt.

Intensify Attacks on Kronstadt.

Artillery bombardment of Kronstadt has been intensified during the last 10 days by Finnish batteries at Terijoki and German batteries at Peterhof. Kronstadt, lying in the Finnish gulf almost directly between Peterhof and Terijoki, is seven and a quarter miles long and a quarter of a mile wide, and is so strongly fortified that the Germans thus far have made no attempt to storm it. A few miles west of Peterhof is the fortress of Oranienbaum, which is still held by the soviets.

Kronstadt has been bombed nightly by formations of 50 or more Stukas [dive bombers], which have reduced to ruins the town of Kronstadt which formerly had 100,000 inhabitants. Great explosions have also been reported in the six great forts on the island.

THIRD TORPEDOING OF ARGENTINE SHIPS CREATES NEW CRISIS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 23 (AP).—Argentina is taking a "serious view" of the sinking by the German submarine Innsbruck of the freighter Rio Tercero, with the loss of five lives, and will announce, probably tomorrow, what steps will be taken to obtain satisfaction from Germany, Roberto Gache, undersecretary of foreign affairs, announced tonight.

"It has been clearly proved that the Rio Tercero was sunk by a German U-boat," Gache said. "We know this because the captain went aboard the submarine after the torpedoing." He declined to give additional details of Capt. Luis P. Scalese's visit aboard the submarine, which claimed the first loss of Argentine lives in three sinkings since the war started.

[Capt. Scalese disclosed in a broadcast to Latin America that United States airmen and patrol seamen were responsible for the rescue of the survivors. He expressed the thanks of the crew to the air force and the navy.]

Strong police reënforcements were thrown about the German embassy and patrolmen were assigned to guard German business houses. Three socialist members of congress moved for a quick investigation of the torpedoing.

Informed sources said tonight President Roberto Ortiz is planning to address a message to the nation warning that "the destiny of Argentina is indissolubly bound to that of the democracies" when he submits his resignation, expected soon.

FIRE DRIVES 100 TO STREET.

More than 100 Negro residents of a four story brick apartment building at 53 East 31st street fled to the street last night when fire started there. The flames were quickly extinguished.

PRESS CONTINUES TO LAUD TRIBUNE CORAL SEA SERIES

Johnston's Stories Hailed as Finest of War.

In letters, telegrams, and editorial comment the newspapers of the United States are continuing to congratulate THE TRIBUNE for making available to them Stanley Johnston's dramatic stories of American heroism and success in the battle of the Coral sea.

Mr. Johnston was the only American correspondent with our fleet and escaped with the officers and enlisted men of the aircraft carrier Lexington when the gallant vessel sank. His story was exclusively THE TRIBUNE'S. But this newspaper regarded the report as a historical document and considered it a patriotic duty to let the great news services and their members carry the articles without cost.

More than 40 Comment.

In all there have been more than 40 expressions of appreciation and thanks from the news services and representatives of the individual newspapers. Excerpts from some of the more recent expressions of appreciation follow:

MIAMI HERALD, John D. Pennekamp, managing editor—In expressing our appreciation for the Stanley Johnston series, I should like to say that we consider it the best thing that has come to the morning side.

INDIANAPOLIS STAR, James A. Stuart, managing editor—Perhaps you have taken it for granted that all newspapers appreciate the generosity of THE TRIBUNE in giving all Associated Press newspapers the right to print the dispatches of Stanley Johnston, but I want you to know the Star is particularly grateful, since we are so near to your field. The present war has produced nothing finer in newspaper writing.

Praised in Editorial.

RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH [editorial]—The stories by Stanley Johnston on the battle of the Coral sea . . . are in some ways the most impressive journalistic achievements of the war. . . . He is a member of the staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and THE TRIBUNE, recognizing the immense importance of his detailed circumstantial account, made the report available without charge to the two principal news agencies.

MACON TELEGRAPH, Clair Johnson, managing editor—Your generosity in making the fine Stanley Johnston articles available to us . . . is one of the finest journalistic gestures I recall. Johnston's stories are without question the top eyewitness accounts to come out of this war.

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, A. H. Kirchhofer, managing editor—We are grateful no end for your generosity in making it possible . . . to publish Stanley Johnston's stories. His dispatches haven't been excelled.

Calls Series Superb.

WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, B. M. McKelway, managing editor—I wish to express the Star's appreciation of THE TRIBUNE'S graciousness in making generally available the superb series of stories on the Lexington fight by Stanley Johnston. . . . Everybody is talking about them. When you see Mr. Johnston tell him for me that, in my opinion, he has done the outstanding job of war reporting—and writing—up to this time.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, E. M. Boyd, telegraph editor—Johnston sea battle series a journalistic masterpiece. Please convey congratulations to the writer, and thanks to THE TRIBUNE for making his articles available.

PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, Dwight S. Perrin, managing editor—Stanley Johnston's stories on the Coral sea are among the finest that have come out of the war. Congratulations . . . and thanks for the generosity which prompted you to release his stories thru the Associated Press.

"Best Reporting" of War.

LOS ANGELES TIMES, L. D. Hotchkiss, managing editor—Stanley Johnston's series on the Coral sea battle is, in my opinion, the best reporting to come out of the war so far. In his vivid account he paints a picture . . . which brings home the fact that given the equipment our armed forces are superior fighters and we need have no fear of the ultimate outcome of the war.

MEADVILLE [PA.] TRIBUNE, Robert S. Bates—I wish to express my appreciation to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for its splendid spirit of coöperation in making available the series of Coral sea battle stories by Stanley Johnston. It is an outstanding series.

HELENA INDEPENDENT, Law Risken, editor—Stanley Johnston's first hand accounts of the Coral sea battle are at the top in war reporting.

CUMBERLAND [MD.] NEWS [editorial]—Johnston deserves praise for his daring heroism, which has matched our fighters . . . as does THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for its enterprise in having a man of his caliber on the job . . . and in sharing [the stories] with the general public.

"Neglected Own Interests."

GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE [editorial]—THE TRIBUNE neglected its own interests that the entire country might get as many of the details of that magnificent [Coral sea] action as it could absorb. It is another proof of how, when danger looms, the nation draws together as one.

BALTIMORE SUN, Paul Patterson, publisher—We are deeply appreciative of your action in putting Johnston's dispatches at our disposal.

The Sun already had printed an editorial commending the stories and THE TRIBUNE. Frederic F. Stevenson of the magazine Parade wrote: "In my opinion, the articles by Stanley Johnston are the finest pieces of reportorial writing to come to my attention for a long time."

GEN. HALE NAMED HEAD OF AIR FORCE IN HAWAII

HICKAM FIELD, Hawaii, June 23 (AP).—Appointment of Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale as commanding general of the 7th air force, covering all army air units in the Hawaiian area, was announced today.

Gen. Hale replaced Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, reported missing in the battle of Midway Island earlier this month. He served under Tinker since his arrival in the islands.

DRAFT REGISTRATION FOR YOUTHS 18 TO 20 SCHEDULED JUNE 30

Chicago's 132,480 young men between 18 and 20 years old will register for selective service June 30 in local draft board offices, Col. Louis A. Boening, assistant state director, announced yesterday. Officials expect another 25,920 to register in the rest of Cook county.

Altho the official day is June 30, advance registrations may be made on Friday and Saturday of this week and next Monday to prevent registration jams, Col. Boening announced.

Draft offices will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Friday and Saturday, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Monday, and 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on June 30.

Those who must register are: All male residents 18 and 19 years old and those who have become 20 since Dec. 31, 1941. Only the 20 year olds are subject to military service now.

Selective service headquarters in Washington announced that the youths will be given serial and order numbers on the basis of their birth dates. No national lottery will be held as in other registrations.

Local boards, the announcement said, will arrange the registration cards in a pile according to respective birth dates so the cards of registrants born on Jan. 1, 1922, will be on the top and those born on June 30, 1924, at the bottom. When the board has cards for two or more registrants born on the same date, the cards will be arranged in alphabetical order.

In response to the government's "Buy coal now" drive, THE TRIBUNE yesterday completed storing 3,500 tons of Illinois screenings coal to be burned next fall and winter in its heating, power, and air conditioning plants.

This amount is substantially the paper's fuel requirement for September thru March, according to Chas. B. James, purchasing agent of the Tribune company. Bunker and storage space in the tower is sufficient to hold two or three weeks' supply, ample in ordinary times, but to store enough for the coming heating season required the rental of considerable storage space and handling facilities, together with the purchase of a type of coal better suited to long storage and considerably different from what has been used in the past.

Sent Up Waterway.

The shipment arrived Sunday at the docks of the Hoskins Coal and Dock company at 901 North Halsted street and was the first of its kind to come up the Illinois waterway. It was sent early and by water to coöperate with the government's plea for early buying and relieve congestion on rail transportation systems in wartime use.

The movement of such a large shipment of coal would have required more than 60 freight cars. Instead, this coal which was mined and loaded at Ziegler, Ill., was moved by rail only as far as the Mississippi river, where it was dumped into river barges and brought the rest of the way to the dock company where the last of it was unloaded and stored yesterday. Delivery will be made by truck to the tower as needed.

New Grade Costs More.

To eliminate air pockets and so reduce slacking and danger of spontaneous combustion, the huge shipment is to be rolled in four foot layers by means of a heavy track type tractor. The new coal is lower in sulphur content than that heretofore used and costs more than the lower grade types of coal which THE TRIBUNE'S chain grate stokers have been especially built for and ordinarily burn.

The coal came up the river in four barges, pushed by a new type of Diesel towboat belonging to the Marine Transit company. The boat has a hydraulic pilot house which can be lowered speedily for passage under bridges.

MAYWOOD HAILS BATAAN VETERAN WITH A PARADE

More than 50 autos and half a dozen bands formed a parade last night in honor of Lieut. Emmett F. Gibson of Maywood's 192d tank battalion, home on a leave from an eastern post. Lieut. Gibson, who was injured in a collision while on duty in the Philippines, left Bataan on New Year's eve and arrived in the United States on May 25 after a stay in an Australian hospital.

Veterans' organizations, members of the Purple Heart, and Maywood's own Bataan clan escorted Lieut. Gibson from the home of his mother, Mrs. Joseph Craig, 1025 South 10th avenue, to Maywood park.

Gibson told the assembled parents and friends of his comrades in the Philippine fighting, that he believed they are getting fair treatment from their captors, but said he feared they were on short rations.

Gibson will be interviewed at 8:15 tonight over W-G-N.

Parade Held in Aurora for Departing Draftees

Sixty-three draftees marched down the main street of Aurora to the railroad station on their way to a training camp yesterday. They were escorted by units of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish War Veterans, women's auxiliaries of the veteran organizations, city officials, and the Mooseheart High school band.

NAVY RECRUITERS CERTAIN CHICAGO WILL FILL QUOTA

3,107 More Needed to Meet June Goal of 10,000.

Chicago's navy recruiting drive for June entered the final stage yesterday with a total of 6,893 men recruited since the beginning of the month. The quota of 10,000 for the period appeared to be a certainty, according to Lieut. David N. Goldenson, recruiting officer for the area.

The campaign will receive an added stimulus today with a parade thru loop streets of 90 young men who are members of the "Flying Tornadoes" naval air unit. The squadron, recently recruited in Milwaukee, will be sent to the new preflight school at the University of Iowa.

Band to Meet Cadets.

The cadets will arrive at the North Western railroad station at 12:50 p. m. and will be met by officers of the naval aviation cadet selection board and the Navy Pier band.

The parade will move east in Madison street to La Salle, then south to the La Salle street station, where the cadets will board a train for Iowa City.

300 Negro Sailors in Training.

Three hundred Negro sailors are now being trained at Great Lakes Naval Training station, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Comm. Daniel W. Armstrong, white officer in charge of the colored units.

Since June 5 two colored companies have been formed and another is being organized, he said. After their training at Great Lakes the Negro sailors who qualify for additional training will be sent to Hampton institute at Hampton, Va., for specialized instruction in crafts and trades.

CRUSHED BY MEMORIAL TABLET.

Clifford Weaver, Negro, 35 years old, of 2116 Emerson street, Evanston, was crushed to death yesterday by a 400 pound war memorial tablet that apparently fell upon him as he was cleaning it in the Elks' club at 57 West Madison street.

DEMOCRATS RIP BRITISH FAILURE IN WAR CONDUCT

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—As President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill focused their attention on the vital problem of war shipping, grumblings of dissatisfaction over British conduct of the war were voiced on Capitol hill.

Criticism of Britain's military leadership came from the Democratic ranks at the time a demand was voiced in the house of commons that Churchill return home at once to explain, if he could, reverses in Africa and the Mediterranean. It was expected that American dissatisfaction would echo from the floor of the senate when that body resumes its sessions Thursday.

Says They "Fell Down."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender [D., La.] charged that Britain "fell down on the job" by holding a large army at home with the result British forces in North Africa were captured.

"If any of our destroyers are being used to help supply an army which is inactive, they should be brought home to protect our own shipping," the senator said.

"I feel the American people are pretty tired of sending food and war weapons to England and having England, with an army of 4,000,000 men, sitting at home on its haunches doing nothing.

Says Americans Wonder.

"I'm confident that a lot of American people are wondering as I am why we should keep on sending our war materials and having a good deal of it captured.

"As a matter of fact much of it could have been used in defending our own country against the unpardonable submarine menace presently visiting our shores."

Ellender asserted that Britain had been waiting for many months for an invasion attempt that "never may be made," and suggested that "as few as 100,000 men could have been spared to help drive the Germans out of Libya."

Views Are Echoed.

The senator's views were echoed thruout the capital, largely in Democratic ranks, most of the senators expressing concurrence asked that they should not be quoted at this time. Among those who supported Sen. Ellender openly was Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.].

"I am alarmed by the fact that by doing so much for other countries we are neglecting our home defenses," Wheeler said. "Now we are in the war it is proper that we do all we can to help Russia, Britain, and China, but first we ought to see that our own shores and our own coastal shipping is protected."

The White House conference, which dealt with shipbuilding and ship use, was described by White House Secretary Stephen T. Early as one of the most important discussions of the current meeting between the two united nations' leaders.

Shipping Officials Present.

Ranking navy and shipping officials of the British and American governments were summoned to the conference, which lasted an hour and a half. Mr. Roosevelt canceled his semi-weekly press conference to continue deliberations with Churchill, which were described in an intermediate statement last night as looking toward "the earliest maximum concentration of allied war power on the enemy."

Among those who participated in the conference today were Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet; Vice Adm. S. M. Robinson, chief of the navy's office of procurement and material; Rear Adm. Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission; Rear Adm. Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the maritime commission; Lewis W. Douglas, deputy administrator of the war shipping administration; Harry L. Hopkins, chairman of the American section of the munitions assignment board; W. Averell Harriman, lend-lease expediter; Sir Arthur Salter, British minister of shipping; Adm. Sir Charles Little, British representative on the combined chiefs of staff, and Adm. J. W. Dorling, British admiralty supply representative.

None of those attending the shipping conference gave any indication of the nature of the discussions.

Early said today's series of conferences would continue thruout the day. Yesterday's series did not break up, he said, until the small hours of the morning.

PARLIAMENT URGED TO CREATE A JEWISH UNIT IN BRITISH ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—Four members of the house of lords and 11 members of the house of commons have joined a new committee to urge the creation of a Jewish fighting force under Jewish officers within the British army, it was announced tonight.

The committee advocated that 12,000 Jewish volunteers in Palestine should be the basis of the force, and predicts that if this is done a further 21,000 Jewish volunteers would be immediately forthcoming. Between 40,000 and 50,000 Jews, it suggests, should be allowed to form a Palestine home guard.

Those joining the committee in support of a Jewish fighting force include Lords Lytton, Davies, Melchett, and Strabolgi, and m. p.'s Vernon Bartlett, Daniel Frankel, Richard D. Denman, Sir George Jones, Creech Jones, Geoffrey Mander, F. C. Watkins, James Walker, George Ridley, Samuel Hammersley, and Miss Eleanore Rathbone.

CANADIANS FACE HIGHER INCOME AND GOODS TAXES

OTTAWA, Ont., June 23 (AP). — Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley tonight announced sharp general increases in Canada's income, service, service, and commodity taxes to help meet new war budget estimates of $3,900,000,000—an increase of almost $1,000,000,000, or one-third, over last year's expenditures.

The new taxes will add about $377,850,000 to Canada's revenue during the year, Ilsley said, but this would still leave the income $1,850,000,000 short of the expenditures. The increased income tax will be collected at the source and will raise an estimated $115,000,000. A married man with an income of $2,000 a year and without children will be liable to a tax of $431 a year instead of $175.

Of that amount, $231 will be the tax and $200 will be considered as compulsory savings, to be refunded after the war at 2 per cent interest. Excess profit taxes will be increased from 75 to 100 per cent, and levies on tobacco, liquor, soft drinks, furs, transportation, telephones, chewing gum, jewelry, photographic supplies, and other goods will be increased.

CHARGES BRITISH O. K. RED AIMS IN SCANDINAVIA

Promised Atlantic Ports, Swedish Paper Says.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 23.—The newspaper Goteborg Morgenpost published a sensational article today in which it declared that Russia had been promised domination over northern Scandinavia and seaports on the Atlantic by Great Britain.

The newspaper's editor said that he had obtained the information from a diplomat of high standing.

According to this source, the paper said, the understanding which Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia reached recently in London with the British government included five points which were not mentioned by either the British or Russian governments.

"Claim Recognized in Principle."

These points of the protocol were said to be as follows:

1. The soviet government's claim for security and improved strategical borders with Finland, the Baltic states, Poland, and Rumania was recognized in principle by the British government.

2. Those regions and countries of Europe near or in the vicinity of soviet frontiers, including Finland, northern Scandinavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Jugo-Slavia, the British government recognized as being in the sphere of soviet influence.

3. To protect Russia from further aggression from the axis powers the soviet government is to establish bases and garrisons in the above mentioned countries and regions and is to be guaranteed a secure and free egress from the Baltic sea into the North sea and from the Black sea into the Mediterranean.

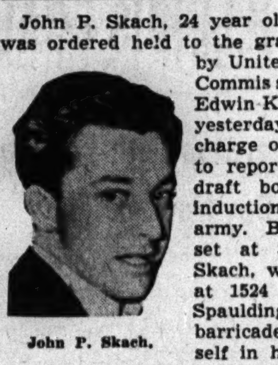
Share in Control.

4. The British government agrees that the soviet government should have a connection with Great Britain in military and political control over Finland, Germany, Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria for an unspecified period after the war.

5. Both countries agree to collaborate in taking the necessary measures to liquidate national socialism, Fascism, and similar forms of government in Europe.

Some authorities questioned by the Tribune correspondent believe that it is possible that the story is a plant, but they point out that all the points mentioned coincide perfectly with the previously voiced ambition of the soviet government and that Sweden is naturally interested in having a more precise declaration from Great Britain as to whether the century old ambition of Russia to obtain control over northern Scandinavia and so reach the Atlantic has been thus recognized by the British government.

DRAFT DODGER WHO DEFIED POLICE FOR 10 HOURS IS HELD TO JURY



John P. Skach.

John P. Skach, 24 year old typist, was ordered held to the grand jury by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday on a charge of failure to report to his draft board for induction into the army. Bond was set at $2,500. Skach, who lives at 1524 South Spaulding avenue, barricaded himself in his home for more than 10 hours Monday when Fillmore police attempted to arrest him. When Joseph Tobin, assistant United States marshal, and several deputies armed with axes and sledgehammers arrived at the scene, however, Skach gave himself up without a murmur.

MAYOR'S DEFENSE TALK OPENS N. U. LECTURE SERIES

Mayor Kelly, speaking as coördinator of civilian defense for the metropolitan area, last night opened a series of summer lectures, "Civilians in the War," in Scott hall of Northwestern university. His subject was "What Civilian Defense Means to Americans."

He explained that his territory covers the area from Waukegan to Gary and Wheaton on the west and that it was his purpose to exchange ideas with audiences whenever possible.

The mayor said there are now 900,000 persons registered for various civilian defense duties in this area. "The war can come here as well as any other front," he said. "But we have an unbeatable supply of muscle, brains, and production lines."

Increase Cargo Insurance Rates in Mediterranean

LONDON, June 23.—The seriousness of the middle eastern situation was reflected tonight in the announcement that the Institute of London Underwriters had increased the cargo war risk rates from Britain and America to Mediterranean ports from 25 to 40 per cent. For voyages between the Americas and Haifa or Alexandria the rate is now 20 per cent against 15 previously.

5 Camp Forrest Battalions Are Ordered to Fort Sill

Camp Forrest, Tenn., June 23 (AP).—The army announced today that the 122d, 123d, 124th, and 210th field artillery battalions and the 3d battalion of the 130th infantry would leave Thursday by motor caravan for 30 days of fire duty at Fort Sill, Okla. The trip, via Memphis, will require four days.

EXPECT OUSTER OF TEACHER IN SEDITION CASE

School Board Will Give a Verdict Today.

Whether Mrs. Rose K. Joyce, the first Chicago teacher to be tried before the board of education on charges of making allegedly seditious statements to pupils, is to be discharged or retained will be made known by the board today. From reliable sources it was learned last night that the dismissal of Mrs. Joyce is probable.

The testimony of the teacher, who is on the Hyde Park High school staff, and her pupils in a history class has been weighed by the board members for a month. Some of the witnesses contradicted others in regard to what she had told her class. There has been no denial that she wrote a letter congratulating a former pupil, David Nyvall Jr., for his refusal to register for the draft.

"The Hope of America."

"You and others who take your stand are the hope of America," she wrote to Nyvall, who subsequently was convicted and placed on probation in federal court.

At her trial Mrs. Joyce said she believed Nyvall's stand was wrong, but that he deserved encouragement for his courage in sticking to it.

As to her classroom statements, it was agreed that she had written a pledge of loyalty to America on her blackboard and asked the students to memorize it.

However, the board is believed to have accepted the testimony of the majority of witnesses in deciding that Mrs. Joyce had made numerous remarks judged to be subversive. Among these was the alleged statement on Dec. 8 that "the Japanese were justified at Pearl Harbor"; Mrs. Joyce and several pupils contended that she said the Japs "believed" they were justified.

Other Comments in Class.

The board was informed that she had told the pupils that the United States was wrong in excluding Japanese and in refusing them citizenship, that this country wanted to get into the war, and that Hitler was attempting to create a democracy in Europe.

Another accusation was that she had termed "wrong and dangerous" Stephen Decatur's famous toast, "Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong!" This she admitted, saying she preferred a parallel quotation coined by one of her former instructors, which concluded: "If she's wrong, help right her!"

She testified that she wanted to do everything possible to help win the war.

Mrs. Joyce had been a teacher for 16 years, and her record was considered excellent prior to her suspension Feb. 27 on a charge of "conduct unbecoming a teacher."

GERMAN PLANE SHOT DOWN IN NIGHT RAID BY BRITISH DEFENDERS

LONDON, June 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—A German plane was reported today to have been shot down during a night raid on England.

The Nazi submarine base and shipbuilding port of Emden was pounded with hundreds of tons of explosives and fire bombs by the royal air force Monday night in its offensive to obliterate German ports and industries cities one by one.

The naval base "probably looks very much like Cologne, Rostock, and Luebeck now," an informed source said.

NIGERIAN CHIEF OFFERS 3 SONS TO KILL HITLER

LONDON, June 23—(AP).—The chief of a bow and arrow tribe in Nigeria has offered to send three of his strongest sons to Germany to kill Adolf Hitler.

"I have many sons. I can easily spare three of them to put an end to the man causing so much trouble. They will stalk and kill him like any jungle beast."

INSURGENT M. P.'S MOVE TO ATTACK CHURCHILL RULE

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—A motion of no confidence in the British government's conduct of the war was drafted today by insurgent members of the house of commons. Drawn up by a group headed by Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Conservative, the motion will confront Prime Minister Churchill upon his return from the United States.

This is the first direct challenge to Churchill since he took over the reins of government after the disastrous British attempt to drive the Nazis out of Norway. All other votes of confidence were demanded by the prime minister himself.

The motion pays tribute to the heroism and endurance of the British armed forces, but expresses "no confidence in the central direction and the grand strategy of the war." As Churchill is minister of defense, the motion is tantamount to a vote of censure.

Churchill May Demand Vote.

Churchill has already been informed over trans-Atlantic telephone of the political revolt brewing in commons and according to the political correspondent of Lord Beaverbrook's London Express, the prime minister with his colleagues has decided to resign if a substantial vote is returned against the government at the end of the two day debate on the conduct of the war.

Churchill himself, it was suggested, may precipitate matters by demanding a direct vote of confidence in the government, which will leave Wardlaw-Milne open to introduce the counter motion as an amendment.

If Churchill should resign, it is understood that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who has gained considerable prestige from his negotiation of the new treaty with Russia, may be offered the premiership. Next in line would be Lord Privy Seal Sir Stafford Cripps, but his elevation to leadership of the government would of course mark a radical change from the present setup and break up the Conservative party rule.

Attlee Makes Statement.

The rebel members of commons moved to condemn the military direction of the war after Clement R. Attlee, Churchill's deputy, delivered a statement on the Libyan campaign and the recent Mediterranean sea and air battle—a statement which was greeted for the most part in dour silence.

The underlying irritation, anger, and dissatisfaction of members of parliament flared into explosive cheers when Wardlaw-Milne, who is chairman of the parliamentary select committee on public expenditures, demanded an immediate debate to determine "where the blame lies" for the British 8th army being "outgunned, outtanked, and outgeneraled" in Libya.

The same critical outburst occurred during a debate on a financial measure—seemingly remote from the major strategy of the war. But Austen Hopkinson, Nationalist, enlarged the field of discussion to ask: "What value are the British people getting for the millions they are pouring down the drain?"

Calls Equipment Defective.

He brought up the "Libyan incident," which he contended "all the world knows was due to our equipment being utterly defective."

Attlee said in his statement:

"The position is difficult, but the fight for Libya continues. We will have strong forces in the field. Substantial reënforcements, both land and air, which already have been dispatched, are arriving, while others are on their way. Any further advance by the enemy, who also have had heavy losses, will be stoutly opposed by our ground and air forces."

Attlee also summarized the Mediterranean convoy battles which preceded the climactic Libyan fighting. He discloses "serious" British losses, which included one light cruiser, four destroyers, and two smaller escort vessels sunk.

Gives Axis Sea Losses.

Against this, he said, the axis lost to combined American-British air and British naval action, one 8 inch cruiser, two destroyers and a U-boat sunk and "one battleship torpedoed." Previous official reports said two Italian battleships, the 35,000 ton Littorio and the smaller Conte di Cavour, had been hit by American bombs or British aerial torpedoes.

He disclosed that two convoys were started for Malta, one from the west and one from the east, in order to divide the axis forces which were certain to attack in heavy force.

The eastbound convoy, he said, reached Malta June 16 "altho with serious losses." The westbound convoy, after moving supply ships into Tobruk, cruised while British and United States planes from Malta and Egypt attacked the main Italian fleet which was maneuvering to bar the convoy's passage to Malta.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK IN CELL.

Edward Schultz, 26 years old, 919 Madison street, died of a heart attack in a cell at the Des Plaines street police station yesterday shortly before he was to have appeared in court on a charge of disorderly conduct.

GENERAL'S STORY OF LIBYA DEFEAT: 'TOO EXHAUSTED'

Tells of Key Battle of Minefield Gap.

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck's official account of the fight for Libya declared that it was a battle to exhaustion in which the British 8th army was too far spent to deliver a decisive stroke at the one stage when Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel "had literally fought himself to a standstill."

The general's report covered action up to June 20, but did not include the details of the fall of Tobruk which was announced a day later.

Auchinleck's account, read in the house of commons today by Clement R. Attlee in the absence of Prime Minister Churchill, said that by the time the 8th army was able to counterattack in the key battle of the minefield gap west of Knightsbridge, the British ran into a "fierce counter stroke" and suffered heavy losses.

British Commander's Report.

The report from the British commander in the middle east said:

"An enemy attack during the last few days of May was expected and preparations had been made accordingly. The 8th army, on positions stretching from El Gazala southwards to Bir Hacheim, was waiting for this attack. The royal air force began counteroffensive action about a week beforehand. The enemy's first attempt to encircle Bir Hacheim and our forward troops was met by our armored forces in the Knightsbridge-El Adem area.

"Most bitter fighting ensued in which the enemy was constantly attacked by our armored and air forces.

"At first things seemed to be going well. The enemy, in spite of the gap he forced in our mine field, was having difficulty with his supplies and all our efforts, including intense air attack, were devoted to increasing his embarrassment.

Crucial Moment in Battle.

"This was probably the crucial moment in the battle. The enemy was exhausted and had literally fought himself to a standstill.

"Had we been able to take advantage of the enemy's condition we might have turned the scale. In point of fact, however, we were equally exhausted and this was impossible. On June 3 the enemy succeeded in overrunning the 150th brigade and established for himself a forward post in our mine field area.

"In an attempt to restore the position and drive him out, Gen. Ritchie counterattacked on June 4.

"According to our information available at the time, the chances of success of this attempt seemed good, and it was preceded by adequate and careful reconnaissance, but it now is clear that was, in fact, premature.

Forced to Withdraw.

"The enemy put in a fierce counter stroke in the face of which we were forced to withdraw with considerable losses. The enemy then concentrated his attention on Bir Hacheim which was garrisoned by the 'Free French' and already had been subjected to heavy pressure for a period of nine days.

"Every effort was made to relieve the pressure on this defended locality by employment of mobile troops. Intense air support was provided by the RAF. However, Gen. Ritchie decided that the risk of maintaining this isolated garrison was too great and he accordingly decided withdrawal from it June 10.

"The 'Free Frenchmen' defended Bir Hacheim with the utmost tenacity and endurance. Their efforts served to delay the enemy and to contain considerable enemy forces. With the fall of Bir Hacheim these enemy forces were released and the enemy pressed his attack in the Knightsbridge-El Adem area.

"Heavy fighting ensued and altho our troops and air forces fought with the greatest skill, three days later we were forced to abandon some positions at Knightsbridge and open the way for the enemy to break thru to the coast and to try to cut off the 1st South African and the 50th divisions in their positions south of El Gazala. Gen. Ritchie decided rightly to withdraw these two divisions, an operation which was carried out with skill and was very largely successful.

"Under cover of our armored forces which held off the enemy panzer [armored] divisions and, under the covering protection which the RAF provided in spite of the fact that they were at the same time engaged in protecting a convoy to Malta, both these divisions succeeded in joining Gen. Ritchie to the east of Tobruk.

"The enemy then pressed his attack in the El Adem area. A fierce battle ensued in which he succeeded in establishing himself east of El Adem in the defended local area at Sidi Rezegh. For four days the enemy was held in the air and on land until eventually Gen. Ritchie decided to withdraw to the El Adem-El Duda-Sidi Rezegh area under effective cover of our air force and concentrate his main strength toward the frontier, leaving what he considered to be an adequate garrison in Tobruk.

"Battle Not Yet Over."

"On the morning of June 20 the enemy attacked Tobruk from the southeast and succeeded in penetrating the perimeter and a position in that portion of the Tobruk area east of the Tobruk-El Adem road. The garrison still is fighting hard and a gallant attempt to save what appears to be an impossible situation is being made. But the fall of Tobruk is imminent if it has not already fallen. The battle is not yet over.

"The 8th army still is in the field and has already received and is still receiving further reënforcements."

PEER COMPLAINS OF DIVIDED CONTROL BY F. D. R. AND CHURCHILL

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—Lord Strabolgi, Labor party leader in the house of lords, complained in a speech at Bedford today of the "divided control" between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

"All these comings and goings of key men across the Atlantic showed there was not real unity of command," he said after declaring that "if a second front had been opened in Europe last autumn the Germans could not have spared the armaments with which Rommel defeated us [in Libya]."

"It is more necessary than ever now to strike at German territory in western Europe over the short sea route," Strabolgi declared, and added it was "strategically wrong" to regard Libya as a second front when supplies and reënforcements had to be sent 14,000 miles.

BLOOD DONATIONS TO BE RECEIVED IN LAKE FOREST

The Red Cross mobile blood donor unit will visit Lake Forest for three days, beginning tomorrow, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, said yesterday. The unit will make its headquarters in Reid hall, Lake Forest academy, and will accept donors thru appointments with the Lake Forest office of the Red Cross. Appointments will be taken between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m., and 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. More than 75,000 persons in the Chicago area have signed up in their communities or industrial plants to give blood for the armed forces when the Red Cross unit visits their locality, Mr. Forgan said.

Glencoe Man, 84, Missing; Police Aid Asked in Search

Relatives of Sylvan Newhall, 84 years old, of 888 Sheridan road, Glencoe, asked the Glencoe police last night to search for him. They said that he had been missing since morning and that they feared he would be unable to identify himself because of a loss of memory.

AXIS MOVES UP HEAVY FORCES TO EGYPTIAN BORDER

American Bombers Blast Bengazi Supply Base.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 23 (AP).—Heavy axis mechanized formations, bringing with them the threat of impending attack, rumbled toward hastily consolidated British outposts near the Egyptian frontier today as American bombers joined the war in the desert with a devastating raid on the axis Libyan supply base at Bengazi.

A dispatch filed by an Associated Press correspondent with the British forces near the Egyptian frontier said big armored units under the command of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel have moved toward the British border positions.

"There is no indication when the battle will be joined but the enemy seemed to be moving the greater part of his armored forces toward this area," the correspondent said.

The bombing attack, in which the United States flyers and the royal air force teamed up Sunday night, left numerous fires in Bengazi, 300 air miles west of Egypt, and caused damage to railway sidings and ship piers, the RAF announced.

Patrols Roam the Desert.

Air scouts reported axis trucks moving up about 12 miles west of the Egyptian border. Roving patrols of both sides prowled the desert southwest of Fort Capuzzo.

Axis reports asserted armored forces already had reached the frontier, and dispatches from the desert confirmed that they had seized Sidi Azeiz airdrome, only 12 miles west of the border. Sidi Azeiz also was the railhead on the line from Matruh, Egypt.

A serious aspect of the situation was the extent of British equipment losses in the last four weeks of fighting, plus the possibility that Rommel will get reënforcements across the Mediterranean soon. It is to prevent the latter that the allied airmen bombed as far away as Greece and Crete in addition to steadily bombing and strafing of Libyan ports, airdromes, and troops on the move.

Raid Transport Vehicles.

The RAF was joined in these sorties by South Africans operating American-made Douglas Boston bombers The South Africans bombed axis transport vehicles between Tobruk, 80 miles from Egypt, and Fort Capuzzo, on the border, and smashed at Baheira airdrome, 28 miles from the border. In addition, the RAF reported torpedoing an axis supply ship in the Mediterranean.

As analyses continued here, seeking the reasons for the reverse in Libya, it seemed more than ever confirmed that the main reason was greater skill on the part of the Germans in handling armored units and artillery, especially the 88 millimeter guns which knocked out so many British tanks.

Shells from this gun are of a semi-rocket type, said to gain greater range by gases produced after being fired.

Raids on Malta Stepped Up.

VALETTA, Malta, June 23 (AP).—British headquarters said tonight that last night's axis raids on Malta were on a larger scale than usual. One axis bomber was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

No Poles Among Forces Captured in Tobruk Fall

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—Polish sources said tonight that no Poles were among the defending forces captured with the fall of Tobruk. A Polish force which had been with the garrison at Tobruk was withdrawn in April, it was stated, and stationed in the middle east with 60,000 other Poles released from Russian prison camps for action against the axis.

TOBRUK ASSAULT CALLED 'WORSE THAN DUNKIRK'

Survivor of Both Tells of Axis Attack.

BY HARRY CROCKETT.

BRITISH ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS IN THE EGYPTIAN DESERT, June 22 [Delayed]—(AP).—A young army truck driver, one of the few soldiers to escape from Tobruk, disclosed today that the British commander there surrendered only when the town was overrun by axis forces which shattered the outer defenses.

"It was worse than Dunkirk," he said, adding that he had seen both.

The driver, Pvt. William George Downes of London, limped into a British advance camp in mid-morning today after surviving machinegun fire, the sinking of a tug in Tobruk harbor and the shelling of a minesweeper at sea.

Assault Starts on Saturday.

The real assault on the eastern defenses of Tobruk started early Saturday morning, Downes said. He had driven out of Wadi Auda, northeast of the town, onto the Bardia road but turned back about mid-day because the shelling became terrific and he sighted German tanks. By that time, he said, shells were dropping everywhere, Stukas were dive-bombing and machineguns and rifles were crackling.

"I made for the docks and got there just as a shell blew up a building behind me," said Downes. "Some ships were leaving the harbor and I got aboard a tug.

"We got two or three direct shell hits amidships and the oil tanks were ablaze. Then a shell hit the stern. I saw sailors jump overboard, so I followed them."

The young Londoner told of the horror of that swim thru the harbor, ablaze with oil. Wounded men were about him in the water—some presumably drowning.

Italians Shell Minesweeper.

He said his cries attracted attention aboard a minesweeper and he was picked up.

By the time darkness fell Tobruk was a roaring inferno of exploding shells and of fighting within the town itself, he said.

Downes said that when he awoke early Sunday three Italian torpedo boats were approaching the minesweeper, whose guns finally were silenced and the ship set afire.

Once more Downes went overside into the oil-coated water. This time he managed to swim to a raft.

Downes and the others were picked up by a British torpedo plane which took them to Matruh, Egypt.

Others who escaped from Tobruk said two unnamed heroes deprived the Germans of valuable supplies by blowing up the docks and themselves.

From far out in Tobruk harbor, they saw the pair standing on the docks loaded with munitions and oil. Together, the two pushed down plungers setting off five tons of explosives under the wharves.

"There was a blinding flash, and everything around the harbor went up in bits, including the two boys," one soldier said.

Report 40,000 Children Died in French Retreat

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—"Free French" authorities said today that 40,000 children died on the roads of France in June, 1940, in the headlong flight of refugees before the invading Germany army. These figures, the "Free French" said, were given by the French Red Cross society to an assembly held at Nice.

BENGAL PREMIER CREATES A RIVAL MOSLEM LEAGUE

India's Fight for Freedom Boils Up Again.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW DELHI, India, June 21 [Delayed].—Indian internal politics blazed into lively activity today with the announcement of the formation of a new 100 per cent Moslem party following on the heels of a conference between Mohandas K. Gandhi and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru.

Gandhi and Nehru, who are still numbers one and two of Indian politics, met with Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, president of the All-India Congress party to confer on policy. They have not disclosed their decisions, but have been telling the world that their demands for Indian independence remain unchanged.

On top of that Abul Kasem Huq, prime minister of Bengal who was recently drummed out of the Moslem league, announced his plan to form a "Progressive All-India Moslem league" to replace what he called "the present un-Islamic Moslem league."

Compares Self with Mohammed.

Huq compared himself with Mohammed in a manifesto sent to Moslem leaders and issued to the press. He branded charges of plotting with the opposition and disloyalty to his party—on which he was expelled from the league—as the work of ambitious rivals.

"What happened in my case has been nothing new or peculiar," he said. "Thruout the ages even the prophets and messengers of God have not been able to escape either the vicious tongue of the traducer or the malicious pen of the prejudiced writer. Even our holy prophet has not only been no exception to the rule, but perhaps the most conspicuous exemplifier. I am not, therefore, surprised at what has happened to me."

The 3,000 word manifesto ended with the suggestion that it is essential to the Moslems to have a new political organization to safeguard their interests in place of the present league, which, he charged, is run by "a coterie who are autocratic in their dealings and who do not allow a free expression of public opinion."

Invites All to Join.

He pointed out that the president of the Moslem league is accountable to no one for his decisions and added that the league does not include certain important groups of Indian Mohammedans.

He announced the formation of an organizing committee in Calcutta and invited leaders all over the country to join the new league.

An effort by C. Rajagopalachari to bring the All-India Congress party and the Moslem league together has merely stirred up his fellow members in the Congress party. Nehru said he thought it did harm to the very cause it was intended to help because many Hindus took it as approval of the idea of having separate Moslem states.

Nehru insists on concentrating on fundamentals. If Britain gives real independence he maintains that Hindus and Moslems will be able to work out their own solutions to other problems.

Asks Unconditional Liberty.

However, he demands that independence must be unconditional. He calls for "transfer of political power completely to India or a decision on the part of the British to do so without raising any arguments as to what the people of India should do about it."

The British have always insisted on preliminary arrangements for safeguarding minorities.

Nehru announced last Wednesday that he and Gandhi agreed on their demand that the British leave India. He explained that it did not mean the British as individuals, but the British government.

Whatever disagreements they have, there is no danger of friction between Nehru and Gandhi splitting the party. Whenever Gandhi, the master, disapproves, his disciple, Nehru, still bows to his will.

Meanwhile Gandhi continues to stress his theme—no violence toward any invader, but no coöperation with any foreign ruler, whether British or Japanese.

Disagrees in Doctrine.

Nehru says that he disapproves of the policy of nonviolence and urges that the Indians fight for their country—but only if the British turn over the government to them.

Nehru often seems to disagree with Gandhi, but it is only over doctrine, not over action. None of the persons who know Indian internal politics expects Nehru to lead any bolt from Gandhi's policies.

Nehru is a thinker. He is a man of integrity, but he is not the kind of a person to sway the masses away from Gandhi's leadership.

Report U. S. Submarines Sink 4 Jap Ships Off China

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—A Reuters dispatch from Chungking said today that United States submarines operating off the east China coast are reported to have sunk four of seven Japanese vessels which recently left Hongkong for Shanghai.

COAST GUARDSMEN RESCUE SEVEN.

Leonard Feldman, co-owner of the Feldman Petroleum Products company, and six friends were rescued by coast guardsmen yesterday after the motor of Feldman's launch failed 10 miles off the Chicago harbor light.

DUTCH QUEEN LEAVES CANADA TO VISIT U.S.; SEES HARD STRUGGLE

OTTAWA, Ont., June 23 (AP).—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, her daughter, Princess Juliana, and grandchildren, the princesses Beatrix and Irene, left late today for Lee, Mass. Juliana and the two little girls will spend most of the summer at Lee, where the royal family has leased a residence.

In a farewell message to Canada the queen said "a hard and difficult struggle" faced the united nations and that she had been heartened by the "immense and sustained war effort" of the British empire, including Canada.

She plans a trip to Washington and a return trip to Canada before going back to London.

STALL JAP DRIVE TO LINK SHANGHAI WITH SINGAPORE

Invaders Reinforced to Take Railway Line.

CHUNGKING, China, June 23 (AP).—The Japanese drive to open an all-rail route from Shanghai to Singapore and thus obtain communications immune to sea attack has been stalled, at least temporarily, on two of the vital fronts. The Chinese are counterattacking successfully at some places, government sources announced today.

But the invaders have reënforced their armies in the Chekiang-Kiangsi theater, where they are trying to forge one part of the link, and, for effective counterblows, the Chinese need more weapons from their allies, a spokesman said.

Since June 16 the jaws of the Japanese trap have remained stationary, unable to close a 50 mile gap on the 450 mile loop of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway looping southward from Hangchow and Nanchang, the spokesman said.

Chinese Recapture Towns.

Today the high command reported that the Chinese attacking behind the eastbound spearhead had recaptured several points on the outskirts of Linchwan [Fuchow], 45 miles southeast of Nanchang in Kiangsi.

A counterattack behind the westbound forces also succeeeded in regaining temporary possession of Wuyi, south of Kinhwa, Japanese held capital of Chekiang, the Chinese said, but a reënforced Japanese column struck back, accupied the town again, and advanced to the south.

Some of the bitterest fighting reported today was in the Honan-Shansi border region north of the Yellow river, where Chinese charged headlong from their destroyed Taiheng hill position.

Gen. Liu Yueh-Ting, a divisional commander, despite wounds, led the charge, was wounded a second time and finally was captured in the bloody struggle. The Chinese said they killed between 400 and 500 Japanese.

Fight Artillery with Rocks.

The communique said the Chinese, who previously were reported defending a mountain pass with rocks, grenades, and machine guns against a foe armed with artillery and planes, were continuing the battle.

The spokesman said Japan's "master plan" to link Shanghai and Singapore by rail line thru China, Indo-China, Thailand and Malaya was the "key to successful continuation of her war against the united nations."

The Japanese plan envisages seizure of the rest of the Hangchow-Nanchang line, then a drive southwestward from Nanchang to grab the line connecting with the Hankow-Canton trunk railway below Changsha in Hunan province, and a north and south pincers to get control of the latter line.

Practical Joker Leaves to Try and Trick Japs

FRENCH TRICOLOR LEGION TO FIGHT U. S. AND BRITAIN

Linked with Government Thru Officials.

VICHY, France, June 23 (AP).—Blaring headlines in the collaborationist French press trumpeted today the formation of a Laval government sponsored "tricolor legion" which "will fight Russian barbarism and also against American imperialism or Anglo-Saxon greed."

This new organization was described as an "enlarged, officialized legion of French volunteers" which will replace the original French unit recruited by Laval for service with the Germans on the eastern front.

"It will henceforth fight everywhere French interests are involved—in Europe as in Africa," said the Paris newspaper Aujourdhui. "It will represent eternal France everywhere her honor or her rights are threatened. It will defend our customs as it will our empire.

"Ready for the English."

"Thanks to it, tomorrow, Mers-El-Kebir, Dakar, Damascus and Diego Suarez will be avenged and the English punished for their crimes and their rapine. The tricolor legion can await without fear the imminent offensive the British radio will unleash against it. It is ready for the English on the battlefield."

High government officials sponsoring the new legion include Jacques Benoist-Mechin, secretary of state in the foreign ministry, who is chairman of the central committee of the legion; and Paul Marion, secretary of state for information. It also will be linked with the official French Veterans' Legion thru Joseph Darnand, veterans' delegate to the government.

They all had the expressed blessings of Laval in the venture.

Laval Addresses Comrades.

The tricolor legion was born as Laval himself was addressing a meeting observing—a day late—the first anniversary of the German invasion of Russia. His audience included Fernand de Brinon, the French representative in Paris, and such fellow collaborationists as Marcel Deat, Jacques Doriot and Benoist-Mechin.

News of the new legion was displayed above news telling of Laval's speech last night in which he reaffirmed his fervent desire for a German victory and exhorted Frenchmen to go to work in German industries as part of a bargain for release of farmer war prisoners.

In a telegram today to Laval, Adm. Jean Darlin, chief of French armed forces, gave hearty approval to this "moving and courageous address."

Will Face British Bombs.

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—French workers who volunteer to work in German industry in response to Pierre Laval's request will be working in areas which are "targets for British and United States air forces," a foreign office commentator said today.

One "Free French" spokesman said Laval's speech was that of a man "unable to deliver the goods" demanded by his masters. He said Laval was attempting to capitalize on recent allied reverses.

Each French worker "will release a German worker for service with the German armed forces and the course of the war will be prolonged," the commentator said.

28 TUNERS BATTLE ARMY OF SOUR NOTES IN FORT PIANOS; WIN

A small army of piano tuners advanced determinedly on Fort Sheridan yesterday and after four hours of technical maneuvers wrested victory from 40 obstinate pianos.

The instruments for the most part were donated to the soldiers by the citizenry and for months tunes in a variety of keys and discords have been pouring out under the fingers of the soldier pianists.

Last night all that was ended. There was melody sweet and pure in the fort as soldier singers strained to get their voices back in tune with the revitalized pianos.

The tuners, who swarmed over the battered instruments with high glee, were 28 members of the American Society of Piano Tuner Technicians, led by Alfred H. Utterberg, 6747 Sioux avenue.

Arrangements for the tuners' visit were made by Mrs. Otis Heath of Winnetka, vice chairman of the Fort Sheridan Volunteers' committee.

AUSTRALIANS FLY OWN BOMBERS IN WAR ON U-BOATS

[By wireless to The New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 23.—Air Minister A. S. Drakeford today announced that Australian airmen are flying Australian built Beaufort bombers in an anti-submarine campaign from Australian bases in coöperation with other allied aircraft.

Drakeford added that is part of the reorganization of the RAAF fighter defense extending over a vast area of Australia.

"There has also been a gratifying flow of combat aircraft from overseas," he said. There are many bomber, fighter, and reconnaissance squadrons. Not a vital part of the whole continent is unprotected by combat aircraft, American or Australian. Tho some RAAF airdromes were transferred to the United States air force, training of the RAAF has been maintained.

a secret meeting of the Dies committee last week after a violent controversy between its anti-Communist members on one side and Rep. Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.], a young New Deal Jacobin, on the other.

Voorhis, an intimate friend of many of the Communists and fellow travelers named in the report, not only denounced the document but impugned the motives of those who subscribed to it. Other members in turn attributed great significance to Voorhis' extraordinary solicitude for the Communists.

The report was approved by Rep. Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the committee, who is in Texas; Rep. Joe Starnes [D., Ala.], acting chairman; Rep. Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.] and Rep. J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.].

Only Voorhis voted against it. Rep. Joseph E. Casey [D., Mass.] was absent and did not see it. The seventh member, Rep. Harry P. Beam [D., Ill.], said he had just returned, had not seen a final draft of the report, and did not know whether he would sign it.

Alien Parallels Shown.

The report states that the essence of totalitarianism is the destruction of parliamentary government. In some countries, as in Hitler's reich, it notes, the old forms of parliamentary government have been retained but the reality has been utterly effaced.

The report points out that the Communist ideology of Karl Marx is no less strongly opposed to parliamentary government than Hitler's Nazi dictatorship. It quotes the following statement from a volume titled, "The Theses and Statutes of the Third International," an official Communist textbook: "Communism repudiates parliamentarism as the form of the future; its aim is to destroy parliamentarism."

The report states that current efforts to "purge" individual members of congress are based upon "an assumption which reflects discredit upon the entire legislative branch of government. That assumption consists of the view that the sole remaining function of congress is to ratify by unanimous vote whatever wish is born anywhere at any time in the whole vast structure of the executive branch of government, down to the last whim of any and every administrative official."

Exposes Time's Rôle.

"Henry Luce's Time magazine has been drawn sucker fashion into this movement to alter our form of government by attacking its legislative branch," the report continues.

"Time's part in the attack takes a generalized form which is clearly directed against congress as an institution. Time's issue of May 25, 1942, gives a two page spread to the attack made upon congress by the Union for Democratic Action [with which this report is principally concerned] and then Time adds its own indictment in the following words:

"'Few men nowadays challenge the assertion that for leadership the people now listen to the government's executives, take counsel from the nation's press [whether they agree with it], get their debates and oratory from radio forums—but they watch congress mainly for laughs.'"

The report says it is not alleged that Luce is a Marxist, but that his magazine "has of late contributed much to the effort to undermine popular confidence in one of the essential branches of our form of government."

Field's Paper Named.

"Our investigation has shown," the report continues, "that a steady barrage against congress comes from Marshall Field's PM [sometimes described as the uptown edition of the Daily Worker]; from the New Republic, one of whose editors, Malcolm Cowley, was recently forced out of an $8,000 government job by the exposure of his Communist activities; from the two Communist party publications, the Daily Worker and The New Masses; and from the Union for Democratic Action.

"Following the pattern of The New Republic and The Union for Democratic Action, the magazine New Masses, weekly organ of the Communist party, features an article entitled 'Wanted, A Victory Congress.'

"This article also ridicules the congress of the United States and publishes pictures of the members of congress in exactly the same fashion as that used by Henry Luce's Time Magazine. The article in the New Masses was written by Bruce Minton, alias Richard Bransten, alias Richard Bandenstein."

Backgrounds Reviewed.

The report discusses in detail the backgrounds and associations of leaders of the Union for Democratic Action, which initiated the "purge" movement with the publication of its 32 page document titled, "Wanted: A Congress to Win the War." An elaborate chart shows the connections of the Union's 50 principal leaders with 25 separate Communist or Communist front organizations.

Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr (left), Granville Hicks, and Freda Kirchwey (right).

Of the 50 leaders, 27 are listed as former officers, directors, or associates of the American League Against War and Fascism, which was branded a Communist front organization by Attorney General Francis Biddle in his deportation order against Harry Bridges. These 27 leaders of the Union for Democratic Action and former associates of an organization that openly advocated sabotage of our national defense are discussed as follows:

Thomas R. Amlie [director of the Washington bureau of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the national executive committee of the American League Against War and Fascism.

Leroy E. Bowman [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the arrangements committee which founded the league and was a member of the executive board [the league's small governing body] as well as a member of the national executive committee of the league both before and after it changed its name.

Eleanor Brannan [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was chairman of the New York City division of the league and also on the league's national executive committee and its smaller executive board.

William F. Cochran [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the league's national executive committee and also a sponsor of the league's Baltimore branch.

George S. Counts [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the national executive committee of the league both before and after it changed its name.

Henry David [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a contributor to Fight Magazine, official publication of the league

Melvyn Douglas [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a national sponsor of the league.

Louis Fischer [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a contributor to Fight magazine.

Margaret Forsyth [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was national treasurer of the league. She also was a member of the league's national executive committee and of its smaller executive board. Miss Forsyth was national chairman of the women's committee of the league.

Frank P. Graham [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a national sponsor of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

Lester Granger [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a contributor to Fight magazine.

J. B. S. Hardman [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the arrangements committee which founded the league. Hardman's real name is Jacob Salutzky.

Francis Henson [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action and member of the Union for Democratic Action's research council] was co-executive secretary of the league with Donald Henderson, a publicly avowed Communist party member.

Gardner Jackson [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a national committee member of one of the league's subsidiary organizations, the National Peoples' Committee Against Hearst.

Freda Kirchwey [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a national committee member of the league's subsidiary, the National Peoples' Committee Against Hearst.

Ludwig Lore [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was among the signers of a national manifesto issued by the league.

Reinhold Niebuhr [chairman of the Union for Democratic Action] was chairman of the principal meeting of the United States Congress Against War, at which the league was founded. Niebuhr also was a member of the national executive committee of the league.

A. Phillip Randolph [board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action] was a national sponsor of the league's subsidiary, the China Aid council.

M. B. Schnapper [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a contributor to Fight magazine.

Maxwell Stewart [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the league's national executive committee and a contributor to Fight Magazine.

Ashley P. Totten [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the league's advisory board.

Jacob Weinstein [sponsor of the Union for Democratic Action] was a contributor to Fight magazine.

Howard Y. Williams [organizer for the Union for Democratic Action] was a member of the arrangements committee which founded the league.

These 27 Union for Democratic Action leaders were associated with the American League Against War and Fascism, according to the report, in 1936, when the official program of that organization, adopted at its third annual congress in Cleveland, O., called for work "toward the stopping of the manufacture and transport of munitions in time of peace or war . . . thru mass demonstrations, picketing and strikes" and "to promote and support refusal of workers to handle all materials of war."

Turns "Purge" Into Boomerang.

The report points out that the union's special "purge" supplement of the New Republic purports to analyze the votes of members of congress on 10 measures in the field of foreign policy and 10 in the field of domestic affairs. While pretending to be concerned with winning the war, the Union of Democratic Action calls for a "purge" of various members of congress who have given the administration 100 per cent support in the field of foreign policy, the report states.

Thus, according to the report, the Union for Democratic Action betrays the fact that its interest in winning the war is secondary and that "it belongs to that relatively small group of radicals who are trying to use the war emergency to advance their own revolutionary programs within the United States."

The report states that Reinhold Niebuhr, chairman of the Union for Democratic Action, "has been a prolific exponent of Marxist philosophy."

The report quotes statements in Niebuhr's book, "Reflections on the End of an Era," indicating his Marxist inclinations and points out that he has been the secretary of an organization calling itself the United Christian Council for Democracy, the platform of which states: "We reject the profit seeking economy and the capitalistic way of life with its private ownership of the things upon which the lives of all depend."

Of Lewis Corey, alias Louis Fraina, the union's research director, the report says:

"Better than any one else, Louis Fraina fits the characterization of the original communist in the western hemisphere. The first communist convention held in the western hemisphere was convened in Chicago on Sept. 1, 1919. The assembled delegates elected Louis Fraina as their temporary chairman. At that convention—a photograph of which is in the files of our committee—Fraina assumed the leading rôle in drawing up a program for the overthrow of the United States government. Among the planks in that first communist convention's platform—a plank written personally by Fraina — was one which reads as follows:

"'Participation in parliamentary campaigns, which in the general struggle of the proletariat is of secondary importance, is for the purpose of revolutionary propaganda only.'

First Red Editor in U. S.

"Inasmuch as Fraina has now entered the American 'parliamentary campaign' of 1942 as the research director of the Union for Democratic Action, it is enlightening to have his own words describing the purpose of such campaigns.

"Louis Fraina was the first communist editor in the United States. With headquarters in Boston, Fraina edited the Revolutionary Age, a magazine devoted to the overthrow of the United States government. In an issue of his magazine dated July 12, 1919, Fraina called for 'the annihilation of the fraudulent democracy of the parliamentary system.' The early issues of Fraina's magazine are in the files of our committee.

"Louis Fraina served on the executive committee of the Communist International. His communist activities extended to many countries. For a period of time he was stationed in Berlin. Lenin commissioned Fraina to go to Mexico to organize a communist revolution.

Backer of 1932 Ticket.

"In 1932, after Fraina had assumed the name of Corey, he participated in the election campaign on behalf of the Communist party's candidates, William Z. Foster and James W. Ford.

"In 1934 Fraina published his most important book, 'The Decline of American Capitalism.' The volume appeared under the name of Lewis Corey. Fraina's conclusion, incorporated in the last sentence of his 600 page book, was stated as follows:

'American civilization depends upon communist revolution, and, given the dominant economic position of the United States, the victory of the American working class will make a mighty contribution to the building of world socialism and a new world civilization.'"

1,000 Angry Swedes Chase Nazi Leaders to Police

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 23.—Eight Swedish Nazis yesterday tried to stage an open air rally in the public square of the small southern port of Traelleborg. They were chased by the rest of the population—more than 1,000 people—who shouted "Down with traitors," into the police station, where they ran to avoid a lynching. Traelleborg is the Swedish terminus of the train-ferry line connecting Sweden with the German port of Sussnitz.

British Miners Accept Pay Plan; Strikes Continue

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—While miners' delegates in conference in London today unanimously accepted the government's proposal for a nation-wide weekly minimum wage of 4 pounds 3 shillings [$16.60] for pit workers, 2,500 men at a Stoke-on-Trent colliery struck for an increase of 2 shillings 10 pence [about 58 cents] a shift. The miners ignored their union's plea to return to work.

FOUR YANKS TAKE TOUGHEST BATTLE COURSE IN STRIDE

British Give 'Em Works in Irish Hills.

BY RICE YAHNER.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND, June 23 [Wide World].—To find out what a man can do—and prove it to himself—they "exhaust him and then—exhaust him again" on the "give 'em hell course."

And four young United States army officers have proved to themselves—and incidentally to some of the toughest soldiers of the British army—that they can take the worst of the famed battle course and come up for more.

Just since Singapore have the British devised the training method to attune their men to war and instituted it to develop peak endurance and initiative in the individual—then demand a bit more.

The four United States officers who went thru the training grind for three weeks are Lieuts. Robert Rushton of Red Oak, Ia.; Donald M. Andrews, Webster City, Ia.; Arnold Brandt, Austin, Minn., and Goodman G. Greller, Minneapolis, Minn.

Toughen Others Now.

They went back to their units to give United States troops the same toughening.

"That kind of stuff either puts you in shape or kills you," declared 26 year old Rushton, dripping perspiration and puffing from a walk and trot of 2½ miles in 15 minutes. He obviously was speaking for his three companions, wringing wet with sweat, dirty water and mud from sloshing, slithering, and slogging over the Irish hills, streams, and bogs of the seemingly interminable battle course.

"If you'd told us a week before we started this thing that we were going to run and walk 15 miles in two hours we'd told you you were crazy," chimed in Andrews, as chunky as Rushton was slim.

"We've doubled [time] up hill, doubled down hill, done spider crawls, jumped off walls, thrown ourselves at barbed wire," Rushton puffed. "I've never drunk so much water in my life, and I never felt better. But look at my belt. It was tight when I started, but I could put a pillow in there now."

"Every Soldier Can Do It."

Only halfway thru the course the four young officers were fighting mad. The battle course is designed to change their frame of mind as well as their physical condition.

"And, boy, if we can do it every American soldier can," said Brandt, a 6 foot 2, 200 pounder. "I don't know how much weight I've lost—haven't had time to get weighed—but I know my pants don't fit and I have to take up my pack straps every day."

Tuned up physically, the officers are griping like happy soldiers.

"If we can do this much we can do anything," said Andrews. He, like all the rest, had been in none too exerting jobs in the army. In civilian life all four had been white collar workers.

Then, on less than a day's notice, they were turned over to British instructors who had known the stress of battle and had lived "on the double" for months.

Weaklings Weeded Out.

Originally there were 45 men in the class which the four United States soldiers joined. Halfway thru the course there were only 30, but all the Americans were still there, dropping themselves down sheer stone walls by knotted ropes, pulling themselves up quarries hand over hand, crawling thru reeds or snaking themselves over oozy ground.

And all this with machine gun and rifle bullets whopping about 10 feet away from their legs, land mines exploding so close that the concussion whipped their clothes and showered them with mud.

"Hell, explosions don't worry us anymore," says Rushton. "All we want to do is get the job done and get back." Maj. Robert Bickersteth, 34 year old Scot, says the Americans "put their backs into it."

"In other wars you could move soldiers into quiet sectors, then up into reserve where they could experience war and inure themselves to it without too great danger," the major explains.

"The campaigns of this war have taught us that all must be done before the men are exposed to the enemy They might find themselves in a scrap anytime wherever they are."

43 BILLION ARMY APPROPRIATION IS VOTED BY HOUSE

Provides for 4,500,000 Men, 185,000 Planes.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—With the house gravely disturbed by an admission from a war department leader that this nation's position in the war is at the crisis stage, members today took up, considered, and approved a bill appropriating nearly 43 billion dollars for the army. The roll call vote was 352 to 0. It now goes to the senate.

"The war department regards our present situation as the most critical which this country ever has encountered," declared Lieut. Gen. J. T. Mc Narney, army deputy chief of staff, in testifying at a secret session before the committee which reported the measure.

In five hours of debate, speakers reflected the seriousness which these words outlined.

Highlights of Bill.

Boosting the nation's three year war expense total to approximately 205 billions, the bill provides:

1. For an army of 4,500,000 at the end of 12 months.

2. For an additional force of 23,550 planes, which the army says fulfills its part of the President's program for acquiring 60,000 planes this year and 125,000 next year. The army's share of this 185,000 new plane program is 148,000 planes.

3. Twelve billion 700 million dollars for war materials for the united nations, making a total of almost 63 billions in lend-lease aid.

The nation is now spending 38 per cent of its vast income for war, Chairman J. B. Snyder [D., Pa.] declared. But he said Great Britain is spending 55 per cent; Canada, 45 per cent, and Germany an estimated 60 per cent.

Shows Spiraling Costs.

Figures made public by Snyder showed that this nation spent 145 billion dollars for peace and war between the period of 1789 and 1939, inclusive. Spending in 1940 totaled $9,127,400,000; in 1941 it was $12,774,900,000, and in 1942 [thru June 15, half a month short of the full fiscal year], $30,204,400,000.

The astronomical character of these amounts and the stupendous sum in the pending bill led debaters to discuss war problems. One was the seriousness of the rubber situation.

In that part of the secret hearings made public, Brig. Gen. L. D. Clay of the general staff asserted that the army, navy, and marine corps face a 25,000 ton rubber shortage for their program up to 1943.

Clay disclosed by inference that we are sending rubber to our allies under the lend-lease program, computing the needs of our own forces and those of other nations at an estimated 866,000 tons. The program is thus helping to promote the rubber shortage in this nation. It was indicated by his testimony.

Civilian Needs Add to Load.

"If we add essential civilian uses, such as busses and trucks," he testified, "we will need 1,092,000 tons."

There is available for use in the United States approximately 841,000 tons for the same period, Clay said, and synthetic rubber producers have estimated they can turn out 328,000 tons during the same period. Stocks of rubber in Great Britain, he added, are estimated at 160,000 tons.

So impressed was the committee by this evidence that it called on the American people "to desist immediately from using their automobiles for any other than the most essential purposes if the boys at the front are to carry on."

But there is no fear that our fighting men may go cold or hungry, the committee found. Enough wool and cotton are available for all and there is plenty of wheat to feed the army without considering the possibility of rationing the civilian population, they heard.

Maj. J. S. Kennedy, of the office of the quartermaster general, said the quartermaster corps has undertaken a wool conservation program involving steps to reduce wool content wherever practicable without injuring military requirements.

Gen. Gregory said that as far as he knows there is no shortage of sugar in the army, or for probable needs of the army during 1943.

The bill carried $11,316,898,910 out of its $42,820,003,606 total for 23,550 new planes and spare parts for them.

BULLITT NAMED AS ASSISTANT TO NAVY SECRETARY

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—William C. Bullitt, a former ambassador to Russia and France and more recently a personal representative of the President, was sworn in today as a special assistant to Secretary of the Navy Knox.

The navy issued this announcement:

"Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announces that William C. Bullitt has agreed to accept an appointment as special assistant to the secretary of the navy and was sworn into office this afternoon.

"The duties of Mr. Bullitt's office are for such special assignments as the secretary of the navy may make.

"Mr. Bullitt, personal representative of the President of the United States with the rank of ambassador, resigned that office, effective today."

TRUCK COSTING $4,500 RENTED TO U. S. FOR $9,361.05

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—A story of how a second hand truck purchased for $4,500 returned $9,361.05 to its owner thru government rentals, was related today by the house military committee in its report on war department contracts.

The committee said that Mrs. Amanda Coors Elliott leased the 25 ton Autocar truck to Silas Mason company, New York City, contractor for a shell loading plant near Minden, La., for $850.73 a month. Mrs. Elliott, the committee continued, was the wife of Arthur J. Cote, a former superintendent of transportation for the contractor.

The truck, the report said, sold new for $9,000, but was purchased second hand by Cote for $4,500 and "thru negligence and collusion, the government as of April 1, was induced to pay a total rental of $9,361.05," before the committee reported the incident to the justice department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—Importation and distribution of millions of cans of dried eggs from the United States, Canada, and Australia, which will go on sale to the British public tomorrow, was hailed by Food Minister Lord Woolton today as "the successful achievement of the largest piece of food reorganization during the war."

Already 19 million cans aggregating the equivalent of 228 million eggs have been sent out to retailers, and within three weeks another 15 million cans will be distributed. At least one container, equivalent to 12 eggs, should be available for every member of the population within five weeks, it was stated, and subsequently the ration will provide one tin for each consumer every two months.

"This isn't an egg substitute," Woolton emphasized, "it is the egg minus the water and shell."

CHARGES OPA'S GIRL SNOOPERS TRICK GAS MEN

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Rep. Jed Johnson [D., Okla.] said today that Price Administrator Leon Henderson was employing pretty girls as snoopers who thru trickery were causing prosecution of filling station operators for violation of gasoline rationing regulations.

Rep. Jed Johnson.

"Henderson's snoopers," the Oklahoman told a reporter, "go to a filling station with a story that father is in the hospital or has been called away from the city and has taken the family rationing card with him. These pretty girls plead with the filling station man to sell them a few gallons of gasoline anyway. And if they do, they are prosecuted."

The Oklahoman said he had asked the chairman of the house appropriations committee to recall Henderson for further questioning about employment of the alleged snoopers and the necessity for "employing from 25 to 40 lawyers in each state setup" for enforcement of price regulations.

Three Western States Ban Sale of Fireworks

San Francisco, Cal., June 23 (AP).—Sale and use of fireworks in California, Washington and Oregon have been forbidden by proclamations issued by governors of those states at the request of Lieut. Gen. J. L. Dewitt, of the western defense command and 4th army. The ban was invoked because officials felt use of fireworks might play into the hands of fifth columnists and saboteurs.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military services, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

Mrs. E. D. writes: "I am a widow physically unable to support myself. My son is classified in 3-A and is planning on getting married soon. After he is married I will live with my son and his wife. Will the draft board expect my son's wife to support me so that he can be inducted?"

ANSWER: Your son will remain eligible for a 3-A classification as long as you remain totally dependent upon him for support. It is quite unlikely your son's draft board would reclassify him on the ground that his wife could support you.

R. H. writes: "I am 32 years old and married. If I enlist in the marine corps what will my salary be? Also will my wife receive any money and if so how much?"

ANSWER: Your age would bar you from enlisting in the marine corps for general duty. You would be eligible for only limited service, that is, guard duty within the continental limits of the United States. Pay is the same as for general duty. As a private you would receive $50 a month. Any money your wife might receive would have to come as an allotment from your pay.

Mrs. H. G. writes: "My son is entering university in the fall and wants to enlist in the navy's V-1 program. Does the navy pay his tuition, room, and board? Also does he receive any pay from the navy while in school? Can he take any course he wishes or must he take certain ones?"

ANSWER: The navy will not pay any of your son's expenses while he is attending school. If accepted for class V-1, he would be enlisted for inactive duty and consequently would receive no pay until called to active duty. Your son would not be required to take any special courses.

Mrs. S. J. P. writes: "While visiting some friends recently we were discussing the army and it was mentioned that the boys after going to camp and receiving their pay find the army deducted the cost of their uniforms, equipment, etc. Is this true?"

ANSWER: This is not true. Upon entering the army each man is credited with an initial clothing allowance, expressed in terms of money. This allowance adequately covers the cost of a complete outfit of clothing. Each six months he is credited with a maintenance allowance upon which he may draw from time to time as various articles need replacement. The soldier is required to pay only when, thru carelessness, clothing is lost or destroyed.

WAAC Officer Candidates Get Final Interview Today

The last of the 360 6th corps area candidates for commissions in the women's army auxiliary corps will be interviewed today in the corps' office. Applications of those who passed a rigid physical examination and were approved by the corps interviewing boards will be sent to Washington, D. C., for final recommendation. The number of women who will be sent from Chicago to the training school at Fort Des Moines, Ia., which is scheduled to open on July 20, is uncertain.

PLAN RENT RULE IN 5 ILLINOIS AND INDIANA AREAS

Federal rent control will become effective July 1 in Rockford and Joliet, Ill., and Michigan City and La Porte, Ind., as well as in the Chicago metropolitan area, it was announced yesterday in Washington by Price Administrator Leon Henderson. The five districts are among the 60 defense areas in which the government will curb rents.

March 1 rent levels will constitute the "ceilings" in the Chicago and Rockford areas. April 1 rent levels will apply in the Joliet area and the two Indiana districts.

How a MAGIC DISAPPEARING COLOR helps make Bowman Milk your best food at its best

To what strange, unexpected discoveries the paths of science lead!

In 1856, a man named W. H. Perkins set out to discover a way of making artificial quinine. Instead he found for the world a way to make the first synthetic color!

Twenty years later, Heinrich Caro searched for new synthetic colors and found one that also magically tests the quality of milk!

Add a little of this color to a sample of milk and, if the milk is of poor quality, it will shortly disappear. If the milk is of good quality, the color will remain for at least 6 hours.

This is one of the ten tests for quality applied by the scientific testing staff of Bowman Dairy. Bowman Milk must be better than the official standards for fine milk. That's why all Bowman Milk is ten times tested for richness, purity, flavor. It's your best food at its best.

Mrs. Burton learns about Vitamins and Calories
at the
VICTORY HOME CENTER

Mrs. Burton: So many of my friends are talking about the importance of vitamins. I came down to the Victory Home Center to find out more about them. First of all, what are vitamins?

Economist: Many folks are asking that question lately. Vitamins are essential food factors that do not supply energy or build tissue. They simply enable the body to use other foodstuffs properly... a very important job.

Mrs. Burton: Where are vitamins found?

Economist: The protective foods we eat, such as milk, cereal, eggs, meats, fruits and vegetables are the best sources of vitamins. Different vitamins serve different purposes. If we don't get enough food, we feel hungry. But if we are not getting enough of each vitamin, we don't feel up to par. We can't depend on hunger to warn us of vitamin deficiency. So it is important to serve vitamin-rich food.

Mrs. Burton: What about calories?

Economist: Calories are fuel for energy, and the caloric value of any food is the amount of energy it yields when digested. Calories are all-important to health, and should be watched carefully in the foods we eat. The principal food elements that supply calories are proteins, carbohydrates and fat... each is essential to good nutrition.

Mrs. Burton: How can I know how many calories different foods provide?

Economist: By using this caloric chart which lists hundreds of everyday foods, and tells just how many calories each contains. To keep your family in good health, serve them well-balanced meals, and let this convenient chart help you to plan menus and watch your family's calories.

All women are invited to come to the Victory Home Centers, and learn about vitamins, calories and other essential food elements. You'll receive Nutritive Menus and the Weekly Meal Planner as well as the Caloric Chart.

During wartime your family's health is vitally important, and these Centers are planned to aid you in preparing nutritious, properly balanced meals, economically. Visit one of the Victory Home Centers soon.

PRICE CEILINGS FOR SERVICES TO CONSUMER FIXED

much of the average family budget will be saved by the price ceiling on consumer services related to commodities. Both pointed out that the amount spent on services varies greatly, with the extremes probably represented by the self-serving farm family and the bachelor resident of a hotel.

However, every housewife will be able to estimate what the order means to her individually.

Outstanding Features.

1. Automatic licensing, effective July 1, of all persons covered. This is the same type of licensing as was provided in the general regulation; that is, no physical evidence of licenses will be issued, but all sellers of the consumer services covered are nonetheless licensed and subject to OPA action for revocation in the event of violations.

2. A provision permitting sellers of seasonal services—rental of beach equipment at a summer resort, for example—to determine their maximum prices by [A] taking the highest price charged in the corresponding season of 1941 and [B] adding an amount arrived at by multiplying that price by the percentage increase in the cost of living between last season and March, 1942. A table showing these percentage increases is part of the regulation.

3. A provision for prompt adjustment upward of the March ceiling prices of any seller of consumer service who can prove he is suffering substantial hardship because his top prices do not reflect cost increases between February 1 and April 27, 1942, and that continuance of his service is threatened.

Penalties Are Provided.

The penalties for violation in addition to a one year's suspension of the license to operate include criminal prosecutions bearing a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and one year's imprisonment. Civil suits also can be brought for triple damages. All seller offenders are subject to the criminal penalties but they may be applied only to those buyers who purchase OPA regulated commodities or services in the course of trade or business.

Excluded from the ceilings established tonight are all services to an industrial or commercial user, such as factory boiler repairs, storage of commercial goods, laundry service to hospitals, restaurants, hotels, etc., and repairs of commercial vehicles. These and similar services are all covered by the general maximum price regulation and repair under its provisions.

Exemptions Are Listed.

Also exempt from all OPA regulation by the act of congress creating price control are the following:

Compensation paid by an employer to his employés; rates charged by common carriers or other public utilities; rates charged by any person engaged in the business of selling or underwriting insurance; rates charged by any person engaged in the business of operating or publishing a newspaper, periodical, or magazine, or operating a radio broadcasting station, a motion picture theater, or other theater enterprise, or outdoor advertising facilities, and rates charged for any professional services.

Services exempt because they do not relate to a commodity but an essentially personal include those performed by barber shops, beauty parlors, ambulances, athletic and health clubs, bath and masseur establishments, clinics, camps, physicians and surgeons, chiropractors, dentists, and sanitoria.

Must Post Charges.

For the seller who did not supply the same or similar consumer services during last March, the regulation provides that he use the prices of the most closely competitive seller either for the same or for similar services.

Still another method of computing his ceiling is made available for the seller with no March precedent and with no guidance from competition. He may base his legal maximum upon his charges for labor and materials for a comparable service last March.

System of Costs.

If the seller can not use any of these methods of computation his maximum shall not exceed the sum of the following items:

1. Direct labor cost, using the highest applicable wage rate paid in March, 1942, by the seller. If he had no wage rate during March, he must use the highest wage rate for each type of employé paid by his competitors in the same area during March.

2. Cost of material to him. This material cost, of course, must not exceed the maximum price established by OPA, regardless of what the supplier of the service may actually have paid. If the material has no maximum price, the seller must not charge more than the highest price which he or a purchaser of his class, had to pay for the material in March, 1942.

3. A mark-up over labor and materials cost equal percentagewise to the mark-up he made on the consumer service or type of consumer service which accounted for a greater portion of his March gross income.

Seasonal Service Computation.

For consumer services that are purely seasonal or that vary with changing seasons, the price ceiling formula is complicated by allowances for the rising costs of living. A table showing the month to month increase in living costs over the year ended Feb. 28 is made a part of the order. The table follows:

Period—	Percentage.
March 1, 1941, to April 14, 1941	12.9
April 15, 1941, to May 14, 1941	11.8
May 15, 1941, to June 14, 1941	11.1
June 15, 1941, to July 14, 1941	9.3
July 15, 1941, to Aug. 14, 1941	8.5
Aug. 15, 1941, to Sept. 14, 1941	7.6
Sept. 15, 1941, to Oct. 14, 1941	5.7
Oct. 15, 1941, to Nov. 14, 1941	4.6
Nov. 15, 1941, to Dec. 14, 1941	3.7
Dec. 15, 1941, to Jan. 14, 1942	3.4
Jan. 15, 1942, to Feb. 14, 1942	2.1
Feb. 15, 1942, to Feb. 28, 1942	1.2

For a consumer service with a regular seasonal variation the ceiling is the highest for the same season during the year ended Feb. 28, plus a percentage increase of the price equal to the percentage increase in living costs.

Provisions for Appeal.

Provisions are made for sellers to appeal to OPA regional offices for adjustments of their individual ceilings. Any seller may appeal if he finds that his maximum is abnormally low in relation to those for the same or similar services sold by others and that this subjects him to substantial hardship. The appeal is also designed to relieve hardships caused by increases in costs between Feb. 1 and April 27 that were not reflected in the seller's March prices.

These incurred higher costs may include wage increases given after April 27 under a collective bargaining contract or other wage agreement entered into before that date which provides for an unconditional raise by a fixed amount or percentage.

Such seller must be prepared to prove, according to the regulation, that these cost increases can not be absorbed and that they threaten the continued supply of his consumer service.

Picnic for Blind

The cold wind that blew yesterday didn't chill the spirits of the 400 men, women, and children who gathered yesterday in Douglas park for the 22d annual Chicago Woman's Aid picnic for the blind.

Tho guests came well prepared with sweaters and caps, they abandoned the breeze swept lawns in favor of the warmth of the park recreation hall.

The youngest guest at the picnic made his debut in the arms of his mother and, tho he said little, he seemed to enjoy the fête quite as much as the oldsters—several of whom were more than 80 years old. Mrs. Mary Nolan, 80, was the belle of the outing as she sat in a corner—surrounded by admirers—and rendered with her age mellowed voice the strains of religious hymns.

A five piece orchestra, the members of which are blind, provided music to which the younger guests danced.

Open New Bus Line West to Maywood on Friday

The Bluebird Motor Coach lines will begin operation Friday of a new express bus service along Washington boulevard between the loop, Oak Park, and Maywood, John D. Biggs, chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, announced yesterday. The commission has authorized the new service, which will require five buses. Passengers will be picked up and discharged in the loop and at points west of Austin boulevard.

SOME QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT SERVICE CHARGES

Typical Cases Explained by OPA.

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The Office of Price administration tonight explained in question and answer form how its new ceiling on consumer service will effect the public. The OPA statement reads in part as follows:

Q.—What are examples of consumer services? A.—Laundry, dry cleaning, and shoe repairs are some of the most common services performed for consumers. Others are the lubrication or repair of a private passenger car, the developing and printing of amateur films, the repair and servicing of home radio sets and electrical appliances, and the sharpening of household knives and scissors.

Q.—Is the charge made by a parking lot covered by the regulation? A.—Yes, an automobile is a commodity and the storage of a commodity is therefore under the price ceiling.

March Prices Maximum.

Q.—What are the maximum prices on consumer services? A.—The highest prices which the supplier of the service charged in March, 1942.

Q.—Are prices on services standardized by this regulation? A.—No, the regulation simply places a ceiling for each establishment at the highest price it charged for a service in March, 1942. But ceiling prices will vary from shop to shop just as uncontroled prices varied in March.

Q.—If a dry cleaner charged 59 cents to clean and press a man's suit all thru March, is that the highest price he may charge under rgeulation? A.—Yes, 59 cents is the highest price which this dry cleaner may charge. But another dry cleaner who charged 75 cents for the same type of cleaning in March will have a ceiling price of 75 cents.

Q.—When do maximum prices for consumer services become effective? A.—On July 1. On and after this date, no persons furnishing the consumers services covered by the regulation may supply services above the maximum prices.

May Charge Less Than Ceiling.

Q.—May prices be charged below the ceiling? A.—Yes, the regulation does no more than place a top limit beyond which prices can not go.

Q.—In March, 1942 a laundry charged 12 cents for a man's shirt. In April, 1942 it raised the price to 15 cents. What is the maximum price which it may charge beginning July 1? A.—Twelve cents. The highest price charged in March is the highest price which legally may be charged after July 1.

Q.—Some members of a chain of shoe repair shops during March made a special rate of 75 cents for half-soling men's shoes. Other members of the chain held to the customary price of $1. What is the ceiling price in these establishments? A.—The ceiling price has nothing to do with the ownership of the store or service business. The ceiling price is determined for each separate establishment on the basis of the highest price which it charged for a service supplied during March. For any stores which cut the price to 75 cents during the entire month the ceiling is 75 cents. For those which sold as high as $1 the ceiling is $1.

Personal Services Exempt.

Q.—Does the consumer service price regulation put a ceiling on charges for such personal services as haircuts and manicures? A.—No, the definition of "service" in the consumer service price regulation is limited to those rendered in connection with a commodity.

Q.—Are there any other services which are not covered by the regulation? A.—Yes, in addition a list is incorporated which specifically excludes a variety of other services including professional services.

Q.—What about the charges of a garage for the repairs of a private automobile? Is there a ceiling on the rate for a standard repair job, such as a motor tuned up? A.—Yes, if the garage in March made a standard charge of, for example, $3 for a motor tune-up, that is the highest price the garage may charge for a motor tune-up after July 1. If it is a commercial vehicle, the general maximum price regulation applies and sets the ceiling also at highest March levels.

Based on March Practices.

Q.—What control is there over the price if the service establishment did not charge a flat price for a consumer service? A.—In this instance the ceiling is determined by the pricing method, rates, and charges adopted in March, 1942.

Q.—Then if a garage charged $2 an hour in March for work by a mechanic and this charge included profit, overhead, and the use of tools, as well as labor, the garage may not charge above $2 an hour after July 1? A.—That is right.

Q.—Is any provision made for determining the ceiling prices on seasonal services [such as the sharpening of ice skates] which were not generally rendered during March? A.—Yes, for such services the maximum charge is the highest charge made during the last season, plus an adjustment for the percentage increase in the cost of living between the time of the last service and March, 1942. A table of living cost rises is included in the consumer service regulation.

Must Maintain Discounts.

Q.—A tennis racquet shop made a practice of granting a 10 per cent discount on racquets restrung for a college team. This discount was in effect in March. Must it be continued? A.—Yes, a seller may change his customary allowances and price differentials only if the change reduces the selling price.

Q.—Does not the consumer service establishment have to make some list or report of its ceiling prices? A.—Yes, every person supplying a consumer service over which this regulation sets a price ceiling must prepare by Sept. 1 a complete list of the highest prices he charged for all services he supplied during March for which prices were regularly quoted in that month. This report must also show any pricing method regularly used in March and all customary allowances and discounts.

Q.—Is this list open to inspection? A.—Yes, on and after Sept. 1, 1942, it must be available to any one during business hours.

FORD LAUNCHES FIGHT TO HALT U. S. WAR 'CITY'

Surveyors Ejected from Willow Run Area.

Detroit, Mich., June 23 (AP).—The Ford Motor company plans to fight by "every legal method" plans of the Federal Public Housing authority to erect a permanent "bomber city" for workers at the Ford Willow Run bomber plant near Ypsilanti, Mich., Spokesman Harry Bennett said today.

100,000 Workers Expected.

In a letter to Col. F. Charles Starr, Detroit FPHA representative, Bennett said that Henry Ford has denied a request to permit federal surveyors to enter property owned by him, and that he would continue to fight the housing project as "unnecessary, wasteful, and extravagant." About 100,000 workers are contemplated for the plant at peak production.

Surveyors who entered the land without permission recently were ejected and 700 stakes they had driven were pulled up, Bennett said.

"Mr. Ford's position has been sufficiently stated in previous correspondence and he is still of the opinion that the erection of 'permanent' homes on the site you have located is not only a mistake, but an unnecessary, wasteful, and extravagant use of the government funds and vital war materials," Bennett wrote.

Charges Authority Exceeded.

"He further is of the opinion that the Federal Public Housing authority, which is acting thru you in this matter, is exceeding the authority vested in it by congress in promoting a project of this kind, and he, therefore, proposes to resist by every legal method at his disposal not only the acquisition of his property but your continuation of this project."

Opponents of the project have asserted that other Michigan communities in the immediate vicinity of Willow Run have adequate surplus housing space to care for the bomber workers' needs.

Government Rations Beverage Bottle Tops to Conserve Metal

Brewers among those limited to less cap metal than was used last year

Washington—Due to the demands of war industry, even the humble bottle top is on the rationed list! From June 1st on, as provided in the latest order of the Industry Division of the War Production Board, brewers will have to get along with fewer caps than last year.

The new order comes from the same Government division that sent the country's ale and beer cans "off to war" some weeks ago.

With the can gone, and no more tin for bottle tops, the brewers have been capping their bottles with black plate, a light sheet steel. It's this metal that's now been rationed by WPB.

But the beer bottle is in little danger of becoming a wartime casualty, authorities say. The brewers are making a little metal go a long way, by using an even lighter plate for their "caps," and by sending more of their product to market in quart bottles.

Reminding us that there are thirty-two ounces in the quart bottle, as compared with the twelve ounces in the standard bottle, industry leaders point out that the consumer who buys the quart helps make one top do the work of three.

Carl W. Badenhausen, head of P. Ballantine & Sons, adds a comforting note . . . "There's not as much bad news in this rationing order as you might think. War or no war, the quart is a more economical bottle for the consumer.

"For some time past, millions have been buying it by preference, because it saves them money. It's more convenient to carry than three small bottles, and it makes entertaining easy and economical. The quart bottle is a five-glass bottle, and in many cities our quart bottle outsells the standard smaller size."

NAVY ANNOUNCES 315 CASUALTIES IN CHICAGOLAND

Raises Sea Service Total for War to 10,911.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—In its fifth casualty list of the war, the navy department today reported a total of 315 men from the Chicagoland states as dead, wounded, or missing, with Illinois suffering the heaviest losses among the states in the area. Of the total, 14 were reported dead, 1 wounded, and 300 missing.

Chicagoland covers the five states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa. Illinois losses were given as 4 dead and 113 missing. Figures for the other states are: Indiana, none dead, none wounded, and 44 missing; Wisconsin, 2 dead, none wounded, and 38 missing; Michigan, 2 dead, none wounded, and 54 missing, and Iowa, 6 dead, 1 wounded, and 51 missing.

Total Casualties 10,911.

All told, the list carries the names of 98 dead, 8 wounded, and 2,101 missing, raising the total of announced navy casualties to 10,911 officers and men. In its first four lists, the department reported 3,055 dead, 961 wounded, and 4,688 missing. The latest list includes some wounded or dead who had previously been reported as missing.

The large percentage of names under the missing classification is due to the fact that many of these men were serving in the Manila bay region when the American defenses capitulated to the Jap invaders, the navy explained, and probably are now prisoners of war. Or, the department added, some of the missing men may have been rescued at sea and landed in isolated spots from which they may have been unable to communicate with their superiors.

Promise Immediate Reports.

These possibilities, it was disclosed, have been pointed out to the next of kin by the bureau of naval personnel. When definite word is received, the department has promised to notify the next of kin promptly.

The latest list gave no designation of the theaters of war in which the losses occurred but explained that the preponderant share of the casualties resulted from direct action with the enemy. Also included are those who were lost in accidents at sea and in the air on duty directly connected with wartime operations. Natural deaths or accidents not connected with operations against the enemy are not included in the total.

The list, compiled last week, includes losses in the navy, marines, and coast guard which were reported to the next of kin from May 11 to June 6, inclusive. The Illinois and Chicago area names follow:

OAK PARK YOUTH DIES OF WOUNDS AT PEARL HARBOR

Frank C. Allen.

Frank Charles Allen, electrician's mate third class, died in Pearl Harbor Naval hospital on June 12 from wounds received in a battle somewhere in the Pacific, according to word received yesterday by his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Shoop, 140 Harrison street, Oak Park. Allen, who resided with them prior to his enlistment in the navy in October, 1940, was a graduate of Seneca High school and had studied electricity. Services were held at Pearl Harbor.

CHESTER STORES YIELD TO UNION; REOPEN TODAY

Merchants Capitulate in Dispute with AFL.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chester, Ill., June 23.—After a two day closedown of food and department stores in defiance of outside labor agents who had invaded the town, embattled Chester merchants tonight yielded to pressure and signed a contract with the Retail Clerks' International Protective association [AFL].

All the shut stores will be opened for business tomorrow morning, according to Ralph Hirsch, chairman of the merchants' negotiating committee.

He added:

"If you should say the union got everything and we got nothing, you would not be far wrong."

Wages not an Issue.

Wages had virtually nothing to do with the impassé that closed Chester stores. Almost all the clerks affected have been receiving salaries about the $10 to $23 scale specified, altho V. A. Housewright of Lafayette, Ind., vice president of the clerks' union, asserted the scale represents a 15 per cent increase for Chester.

Assisting in the negotiations were Paul Jones of East St. Louis, the organizer who started the picketing after the merchants had insisted upon a contract clause prohibiting coercion and intimidation of clerks in organization activities.

This clause was not in the contract signed tonight, and the union succeeded in inserting a union shop clause which provides that altho a merchant may employ whom he pleases the employé must join the union within 30 days, and the union must consent before the merchant can discharge the worker.

Chains with Independents.

Also attending the 3½ hour conference were representatives of the A & P stores and the Kroger chain, who agreed to stand by the Chester merchants in whatever course they might take. Mark P. Costello, mediator and conciliator from the Illinois department of labor at Springfield, presided.

The real complication facing Chester merchants was the large number of union people employed by the International Shoe company and the Primera knitting mills—more than 800 of them—who have been a strong influence upon public opinion.

With a single exception, Chester's food and department stores had been shut during the dispute.

The decision to stay closed was reached Sunday to protect a merchant whose market was picketed by the union after the union had failed in an effort to force thru a contract providing for a union shop.

Virtually all stores today had posted signs reading: "We are closed because the clerks' union has refused to remove pickets from the Tom Boy market. If you want this store opened, petition the clerks' union."

The only establishments open for business were drug stores, dairies to provide milk for babies, taverns, and restaurants. The one outlying grocery market that did open yesterday and today rapidly sold out. Many housewives protested that their pantries would have been bare by tomorrow night.

Meanwhile, the downtown district was deserted and there was almost no traffic in the streets of this 126 year old town which sprawls more than two miles along a high bluff overlooking the Mississippi river. Public indignation grew hourly today but was divided, some against the union and some against the merchants.

Arthur L. Miller and his daughter, Jean, 14, after he was awarded her custody.

A 14 year old girl was awarded to her father yesterday in Superior court by Judge Joseph Sabath after the girl testified her mother made her cook all the meals.

The girl was Joan Miller, 14 years old. She said she wanted to live with her father, Arthur L. Miller, 36, of 12245 Princeton avenue, a mechanic. The mother, Clara, 34, of 9347 Cottage Grove avenue, became hysterical during the hearing.

Judge Sabath ordered that Joan visit her mother at least once a week and stay with her a week during the summer. "That much cooking won't hurt you," he said. The Millers were married Sept. 27, 1927, and separated Oct. 13, 1941. He has a suit for divorce pending charging cruelty. He was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

WINCHELL CALLED NATION'S ACE OF SMEAR AND HATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Lieut. Comm. Walter Winchell, who fights with words instead of bullets, is the foremost smear artist, purveyor of hate and disunity in America, Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] told the house today.

Last Sunday, in a radio broadcast, referring to an alleged Nazi advertisment, Winchell said that the ad originated with Nazi Agent George S. Viereck and was traced to Fish's office, thru which it was printed.

"His whole object was to infer that I was responsible for the printing of this ad," said Fish. "It is a damnable lie. I had no knowledge of the existence of this ad or anything whatever to do with it. I have investigated the charge and no such ad was ever printed or sent out from my office. If Mr. Hill, a former clerk, had any connection with it he did so outside my office and without my knowledge or consent.

"Invisible in War."

"This venomous commentator's reputation for resorting to personal abuse and vilification is well known to all members of congress. This brave lieutenant commander is invincible in peace but invisible in war and yet continues to publicly flaunt the navy uniform without serving in our armed forces in the midst of the greatest war in our history.

"This slacker stoops to any lowdown device and by the use of innuendoes, inferences, half truths, and falsehoods slanders members of congress who served in combat units overseas in the last war and impugns their patriotism.

"These lowdown, dastardly, and false attacks against members of congress are part of a smear campaign to undermine the faith and confidence of the American people in the congress of the United States. It is about time that the congress enacted legislation to protect itself against such putrid attacks and slanderous propaganda over the radio.

"Advice Not Needed."

"I agree with Rep. Vinson, chairman of the naval affairs committee, who said in effect: 'Let Winchell put on the uniform and enter the navy or take off the uniform and get out of the navy.'

"I believe Winchell's contemptible and malicious attack on me and on my patriotism and Americanism was for the purpose of trying to defeat me for being a noninterventionist prior to Pearl Harbor. However, such fanatical and abusive attacks on my patriotism and loyalty, coming from individuals outside of my district, if continued will only help to renominate and reëlect me by enormous majorities. The American people are fair minded and do not like personal abuse. The people of my district do not need any advice from Walter Winchell in New York City, particularly advice based on falsehoods and malice."

THANK YOU, CHICAGO!

You have shown the way and set the pace for the Nation in the saving of Fats and Greases for vital War Use.

★Once again the famous "I Will" spirit of Chicago occupies the spot light. In the few short months since the inauguration of the "Mayor Kelly-Thos. E. Wilson-Chicago Plan" for saving Fats and Greases, Chicago's patriotic housewives have saved and delivered to their Retail Meat Dealers over 1,500,000 pounds. It's a glorious achievement.

Sincere thanks is extended to Housewives, Retail Meat Dealers, Renderers, the Press, Radio, and others for their fine support.

So successful was the "Chicago Plan" that it has been adopted for a nation wide "Save Fats and Greases" campaign starting in Chicago today.

EXPERTS REPORT BUSH'S RUBBER OF HIGH QUALITY

New York, June 23 [Special].—The New York Daily News said today that rubber experts in this country who have made a study of the Mexican bush, cryptostegia, as a source of commercial rubber are agreed the latex from this plant contains rubber in quantity and quality comparable to that obtained from Malayan rubber trees.

Latex from cryptostegia has been found to run from 81 per cent to 89.2 pure rubber, depending on the age of the bush, while latex from the Hevea tree plantations of Malaya and the far east contains about 91 per cent, the newspaper said.

The new revelations concerning the possibility of cryptostegia becoming the answer to the nation's rubber needs supplement a previous article in which the Daily News described experiments with the rubber-bearing bush conducted by the Mexican government's repatriation project in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Better than Guayule.

The Daily News asserted the rubber derived from cryptostegia is admitted by experts to be true isoprene rubber equal in tensil strength to Hevea rubber and far superior to the rubber obtained from guayule, a plant grown in the American southwest with which the government is now experimenting.

One of the most important points in favor of cryptostegia is the speed with which the plant grows, the newspaper said. Peter Heinz, botanist of Brownsville, Tex., who has had charge of the Rio Grande experiments, is quoted as asserting cryptostegia can be harvested as soon as 90 days after planting.

By contrast, the guayule bush requires four years to reach the harvesting stage and the plant must then be destroyed to extract the latex, according to the Daily News. Rubber is obtained from cryptostegia by tapping its stems, which can be done without injuring the bush, and the same bushes are ready for a new harvest in a few months.

Experts Praise Quality.

The newspaper quoted from a report made June 10 by Dr. H. L. Trumbull, assistant to the director of research of the B. F. Goodrich company, to J. W. Bicknell, vice president of the Rubber Reserve company.

"Because of the high quality of rubber derived from cryptostegia, because of the fact that it comes from a natural latex, because the rubber is truly isoprene rubber, it seems to me to merit attention," Dr. Trumbull wrote. "Of all plants which bear latex and can be grown in the United States, I believe cryptostegia holds the most promise."

Dr. John McGavack, in charge of wild rubber research for the United States Rubber company, is quoted by the Daily News as saying: "I am convinced that this country should push the large scale cultivation of cryptostegia as rapidly as possible because it offers the best and quickest solution to our rubber needs."

Passes Hardest Test.

Dr. McGavack said the real test of rubber is how it cures and that cryptostegia has passed this test with flying colors.

"We have vulcanized sheets of it one-tenth of an inch thick and it vulcanized in about the same time under the same conditions as Hevea," he said. "There is no question it will make good tires."

Asserting that many of the world's most noted botanists have been acquainted with cryptostegia since the turn of the century, the Daily News comments that the mystery of cryptostegia is not the plant itself but why such a prolific source of rubber should have been neglected thru the years.

The old argument of environment versus heredity has been revived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Collar, 5429 North Monitor avenue. There one of nature's little reprobates, the blue jay, has become a mild domestic creature addicted to taking Saturday evening baths in the bathtub, eating hamburger, wiping his feet on a paper on the back porch before entering the house, and obeying when he's called.

This reformation began two weeks ago when Mr. and Mrs. Collar stepped out of their home one rainy, cold day and found the shivering baby blue jay under their car. They took him inside—and he decided to stay.

He flies about at will thru the house and yard, but always returns to fall asleep in the children's hands at an early hour. The Collars hope he doesn't meet up with one of his old gang of nest robbers in the yard.

Adm. Cunningham Arrives to Head British Delegation

New York, June 23 (AP).—Sir Andrew Cunningham, British admiral who formerly commanded the Mediterranean fleet, arrived today to assume the post of head of the British admiralty delegation to the United States. With his wife, Lady Nona, Sir Andrew was among 17 passengers who were aboard an American Export airline Flying Ace four-motored flying boat, which was making its first trip with passengers from Europe. The Cunninghams left the airport on a U. S. navy transport plane for Washington.

DEALER ACCUSED OF HIDING 1,240 TIRES IN GARAGE

Indicted on 3 Counts in OPA Probe.

The most flagrant case of tire concealment thus far uncovered was described yesterday by officials of the Office of Price Administration with the arrest of Samuel J. Abrahamson, manager of the Abrahamson Motor Sales, 5854 Calumet avenue, Hammond. It was disclosed that Abrahamson had been indicted on three counts in South Bend, Ind., last Friday.

OPA agents found 1,240 tires stacked on racks built above a garage at 230 Pulaski road, Calumet City. They said these premises and the sales company were owned by the defendant's father, Joseph, who was not indicted.

False Declaration Alleged.

Abrahamson is charged with violating the Dec. 12 tire freezing order by filing an inventory falsely declaring that there were only 284 tires in his stock. Actually he had more than 1,500 tires, the OPA charged.

The second count charged him with feloniously concealing the facts by having 1,240 tires removed at night over a three week period to the Calumet City attic.

A third complaint is that Abrahamson mounted a "large number" of new tires on used cars and ran them short distances before selling them as used tires without rationing board certificates. He received new tire prices, it was said.

Ten Years Possible.

Maximum penalties on each of the three counts are 10 years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. Abrahamson will be arraigned next week before Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick in South Bend. Jack Oppenheim, head of the criminal litigation unit of the OPA, will be special prosecutor.

Two of Abrahamson's employés told federal agents about the hoarded tires. They are Clay Bryant, 31 of 1017 Bauer street, Harvey, and John Laviolette Jr., 27 of Griffith, Ind., who are expected to be the chief witnesses for the prosecution. They are charged with blackmail by the elder Abrahamson and will be arraigned in the Lake county Criminal court today.

To stimulate the war stamp campaign, 10,000 copies of the beautiful color picture showing the artistry of Chicago's war stamp corsage, which decorated the back page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on May 18, were sent to 400 cities thruout the country by the war savings staff of the treasury department yesterday.

The pages were given by THE TRIBUNE to Harry Perlman, originator of the corsage and chairman of the war stamp corsage committee for the war savings staff. The picture, with a detailed plan for creating and promoting the sale of the corsage, was mailed to local chairmen of the Victory Display committee, headed by Les Janes, national chairman. Perlman said the local chairmen will distribute the picture and plan to merchants and chambers of commerce.

"Chicago was so successful in promoting the sale of stamps thru the corsage, that several large cities requested information for creating and selling them in their campaigns," Perlman explained. "Since Chicago has raised $100,000 alone thru the corsage sale, we thought that other cities thruout the country might well follow our example. The beautiful picture with which THE TRIBUNE advertised the campaign stimulated the sale greatly and will probably do so all over the nation."

ALASKAN ROAD TO BE OPENED BY THIS WINTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The army expects to have some sort of a highway to Alaska available for use this coming winter, congress has heard from the engineers' corps, it was disclosed today.

Brig. Gen. C. L. Sturdevant made this statement in executive session before the house appropriations committee recently, publication of the hearings showed.

Congress Concerned.

With the Japs striking at Alaska, congressmen are showing increasing concern about communications between this nation and its northwest territory. The committee awarded an allotment to the corps to survey the project as a method of getting a road built quickly.

"We have four methods—we hope we have four methods—of getting to Alaska," said Lieut. Gen. B. B. Somervell, commander of the army's service of supply. "Strategic necessity requires the immediate initiation of a road to the area, the need for which has long been recognized."

May Build Railroad.

Rep. Albert J. Engel [R., Mich.] referred to reports that the road was going to be placed where Canadian officials want it and where American officials do not think it should go. The army witnesses said they knew nothing of such a controversy and Gen. Sturdevant said the route was being selected for military reasons alone.

RUBBER SCARCITY A REAL DANGER GOVERNORS TOLD

Asheville, N. C., June 23 [Special].—High government officials described the nation's rubber situation as dangerous today in question-and-answer talks before the National Governor's conference here.

Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, told how much rubber is needed by the armed forces of this country and its allies and expressed himself at a loss as to how it will be obtained. He said orders for army trucks have been reduced and that metal treads have been substituted for rubber on tanks, sacrificing speed and comfort for occupants, in the conservation program

Donald Nelson, head of the War Production board, and Leon Henderson, price administrator, discussed the rubber situation in detail, including the present campaign to salvage scrap rubber,

2 HELD IN ATTACK ON WOMAN FACE COURT ON FRIDAY

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek, in charge of the sex bureau, said yesterday that Willie Williams, 17 years old, will be arraigned in Felony court Friday on a rape charge, and a companion, Charles Garttrell, 22, on a charge of being an accessory before the fact. Both men are Negroes, and Williams escaped from the mental institution at Dixon, where he was sent as a juvenile. The two were arrested by park district police early in the day after assaulting Charles Curry, 18, of 1409 West Madison street, near Union park, then dragging his companion, a young married woman, into the park, where Williams attacked her.

WOMEN IN ARMY ORDNANCE WORK GET UNIFORMS

Uniforms were donned by women employés of the Chicago ordnance district of the army yesterday for the first time. The uniform consists of a brown gabardine jacket with tan covert cloth skirt and brown gabardine overseas cap. Only women employed for at least six months by the ordnance district's Chicago office, 38 South Dearborn street, or its eight suboffices are entitled to wear the uniforms, the insignia of which is an ordnance bomb on crossed cannon, worn on the jacket lapels, and an identification patch worn on the left sleeve.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

HAVING A WONDERFUL TIME.

Henry Luce, the publisher of the Time-Life-Fortune axis, is one of the "Let's you and him fight" boys. He was all out for war before Pearl Harbor, but his inability to locate a recruiting station since has won him a collection of white feathers. Mr. Luce is not averse to picking a fight with a woman, but, unfortunately for him, he got hold of more of a woman than he expected in Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, the publisher of the Washington Times-Herald.

When Luce's publications sought to slur Mrs. Patterson because her newspaper had been a pre-war opponent of intervention, Mrs. Patterson devoted a page to the frauds and foibles of Mr. Luce. She disclosed that shortly after Pearl Harbor she had received from Luce's marital and editorial consort, Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, a huge bouquet of roses, bearing the notation: "Hiyi: How do you like everything now? Affectionately, Clare Luce." To this Mrs. Patterson replied, in part: "I hate it. How do you and Henry like it? The terrible thing about you two is that you neither hate nor like very much. You just go on having a wonderful time."

Mrs. Patterson couldn't see any cause for jubilation in the slaughter of hundreds of American boys at Pearl Harbor. Neither, it is to be suspected, could any other loyal American. It was only those people who saw the war as a personal triumph who could on such an occasion taunt their former opponents with a gleeful "Hiyi."

Mr. Luce and his ebullient bride are not the only ones to whom the war has been, not an occasion for national unity against a foreign foe, but an opportunity to smear and knife those within the American circle with whom they have disagreed. They have found allies. They find themselves seeing eye to eye with the Communists and with the Communists' apologists and agents in official position. Parties to their conspiracy also are the people who would undo the Declaration of Independence, rich easterners, snobbish but eagerly willing to take their humble position at the bottom of the British table of precedence. Archibald MacLeish is with them. Walter Winchell, who made patriotism a racket and sold the uniform of the United States navy to a commercial sponsor, fell in line with them along with the Backers, publishers of the New York Post, and the perjuring witness from the Brooklyn house of degradation whose recantation of his lies blew up their smear campaign in the perpetrators' faces.

The outcome of the war is a secondary matter to some of these people. It is of little or no moment to them whether we win it or lose it, so long as they are able to use it to smear those against whom they direct their hatred and to promote the destruction of the American form of government.

A CURTAIN ON SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS.

The Supreme court has delivered an opinion [People vs. Anderson] that should facilitate immeasurably the task of cleaning up tax delinquent properties in Cook county and restoring them to an active revenue producing roll thru forfeiture foreclosure procedure.

A by-product of the court's decision is that it may very well destroy for all time the possibility of financing local improvements in this state by the sale of special assessment bonds. That method of financing had been so abused, however, that it was virtually dead anyway. Its loss may be borne with equanimity if, as seems probable, the rules stated by the court make it possible for municipalities, in the forfeiture foreclosure of property for delinquent taxes, to clean up delinquent special assessment liens by including them in the same action.

The property involved in the Anderson case was a group of lots in the village of Lansing. They were typical, or perhaps even exaggerated, examples of much of the tax delinquent vacant property in the county, in that the delinquent special assessments on them were many times greater than the delinquent general taxes. For effective restoration to the tax paying roll it is obviously necessary that on this vacant property, usually located in busted subdivisions, the special assessments be cleaned up along with the general taxes.

On the Lansing lots delinquent taxes, with penalties, amounted to $6,869 and delinquent special assessments to $56,964. The properties were sold in a so-called voluntary forfeiture foreclosure under which the owner of the lots made agreed bids at the sale. The sale price was only $4,553 and after deduction of proper costs the special assessment bondholders, who share pro rata in the distribution, will receive only about 5 cents on the dollar.

Some of the special assessment bondholders sued to have the sale set aside on the ground that the agreed bid made by the equity owner at the foreclosure sale was so grossly inadequate as to shock the conscience. The bondholders asserted that the lots, which were bid in at prices ranging from $10 to $40 each, were actually worth $300 or more apiece.

The court refused to upset the sale, and the opinion of Mr. Justice Gunn points out that the sale was publicly advertised in the proper legal manner and that if the bondholders considered the price offered to be too low they were at liberty to raise funds and make a higher offer. Had they purchased the lots, the following situation would have eventuated: they would have received back within a short time about 84 cents on every dollar, their pro rata share of the sale price; in addition, they would have received title to the lots, for which the equity owner would have had to pay them the full bid, plus interest, within two years if he elected to redeem the property; and in the event that he did not redeem, they would retain title to the property in return for the 16 per cent of the purchase price which they did not receive immediately in satisfaction of their special assessment bonds. In practice, it must be confessed, the mechanical difficulties of organizing scattered bondholders and raising the funds necessary to make bids, which must be in cash, would diminish appreciably the remedy available to this class of investors.

If there is anything to be criticized in the Lansing case, it was the operation of the forfeiture foreclosure procedure so that an equity owner, or owners, got a clear and tax free title to property by paying off both the governments holding tax claims and the assessment bondholders at a little more than 5 cents on the dollar. It is not necessary to accept the bondholders' contention that the lots which were sold for less than $30 apiece were worth 10 times that amount to suspect that there may have been a slip somewhere in the vigilance with which the state's attorney's office has sought to guard against abuse of the voluntary forfeiture foreclosure procedure.

The remedy for this is obvious and has been proposed many times. It is for the county, as the trustee of the general tax liens, and the municipality, as the trustee of special assessment liens, to bid at foreclosure sales the full amount of those liens, hold the property thru the two year redemption period, and if the owner does not pay up, sell the property for what it will bring. Then there can be no suspicion that both local governments and special assessment bondholders have received less than the property is capable of paying, and likewise no suspicion that the equity owner has made a political deal to the disadvantage of bondholders and fellow taxpayers.

If, as is urged in some quarters, it is more expeditious to continue these voluntary foreclosures and agreed bids, the amount of the bids should no longer be made a matter of individual discretion. They should conform to a general rule, related to a percentage of the present valuation of the property as fixed by the assessor.

THE BEST SEA FIGHTERS.

The story of the battle of the Coral sea, written by Stanley Johnston of THE TRIBUNE, must have enjoyed a wider contemporary circulation than any saga of sea fighting has ever had before. Almost every daily newspaper in this country and scores of newspapers in foreign lands have printed it. It has been hailed as the greatest story of naval action to come out of this or any war and we are inclined to believe that the judgment will be sustained over the years. Certainly the account will have its important place in history if only because it gives the first comprehensive description of the new kind of fighting at sea.

To Americans, of course, the Johnston dispatches have a special meaning. It is not only that they tell of victory and not only that they tell of the first clean-cut victories which our side has enjoyed in this war. More than either of these things, the stories tell beyond all possibility of doubt that our naval flying services in all their branches and in all their personnel are the best in the world. We appear to have the better planes, but far more important than that, we have the better men, the better trained men, and the better disciplined men.

We have a well drilled team of star players. From Mr. Johnston's account it is clear that the commanding officers, Rear Admirals Fletcher and Fitch, have a keen strategic sense and the gift of leadership in combat. The commander of the Lexington, now Rear Adm. Sherman, fully shares these qualities. The magnificent courage shown by all ranks, the coolness under fire of a Seligman, a Healy, a Dixon, a Hamilton, and scores of others are beyond praise. At no point did the men on the ships or in the air fail to do all that was expected or might have been expected of them. Only superb leadership and superb morale from top to bottom could have brought about that result.

Mr. Johnston's story lacked only one thing. He was aboard the Lexington and saw the battle from the viewpoint of the Lexington. Another carrier was engaged as a principal in the fight and tho he gave recognition to the achievements of its men he was unable to tell in detail the intimate story of the battle as they experienced it. Needless to say, he stands ready to write their story and THE TRIBUNE will be proud to make it available to all newspapers. We shared the saga of the Lexington in the belief that such an account deserved the widest of audiences. The details of what happened aboard the other carriers merit just as much attention and study.

FRANTIC FIORELLO AND THE DIM-OUT.

Mayor La Guardia of New York is charged by two members of one of his own defense councils with responsibility for the loss of seamen and ships off the Atlantic coast, because of his failure to have police enforce the army's dim-out orders. The purpose of the dim-out is to eliminate the glow in the sky over large cities against which submarine commanders see their prey in silhouette at night. The mayor announced in a radio address recently that he was trying to get the army to relax its program, while visitors to New York report that the present dim-out regulations are either ineffective or unenforced.

Frantic Fiorello was a great fellow for painting the horrors of war to the rest of the country before his incompetence caused him to be ousted from the post of national civilian defense director. In his own city he seems less interested in defense than in vote chasing. When the incompetence of the navy department to deal with the submarines forced gasoline rationing on the east coast, he hurried down to Washington to demand that the middle west be subjected to the same deprivations, despite the fact that it has copious supplies of gasoline. In connection with the dim-out he shows himself more interested in the commercial interests of New York as a national play spot than in the protection of American shipping. He apparently stayed around Washington long enough to pick up the philosophy of the burocrats in regard to privations of war—"Somebody else, not me."

Editorial of the Day

[Atlanta Constitution.]

Waycross reports the arrest of a moonshiner who was using honey as a substitute for sugar in making white mule liquor. The Tifton Daily Gazette, in commenting, recommends the man for a job in the government where efficiency is required. The still was set up in a mulberry orchard, which provided excellent cover, and was within a few feet of a large apiary. The bees also used the mulberry blossoms for honey and stored it near the still. It was a very efficient setup and, no doubt, if the stiller goes to jail he will be handy in helping the sheriff as an efficiency expert.

Despite gas rationing, some no doubt will try touring the east as usual, and by fall U. S. 1 ought to be littered with sedans like the skulls of cattle along the old Death Valley trail.—Detroit News.

A FINE VIEW OF THE RUINS.

At 34th street and Rhodes avenue, close to the site of the old University of Chicago, there is an ancient ruin, three stories high and half the block long. Its windows are gaping holes; its interior has been gutted by plunderers, and it is, in general, a thing to be observed with gusto by students of bygone civilizations. Its architecture is the plain, red-brick style of the 1860s. It is barren of inscriptions, but crosses carved here and there on the façade suggest a religious origin.

* * *

This is Chicago's unknown ruin. Nobody ever mentions it. No historians go running out there to take its picture. It belongs, however, on the ancestral tree of one of the city's most famous institutions—the University of Chicago.

* * *

The old university, really only a small Baptist college, stood across the street. Every one believes that it has vanished utterly; pictures of its single building are rare. Stones from its walls have been preserved as relics; note the sample set into the side of the W-G-N studio. . . . But the venerable and impressive wreck on Rhodes avenue was, for practical purposes, a part of the old University of Chicago. At any rate, it was an "affiliated institution." It was the Baptist Theological seminary.

* * *

"In 1860," says Andreas' History of Chicago, "a meeting was held to consider the importance of establishing such a seminary in connection with the University of Chicago. . . . On July 1, 1869, two students were graduated, and the seminary building was dedicated. . . . About eight years ago [1877?] the board of the seminary, feeling themselves compromised by the vicinity and trials of the university . . . removed to Morgan Park."

* * *

For the rest of the story of this ruin, see records of the Rhodes Avenue hospital, extinct.

REMEMBER LIDICE!

Her streets are silent now; the little town
Whose crime was mercy lies beneath the sun,
And only wisps of smoke arise to crown
The blackened desolation of the Hun.
The torch and gun are thru, and nevermore
Shall children's laughter ring in simple mirth;
Yet from these dying embers there shall soar
A spark to flame in all the towns of earth!
The brutes who war on little towns forget
They bloom like stars in gardens of men's hearts,
And those who wound them earn the awful debt
Of vengeance from a myriad counterparts.
They have forgot, but time shall prove to them
There was a little town called Bethlehem!

Quizzicuss.

There's a Catch in This, Somewhere.

He wasn't well, so they put him in the spare room to be out of the way. He lay there wearily, and altho familiar with the room, examined the objects with that curiosity and intentness that comes with enforced idleness. Whoever had "done" this room must have been sea-minded, for the windows were curtained with a netlike material trimmed with rope, the lamp was designed in the manner of a ship's wheel, as also was the convex mirror on the wall; the wall paper design was of sailing ships, and rain had leaked from the roof and stained the wall, adding to the nautical nightmare. The picture of a clipper ship, listing heavily in a gale, hung to the right of the bed and at the foot, completing the decoration, was a picture of men fishing on the Seine.

"All this room needs," the patient thought, "is a little motto—'And may there be no moaning of the bar when I put out to sea'." He was despondent and tossed restlessly. His eyes lighted on the peaceful scene of fishermen by the Seine, catching nothing. "They never catch anything," he murmured fretfully.

He had often seen them in reality, sitting hopefully hour after hour with never a catch. He remembered one lovely summer's afternoon sitting by the Pont de la Tournelle, idly taking in the scene—the tranquil Seine, Notre Dame and the Ile de la Cité rising against a deep blue sky, trees by the bankside shimmering in sunlight, a radiant peace broken only by the occasional motion of a Seine boat, and at the water's edge these Paris fishermen patiently dipping their lines in placid waters that never, never seemed to yield a catch.

His eyes came back again to the picture. It was by Monet. How well the artist had captured the peace, the pathos, the picturesqueness. "But-why-don't-they-catch-something," he fretted. "Why don't——" He raised himself in bed to shout, but no sound came; the bed rocked and he fell back exhausted. . . .

The doctor stood beside the bed and felt his pulse and fevered brow. "A pretty kettle of fish," he lightly bantered. "Where have you been to catch this?"

MOLES—"TO BE OR NOT TO BE" REMOVED.

MOST of us look upon moles as minor blemishes. This is exactly what they are if they do not "act up." Much depends upon their location, size, and color.

We are born with them. At first the skin of the babe may seem clear, but, as growth occurs, these minute abnormalities come to light. Just what happens in the developing embryo is not understood. There are many theories. One holds that a small amount of pressure is responsible, while another maintains that an extremely tiny imperfection in the formation of the epidermis results in a gap or a vacant place which is filled in later with dilated blood vessels. In this fashion birthmarks are produced—port wine in shade.

Freckles are quite different. They are pigmented spots which are visible because they are darker than the surrounding surface. As a rule, they follow exposure to bright light and the lad whose countenance is well sprinkled may find his fortune in the movies. The distribution of coloring matter is sometimes difficult to explain as factors other than sunlight may be involved.

But moles are inherited. The appearance in mother and daughter of the same flaw in the same location is not uncommon. In twins, markings have occurred on exactly symmetrical portions of the body.

Almost every one has at least one of these "pets" and by far the largest number are innocent of harm. If conspicuous, the victim may desire to have it removed as he does not wish to attract attention. Authentic portraits of Abraham Lincoln all show a mole on his right cheek which he carried as a mark of distinction thruout life.

We should all be on the alert lest one of these defects begin to enlarge, exhibit signs of inflammation, or deepen in hue. Then it is that skilled treatment will be required. Occasionally, a cancer cell may develop within such a mass, capable of extending to other parts of the body.

Knowing, as we do, that irritation may be fraught with danger we let these protuberances alone. We take particular care to guard them against pressure or rubbing from clothing and certainly we do not pick at them. Those that are bluish-black should be eliminated whether they are likely to be subject to friction or not.

The best method, in many instances, is by means of surgical diathermy or the desiccating current. But the job must be done thoroly and by an expert as tinkering with one of these areas may result in dispersing outlaw cells.

Those in the later decades of life may be subject to seborrheic warts which are likely to arise whenever the cuticle is greasy or oily. These "decorations" multiply and spread but otherwise are rarely troublesome. Now and then, however, they cause itching. Only in isolated cases will they become dangerous. Here the electric needle is the instrument of choice.

We can regard the skin as a rather sacred region. It is not to be tampered with without good reason. Unless "beauty spots" bother us we need not disturb them.

CARBOHYDRATES.

Mrs. R. G. writes: Are there foods that are especially helpful to a person who is trying to break the alcohol habit?

REPLY.

Sugars and starches will be of benefit. Glucose particularly is suggested.

LOSS OF SMELL.

A. F. writes: Can sinus trouble cause the loss of ability to smell?

REPLY.

Not directly. An infection along the airways, however, may destroy the tiny endings of the olfactory [smell] nerve. The mucous lining deep within the nostrils is rich in these filaments.

DISTORTED FINGERS.

R. O. writes: My doctor tells me I have dumbbell fingers. What does this mean?

REPLY.

The ends are probably clubbed or flattened. This may be an hereditary characteristic or may point to the fact that you suffered from some constitutional ailment.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

"NO COUNTRY BUT THEIR OWN."

Houston, Tex., June 16.—This country got rich minding its own business. It is going broke trying to mind other peoples' business. Poets, dreamers, and internationalists presently controling our federal government are asking us to engage in a crusade to impose our ways and our ideals upon a billion Asians, 500 million Europeans, 150 million South Americans, and 140 million Africans—none of whom likes us or trusts us.

The loyal American majority is fixing to elect a congress this year and a President in 1944, who will remember that their first duty is to protect the life and welfare of our own republic. That job promises to be a tough one. We need tough-minded real Americans, loyal to no country but our own, to handle the job.

FRANK PUTNAM.

OBVIOUS BUT OFTEN FORGOTTEN.

Wichita, Kas., June 17.—It is most important to remember that the Bill of Rights in the Constitution was formulated to protect the people of the United States not against any class of their own but against the government itself—the federal government. The wise statesman of that day fully understood the lust of power, which is far greater than the love of money, and the tendency of all governments to violate the liberties of the people. HENRY WARE ALLEN.

COP INSULTS DRAFTEES.

Chicago, June 18.—This morning, with several hundred other men in the draft, I went over to Grand Crossing park for a medical examination and while we were waiting for the blood test Officer 397 of the park police called out, "Line the suckers up over here." F. W.

CAR PARKERS BURN UP RUBBER.

Chicago, June 11.—If you care to see automobile rubber being wasted in a way that would do the axis' heart good, take a brief look at any of the parking lots and garages around the loop. In accordance with what seems to be part of the code of such operations, cars are still whipped around corners so that tires scream and burn, or are sped up 50 feet of clear runway to be brought to a stop by full application of brakes, so that a slide of several feet on rough concrete or loose gravel helps material to reduce potential mileage.

My office overlooks one of these automobile "wrecking" establishments, so I can watch the wearing down process all day on cars whose owners have paid upwards of 75 cents for this helpful service. Before our rubber crisis, I wondered why such establishments considered this method of handling valuable property belonging to other people necessary. Now I wonder if I should report them to the FBI. C. W. H.

MORE ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT.

Chicago, June 18.—Noting the interest of the city fathers in Chicago's health thru passing a weed cutting ordinance to benefit 150,000 people, why not go further and help another 750,000 suffering from insomnia because of horn tooting after midnight in residential areas? Then the council could complete a good job by cleaning streets frequently, insuring better health for all Chicagoans.

FAIR PLAY.

INTEREST RATES.

Chicago, June 10.—One small business man wants to say his say before his more or less delayed liquidation. Pre-New Deal I employed 40 men, post-New Deal came down to seven, and now under constant hammering am down to two.

All business men of experience knew after the last financial panic that the only hope of complete recovery lay in a supply of cheap money from some source—money that could be borrowed at rates comparable to government charges and on collateral such as is accepted by finance companies. Congress tried to pass such a law, but Jesse Jones & Co. made the rules and it was a case of "I care not who makes the laws as long as I can enforce them."

As a result, small merchants and manufacturers who had to have money paid usurious interest under the guise of brokerage, commission, and mortgage, and tens of thousands of them have not been able to repay and have been liquidated. I claim that if the small manufacturers and dealers had been financed at low interest as the farmers are, there would have been little unemployment. I further claim that the jobber and small raw material man in the next size of income would have done better than they have. I doubt that national manufacturers and distributors would have been any worse off. AMERICAN BOSS.

ANIMALS, HUMAN AND OTHERWISE.

Durand, Wis., June 18.—I have read of the indictment of the serum companies on charges of violating the anti-trust laws. An official of the department of justice is quoted as follows: "It is an easy matter for any farm hand to vaccinate an animal."

Officials of the department should be asked whether they would trust the vaccination of their families to their stenographers. The stenographers should be as capable as "any farm hand," and, after all, a human is "an animal."

IRWIN A. TAYLOR.

ONE OF THE 3 PER CENT.

Chicago, June 19.—Answering "A 26 Per Cent of Income Subscriber," I happen to be one of the remaining 3 per cent who have not subscribed to buy bonds, but that does not mean I am not doing so. I have had a regular pay roll deduction to purchase bonds ever since they were merely savings bonds, but I did not sign a pledge card because I was not fortunate enough to be at home when the Minute Man called. Perhaps the balance of the 3 per cent are those unsung heroes who do so many things without bragging about it. ELEANOR R. VICKERS.

SCHOOLTEACHERS' HUSBANDS.

Chicago, June 20.—In answer to the letter of Agnes Kennedy of June 20, proposing placing Chicago schoolteachers in defense plants for the summer, may I suggest that a better way for the Chicago schoolteachers to serve their country would be to send their husbands into the armed forces? Few of them have felt the need of fighting for the country that makes possible two pay checks each month. Very few of these couples have children. That would interfere with wifie's pay check. LEONA K. WARE.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

MORTGAGE OBLIGATION.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I gave a mortgage on a piece of land as security for a loan three years ago. The loan and mortgage were to run two years. It is now a year past due. I received a letter from an attorney stating he had instructions to start foreclosure and asking if I would give a quit claim deed to save the expenses involved. Before I had a chance to answer he started proceedings.

1. Is he not required to give formal notice? The mortgage allows an attorney fee of $30.
2. Is he permitted to get any more than this for his services?
3. The property is worth about three times the amount of the loan.
4. I am afraid at an auction it will go for little more than the amount of the loan.
5. I know I could find buyers for small parcels that would make enough to pay the loan and leave two-thirds intact.
6. How could I leave two-thirds intact.
7. How could I do it before the foreclosure date—July 22?
8. This property is in Michigan.

C. B.

1. No.
2. We cannot construe the papers without having the full wordings.
3. If so, you should be able to find a purchaser to redeem but it would be wiser to find your buyers before the costs have piled up unnecessarily.
4. It is highly exceptional for mortgaged property to yield anything for the debtor.
5. It would have been wiser to have such arrangements before the foreclosure proceedings were started.
6. We advise you to employ an attorney.
7. There is a redemption period after.
8. We have not answered the foregoing questions according to Illinois law. For Michigan law see the attached clippings.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 32.

1. A wire screen atop a farmhouse chimney usually indicates that one of these types of fuel is being used for heating. Which is it?
   Coal Wood Oil Coke
2. Which one of the following is usually sold by the rod?
   Fish poles Fence Caviar Coal
3. The word "ringer" should make one think of which of these sports?
   Basketball Bowling Horseshoes Water polo
4. You should associate a sheaf with which one of these farm products?
   Oats Ham Milk Soy beans
5. Which one of the following is referred to as the dark continent?
   Asia Europe South America Africa
6. This problem may handicap the women folks a little, but the men ought to pick up five points hereon. Match the terms in the left hand column below with the objects in the right hand column to which they refer. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Throttle	[v] Airplane
[b] Accelerator	[w] Furnace
[c] Controls	[x] Stationary engine
[d] Rheostat	[y] Railway engine
[e] Governor	[z] Automobile

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

COMBAT 'BARBED WIRE DISEASE' OF WAR PRISONERS

YMCA Leader Describes Work in Camps.

Fifty thousand war prisoners in countries all over the world have been enlisted by the YMCA to help prevent "barbed wire disease"—insanity—among their fellow prisoners, Dr. Jerome Davis, director for Canada of the YMCA War Prisoners' Aid, said yesterday before 600 Rotary club members at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Sherman.

Dr. Davis explained that hundreds of intelligent prisoners in every camp are eager to assist the "Y" secretaries in their attempts to create a "university" of cultural activities to keep the prisoners happy. In addition to trying to supply one book for every man in the camp, the "Y" sets up sports programs, musical organizations, and facilities for recreational and religious activities. More than four million prisoners are being served by the "Y" with the help of the International Red Cross.

One Rule Still Observed.

"This is about the only international rule made at the Geneva conference in 1929 that is still being observed," Dr. Davis asserted. "YMCA secretaries, regarded as neutrals, are the only persons who may enter and leave Germany at will. The Germans realize that happiest prisoners cause the least trouble and they want their prisoners in Canada to have the same treatment."

The speaker said Japan has indicated it also will abide by the rules of the Geneva conference. So far Russia is the only government which has not agreed to the conference rules and thus prisoners on neither side of the Russian-German battlefront are being served.

"One of the results of our work in the prison camps is that we are helping to create a bridge of understanding between enemy national groups," Dr. Davis said. "For instance, in one camp in Germany a German officer, expressing an interest in the band organized by the British prisoners, soon was invited to play one of the band's instruments. Music is an important factor in bringing prisoners and guards together. That's why we are conducting a compaign for the donation of musical instruments to our organization."

Demonstration of Faith.

"Our German prisoners in Canada are being given a demonstration of our faith in a God of love and our faith in democracy thru the way the recreational and cultural activities are organized."

The only persons allowed behind the barbed wire are the representatives of three agencies empowered to look after the welfare of the prisoners. The agencies are the World's committee of the YMCA, the International Red Cross, and the "high protecting power," usually a member of the diplomatic staff of a neutral nation.

Dr. Davis said prisoners still try to escape. Some hide in garbage cans, others are boxed up in pianos, and many construct tunnels. The latter often include electric lights and ventilation, with ingenious carts to carry away the dirt.

URGES COUNTIES CARRY ON THEIR PLANS FOR FAIRS

Springfield, Ill., June 23 (AP).—Director Howard Leonard of the state department of agriculture said today he was advising county fair officials to go ahead with plans to hold their annual fairs this year, particularly if they have made preparations and signed contracts for entertainment and advertising.

Leonard said he had received no response from a telegram he sent to Joseph B. Eastman, federal director of defense transportation, asking for a "clarification" of Eastman's appeal for cancelation of local fairs thruout the country as a transportation saving measure.

Leonard said three fairs are planning to open on schedule in Illinois next week. They are the Hamilton county fair at McLeansboro, July 1-4; Marion county at Salem, July 1-5, and the Will county fair at Monee, July 2-5.

CITES BOND SALE LOSS.

George B. Flint, treasury department staff promoter of stamp and bond sales at Illinois fairs, said yesterday that suspension of 1942 fairs thruout the country would result in a loss of $8,000,000 in potential war bond and stamp sales because fairs were being organized in a plan to pay 40 per cent of their premium awards in bonds and stamps.

53 PCT. OF CITY'S QUOTA PLEDGED IN USO CAMPAIGN

More than 53 per cent of the Chicago area quota in the USO fund drive has been subscribed, Julien Collins, chairman of the individual gifts division of the drive, reported yesterday at a division luncheon in the Palmer House.

Former Interventionists Start Campaign.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—A boom for Wendell L. Willkie for governor of New York state was started today by Vote for Freedom, Inc. Vote for Freedom is an offshoot of Freedom House which in turn is an offshoot of Fight for Freedom, Inc., leading interventionist organization before Pearl Harbor.

So far the defeated 1940 Republican nominee for President has not appeared as a contender in the race for the governorship. Willkie has been operating behind the scenes, trying to sabotage the drive for Thomas E. Dewey, former racket busting district attorney of New York county.

Fears Political Eclipse, Report.

While Willkie claims his opposition is based on his belief that Dewey is not enough of an internationalist, there are other reasons advanced.

Dewey's friends declare Willkie has his eye on the Presidential contest in 1944. If Dewey became New York governor, traditionally regarded as a stepping stone to the White House, he might be in a position to capture the 1944 G. O. P. nomination and send Willkie into political eclipse, it is pointed out.

The Republican convention, which will nominate the candidate for governor and the rest of the state ticket, will be held in Saratoga Springs late in August. Up to the present it has looked as tho Dewey controled the preponderance of the votes in the county organizations and could not be headed off by any one, including Willkie.

Willkie has sought to get a strong candidate to go up against Dewey, such as Rep. James Wadsworth, but his efforts have failed.

Sounds Out Membership.

The Draft Willkie movement started by Vote for Freedom came in the form of a letter sent out to members of the organization, sounding them out on the proposal.

Richard S. Scandrett Jr., a co-chairman, signed the letter, which expressed opposition not only to Dewey but also to Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination to succeed Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is not running again. Bennett is backed by James A. Farley, former national Democratic chairman.

"Either choice means defeat for everything we are organized to achieve," read Scandrett's letter. "A number of our members have suggested that in this 11th hour the only way to stop Dewey is to launch a Draft Willkie movement."

Vote for Freedom rents space in Freedom House and held its first public meeting there on June 8. Freedom House enjoys certain tax exempt privileges because of its educational charter. Provisions of the charter prevent the organization from engaging in any political activities and some question has been raised today whether the militant political campaign of Vote for Freedom might violate the charter of the parent group.

$40,000 REALIZED AT AUCTION OF EVANSTON PAPER

All printing and office equipment of the Evanston News-Index Publishing company brought $40,000 at a public auction yesterday, after its sale was ordered by Merle Slane, former Peoria, Ill., publisher who purchased the suburban newspaper in 1934. The paper ceased publication in January. Slane said he was considering offers for the lease of the company's 22,000 square feet of floor space at 1316-22 Sherman avenue. The newspaper's name, subscription list, reference and business office files were purchased for $300 by Mrs. Dorothy Gore, of 1912 South Harding avenue, for an undisclosed purpose. A duplex rotary press, purchased for $50,000 in 1925, brought $5,750.

COURT RECEIVES A SILK RECEIPT MAILED IN CHINA

A piece of silk bearing several Chinese characters, which traveled a war torn route from China to Chicago, was filed in Probate court yesterday as Wong Hin's receipt for $678.

Wong is 28 years old and lives in the town of Toy Shah, Kwangtung province, China. The money represented the final payment to him on the $1,325 left to him by his father, Wong Jung, who died in Chicago several years ago.

The receipt was mailed to the Globe Indemnity company on Dec. 20, 1941, and arrived Monday.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Triubne. Today's question was submitted by Charles A. Hillman, 105 North Lincoln avenue, Park Ridge.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

Washington street and Wabash avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Michael J. Kuzma, file clerk, 1732 Thome avenue—Too many passengers fail to keep their baggage and their feet out of the aisles. In a crowded car I never notice such obstructions until I've stumbled over them, and by that time it's too late. It's embarrassing for every one.

Sadie Herring, saleslady, 7515 Kingston avenue—I do not like to have people read over my shoulder, but they are not as bad as the ones who let the trailing edge of their newspaper extend over into my territory. It's hard to brush aside a thing like that.

Mrs. Joseph E. Gessner, housewife, 1107 Hyde Park boulevard—I enjoy riding on the upper deck of a double deck bus until some man starts smoking a big black cigar. Nothing can counteract a situation like that, so I'm usually driven down to the main deck.

Florence Nolin, general office worker, 5424 Melrose street—I wish bus and train seats were divided so each individual could occupy only the space that is rightfully his. It's annoying to try to sit on one-third of a seat while some thoughtless person sprawls comfortably over the other two-thirds.

Emma Bauman, switchboard operator, 1929 Walnut street—There's nothing I dislike more than to plow my way thru a crowded bus or train to get off at my station on time. The passengers who are reluctant to move are the ones who disturb me. Some are very inconsiderate.

Ralph Kraetsch Jr., student, 455 Sunset road, Winnetka—Since learning how annoying it is to have another passenger read my paper over my shoulder I've taken pains not to offend others by doing the same thing. Such readers make me uncomfortable. I never know when to turn a page.

DEWEY ADVISES FAITH IN ALLIES DESPITE LOSSES

New York, June 23 [Special].—The maintenance of unbreakable confidence in our allies was listed today as the first of three "musts" for Americans by Thomas E. Dewey. The former district attorney spoke at the 38th annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America.

Dewey urged his "three guiding principles" after stating frankly that present news from the Libyan, Russian, and Chinese fronts was bad.

"No apostles of disunion or appeasement must be allowed to lift their heads," he said.

Safeguarding of freedom in the United States and participation by the nation in the cause of lasting peace after the war were the other two "musts" suggested by Dewey.

ACCEPTS A RING, WEDS ANOTHER; BRIDE ARRAIGNED

Mrs. Evelynne Dormeyer, 18 years old, a blonde bride, was indignant yesterday when arraigned in Felony court because a former suitor charged her with larceny of the $245 diamond ring he gave her two days before her marriage to another man. Her anger was increased by the fact that she had been brought back from her honeymoon at Cleveland, Tenn. "He just told me, 'I'd like to have you wear this ring'," she said. The complainant was Herbert Weinstein, 2654 Wilson avenue. Judge John J. Griffin indicated that he will dismiss the charge June 25.

MAID TESTIFIES RICH EMPLOYER 'LOVED' RECTOR

'Any One Could See It,' She Says at Hearing.

White Plains, N. Y., June 23 (AP).—The late Mrs. Anna H. Paton, 78 years old at the time of her death last year, was "in love" with the Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington, 53, and "anybody could see it," a witness declared in Westchester Surrogate's court today.

Annie Chalkley, a maid in the Paton household for 18 years, testified for three relatives of Mrs. Paton who seek to break the will by which Mrs. Paton gave 30 per cent of her $1,300,000 estate to Dr. Darlington and the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York City, of which he is rector. Taxes have reduced the estate to approximately $800,000.

Dr. Darlington had "great influence" over Mrs. Paton, Miss Chalkley said.

Gave Rector Money.

The contestants — Mrs. Elijah H. Siter, sister-in-law of Mrs. Paton, and two nieces, Mrs. Mary S. Owen and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Pemberton—claim that Dr. Darlington "unduly influenced" Mrs. Paton by carrying on a love affair with her and thus persuaded her to make him a beneficiary.

Asked if Mrs. Paton ever gave Dr. Darlington money, Miss Chalkley replied, "Yes," and added that once when Mrs. Paton was making out a check for Dr. Darlington in her bedroom, "Dr. Darlington said, 'You should be thankful to have it to give,' and then he turned to me and said, 'Shouldn't she, Annie?' and I said 'Yes.'"

Dr. Darlington lunched or dined with Mrs. Paton almost daily, Miss Chalkley testified, and sometimes he stayed overnight at Nirvana, Mrs. Paton's country estate at Irvington-on-Hudson, sleeping in what was known as the "Darlington room."

Changed Mrs. Paton's Life.

Miss Chalkley said that Dr. Darlington's friendship changed Mrs. Paton's life in many ways. She suddenly became a regular attendant at Dr. Darlington's church, the witness said, where before she had declared she was an atheist who "did not believe in church nor in God, nor in the devil."

Both Miss Chalkley and an earlier witness, Josephine Haw, another former Paton maid, testified that Mrs. Paton was critical of Mrs. Darlington, the rector's wife.

"She said that Mrs. Darlington was untidy and that the seams of her stockings were always crooked," said Miss Haw.

Dr. and Mrs. Darlington, who sat in front row courtroom seats, both laughed aloud at this and Mrs. Darlington, dressed in a pale blue costume, leaned over to inspect her stockings.

Miss Haw said that Mrs. Paton put ribbons in her hair and perfume on her dress when the rector came to call and seemed "happy and as flustered as a schoolgirl" when he arrived.

F. D. R. PAYS PRESS TRIBUTE FOR ITS PART IN THE WAR

QUEBEC, Que., June 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt, joining Prime Minister Churchill in greetings today to the convention of the National Editorial association, expressed "deep appreciation" for the part its editor and publisher members have played in the war effort.

"The government accepts as first responsibility its duty to keep the people informed in every way," Mr. Roosevelt said in his telegram read before the opening session. "The assistance being rendered by newspapers, which accept this also as a duty of their own, is very gratifying."

Churchill sent best wishes and expressed regret that he could not be present and renew old acquaintances. Welcoming the delegates, who included some 400 from the United States, Henri Gagnon of Quebec, honorary president of the Canadian Press, outlined the service provided by his organization thru coöperative efforts of Canadian newspapers and the Associated Press.

Do Home Canning Now!

Have a Pantry Full of Summer Health Next Winter!

■ If you're one of the many Chicago women who have never before attempted home canning, now is the time to learn how. Home Canning is easy and interesting . . . saves money for you . . . saves food for America.

Right now, there are ripe red strawberries—at their juiciest best for home canning. And within the next month there'll be cherries, raspberries, apricots and huckleberries . . . delicacies you can easily "put up" to provide delicious wintertime desserts.

Later on, there'll be blackberries, peaches and plums that you will want to preserve. And while you're preserving, don't forget that you're conserving! Home canning offers wartime housewives one of the surest ways of making food dollars go further. And vitally important, too, home canning reduces food waste...helps you cooperate with the national food conservation program...thus aids in winning the war.

Help for Home Canners

To provide all the information you need for successful home canning, Peoples Gas Nutrition Centers offer a new fact-filled booklet "CANNING—What You Should Know About It." Covered in this booklet are such important subjects as Sterilizing Jars, Sealing, Methods of Canning, Sugar-less Recipes, as well as a host of standard canning recipes. Here, in condensed, easily understood form, are 36 pages of detailed instructions that will aid both the beginner and the experienced in home canning.

No charge is made for this valuable new booklet. Get your FREE copy today—and get started on your home canning program now!

CANNING CAN BE FUN!

Save the summery flavor of delicious strawberries for enjoyment next winter, and save sugar, too! Here's how: Wash, drain and hull strawberries; measure 4 cups. Add ½ cup corn syrup; let stand at room temperature 4 hours.

Place mixture in sauce pan and cook over low gas flame. Bring slowly to full rolling boil, stirring occasionally. Then, boil vigorously for just 2 minutes. Your Modern Gas Range makes home canning easy as A. B. C.

After carefully skimming the preserve, turn into hot sterilized jars and seal at once. This recipe makes 1 pint jar or 2 half-pint jars. Undoubtedly, you'll want many of them in your pantry to satisfy strawberry-hungry appetites!

7,000 WILL TRAIN CHICAGO WOMEN IN SAVING FATS

City Drive to Be Pattern for Nation.

Seven thousand women—newly appointed fats conservation wardens—have received instructions in household grease salvage and are ready to start today to train Chicagoland housewives in an important method of helping to win the war.

The wardens were appointed recently thru block captains of the Office of Civilian defense. Each was given instructions how to prevent fats from becoming rancid; how to distinguish and separate clear and dark grease, and told types of containers that should be used for storing grease before selling it to butchers.

The movement is a part of a two week test campaign which will be conducted in the Chicago area. Results of the campaign will be used as the pattern after which a nationwide drive will be modeled. The drive is expected to add impetus to Chicago's six month old campaign which has yielded more than 1,500,000 pounds of waste fat and grease, of which 12 per cent is manufactured into glycerin.

Advise on Ways to Save Fats.

The feminine conservation wardens will advise women as to the best ways of salvaging and preserving household fats. They will tell them that neighborhood meat market managers [authorized collectors of the fat] prefer to receive the material in tin containers—such as coffee or tobacco cans — because that metal weighs less than glass.

Housewives who request demonstrations will be shown how they may salvage fat from every type of meat—not only bacon. The fats conservation wardens will be prepared to answer any question on the subject of fats conservation and the final destination of the material.

Won't Snoop but Will Suggest.

Leaders of the drive have advised Chicago housewives that the wardens will intrude in no way on the privacy of the home. They will call on the women in their block—not to snoop—but to suggest.

Thomas E. Wilson is director of the fats conservation campaign in the Chicago area, and Mrs. Walter J. Kelly is head of the women's division. Mrs. Kelly is scheduled to speak today in New York City before a meeting of officials of the War Production board and members of companies interested in the production of glycerin.

PARK SUMMER RESORT FOR SERVICE MEN TO BE OPENED SATURDAY

The Chicago Service Men's center will open its summer resort branch in Lincoln Park Saturday morning, Mayor Kelly announced yesterday. The new recreation center, at Fullerton avenue and the lake, is a large brick pavilion surrounded by 12 acres of lawn and a beach for 1,500 bathers.

Nightly dances and a Sunday afternoon tea dance will be held for soldiers, sailors and marines. The canteen will be open from 10 a. m. to midnight daily. The lawn will be used for horseshoes, miniature golf, shuffleboard and croquet.

Five park district lifeguards will patrol the bathing beach from 10:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. Bathing suits and towels will be supplied free to soldier and marines; swim suits are standard equipment in the navy. The downtown center, at 176 West Washington street, will continue its usual services during the summer months.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE UNITS HELP FIGHT A $20,000 BLAZE

Civilian defense workers got some practical experience yesterday by assisting firemen who battled flames which swept thru thousands of sheets of corrugated paper in a building at 3512-26 Carroll avenue. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Block Captain Harry M. Trilling of 3502 Carroll avenue turned in the alarm and summoned other defense workers to the scene. Several of them helped residents of nearby homes to remove valuables from the vicinity. Another block captain, Miss Elizabeth Krause, 3511 Carroll avenue, took charge of a group of women who served coffee to the firemen.

Among several hundred spectators were Lucy Flower Technical High school students in caps and gowns who had been rehearsing for their graduation ceremonies.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By GAIL COMPTON

Morning Glory Trouble.

June 23, 1942.

MORNING glories may bring a gasp of delight from flower lovers, but they provoke only curses from the farmer. Morning glories are the main subject of conversation at the Fox river farm now, for there is a goodly crop of them and they are doing much too well to suit the manager.

The European morning glory, sometimes called field bindweed or creeping jennie, is causing serious trouble in one of the corn fields. This pest persistently has attacked the field for several years despite heavy cultivation and clean tillage methods. The manager is despairing of ever getting rid of the weed.

Robs Corn of Moisture.

The morning glory is greedy. Primarily a creeper, it spreads rapidly thru the fields, producing a dense cover on the ground that robs the corn of moisture and food. Roots of the plant may extend nine feet into the soil and when the weed is cut at the surface it produces new shoots within two or three days.

If the men did not cultivate the field constantly the morning glory would blossom almost continually thruout the summer, producing millions of seeds for another year's crop.

The manager had two big tractors equipped with shovels moving up and down the rows of corn in an effort to beat the weed. The machines could cover one row and then they would have to be stopped and the shovels cleaned. The vine-like weed clung to the shovels and clogged them so thoroly the machine started to cover up the young corn stalks.

An Expensive Method.

The best way to get rid of the morning glories would involve summer fallowing, or leaving the field bare of crops for one season, cultivating it each week. This, however, would mean that the field would make no return that year, an expensive method.

Crop rotation has been tried along with thoro cultivation and the weed still persists. The manager may try to smother the weeds with a cover crop such as soy beans, or use the field as a pasture. Hogs will eat the rootstocks of the morning glory and prevent top growth and eventually kill it out. Chemicals would be helpful, but the best weed destroyer, sodium chlorate, is practically unobtainable because of the war.

The men are paying a great deal of attention to the corn these days, and are allowing the hay to wait. They are anxious to get thru the corn four times before it is laid by.

The newly planted soy beans have been having trouble pushing thru the ground. Shortly after they were drilled a heavy rain formed a crust on the soil. Most of the sprouts are thru now, altho they took longer than usual to come out.

CHANGE BRIDGES OR NOT? COUNCIL PUZZLED BY NAVY

Varying Orders Are Given on Project.

The members of the city council bridge committee complained yesterday that the navy department has confused them on its proposal to convert five fixed city bridges into movable structures.

Several weeks ago Ald. Walter Orlikoski [35th], chairman of the committee, learned the navy wanted all the bridges on the south branch of the Chicago river converted to lift bridges so that subchasers and other craft constructed here might be floated to the gulf without dismantling their superstructures.

They Get a Letter.

Yesterday the committee received a letter from the bureau of yards and docks of the navy which the aldermen read and then admitted they were puzzled. The letter implied, they said, that alteration of the bridges is not vital to the "successful prosecution of the war."

The letter, signed by B. Moreell, chief of the bureau, said:

"The desirability of providing additional vertical clearance beneath these bridges is very apparent, but the present state of emergency precludes the construction of all projects except those which are absolutely necessary to the successful prosecution of the war. Providing additional vertical clearances for these spans would undoubtedly require considerable quantities of steel and machinery, and would consume considerable time and money.

"The shortage of steel and steel products is so acute that only in very exceptional cases is steel in substantial amounts being used in the construction of bridges."

Fund Appropriated Already.

"I wish the navy would tell us just what it does want," said Ald. Orlikoski. "At this committee's suggestion the council has already appropriated $680,000 toward the conversion of the five bridges in question. We then wrote the navy and the war departments to ask their coöperation in financing the cost. We did the whole thing because local navy officials told us it was imperative the bridges be changed."

The committee also received a letter from the war department engineers which said, "Consideration is now being given to the action to be taken by this department in coöperation with the navy department in regard to these bridges."

ACTRESS ANNE SUTHERLAND DIES IN N. Y. HOSPITAL

Brentwood, N. Y., June 23 [Special].—Anne Sutherland, actress, who retired in 1940 after a stage career of almost 60 years, died here yesterday in Pilgrim State hospital, after a long illness. She was 75 years old.

Miss Sutherland had appeared with many of the greatest stars of two generations. She made her debut as a member of a children's company in "H. M. S. Pinafore," taking the rôle of little buttercup, at Haverley's theater, Chicago, in 1881.

She made her debut as a star at Milwaukee in 1904 as Paula Erskine in "Mrs. Erskine's Devotion." The next year she played with the Murray Hill Stock company.

Subsequently she appeared in "Arms and the Man," "Cheating Cheaters," "A Voice in the Dark," and "Susan Lenox." One of her last big New York successes was as Miss Austen in "Craig's Wife" in 1925. Among her subsequent plays were "London Calling," "Divorce Me, Dear," "Are You Decent?," and "Lady of Letters."

LOUIS SWIFT JR. LOSES POINT TO WIDOW IN SUIT

Mrs. Katherine Gertrude Buchanan, 48 year old San Antonio, Tex., widow, won the second round yesterday in her $110,000 breach of contract suit against Louis F. Swift Jr., also 48, vice president of the packing company. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a ruling of District Judge William H. Holly that Swift had fulfilled his contract obligations to support Mrs. Buchanan and her two children.

The contract, signed in 1935, provided for the payment of $65 a week to Mrs. Buchanan and an additional $1,200 a year for the education of her daughter, Mary Katherine, but declared that Mrs. Buchanan must provide for her son, John Lawrence, out of the weekly payments.

Judge Holly held that the contract was to run for five years and ended in 1940. The court of appeals, however, said other provisions of the contract made it appear that it was to run "five years or until her death, whichever period was longer." Mrs. Buchanan's attorney is Charles R. Aiken.

WARNS GARAGE EMPLOYES WHO 'BORROW' CARS

Judge Leon Edelman in the Auto court warned yesterday that he will be harsh in dealing with garage employés and others who "borrow" patrons' cars for joy rides. Probation will not suffice as the penalty for this fairly common practice, he said.

"Stealing cars now is worse than ordinary crime," the judge asserted. "It is close to treason, since the victim cannot replace the car and automobiles are a public necessity."

He imposed a six months' sentence in the county jail upon Stewart Shockley, 18, of 1802 South St. Louis avenue. Shockley took a salesman's car from a garage at 3415 Ogden avenue where he formerly was employed. He had it from June 15 until arrested Monday.

REVERSE $900,000 TAX REFUND ON MAYER ESTATE

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed a ruling by which Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the federal District court had ordered a refund of $900,000 in estate taxes and interest to the estate of the late Levy Mayer.

Mr. Mayer was one of the founders of the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt. He died in 1922, leaving $8,102,367, on which an estate tax of $1,264,020 was paid the government. His brother, Isaac H. Mayer, later sought a refund, asserting that the widow's dower interest should have been given her before the estate was taxed. Judge Sullivan ruled a year ago that this was correct and ordered a refund of $436,156, which, with interest since 1923, totaled $900,000.

LABORER STRUCK BY AN AUTO DIES; INQUEST TODAY

Joseph Trzynia, 36 years old, 4636 South Wolcott avenue, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when he was struck by an automobile at 47th street and Ashland avenue. He was a laborer.

The driver of the car was Vincent Fanelli, 28 years old, 1050 Byron street. He was notified to attend the inquest today at the county morgue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 350 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 272 lost their lives in Chicago where 9,883 others were injured.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Recount Changes Winners in Two Proviso Contests

A recount of the votes in the April 1 Proviso township election showed that A. H. D'Anza, 161 Broadway, Melrose Park, was elected justice of the peace and Joseph J. Lelivelt, 1828 5th avenue, Maywood, was elected township collector. The recount was supervised by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan, who announced the results yesterday. After the first count, William T. Collins Jr. was announced the winner of the collector race and Paul W. Pretzel appeared to have won the office of justice of the peace.

Wells Returns to Shooting His Satirical Barbs

"You Can't Be Too Careful," by H. G. Wells. [Putnam, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

Once upon a time H. G. Wells was one of the best story tellers in the English language. He could make the simple, everyday homo sapiens the most engaging sap imaginable, and it delighted him to try to find sapiency in him. As time passed, thoughts—"ideers"—intrigued the story teller out of his tale bearing and into the empyrean realms of imaginative and philosophic and social-minded thought. He became a writer of tracts which he sometimes populated with people who were themselves embodiments of ideas, but seldom embodiments of themselves.

Now, at the age of 76, H. G. Wells has turned back to the sport of his young manhood—turning a simple little man on the spit of his satire over a blazing fire of ideas . . . in a word, writing a book that is nine-tenths story, its telling only occasionally interrupted by the author's standing his reader up against the wall and shooting ideas at him.

It's about "ideers" that the hero warns his son as the book opens. "What GOOD are they? What GOOD do they do you? . . . You get these here books. . . . And what do you get out of them. . . . IDEERS!"

◆

Edward Albert Tewler—Homo Tewler as Mr. Wells calls him—is the author's ironic picture of man, mostly Homo Anglicanus, but also Homo Americanus, even in some of his phases, Homo Teutonicus. The Tewlers of the world, he shows, are conditioned by false education and fear to a maturity of bungling sex, political assininities, and general stupidity. Education—especially science—ought to help, one gathers from Mr. Wells' characteristic ultimate chapter.

"You Can't Be Too Careful" is not one of those books you can't be too careful about reading. Stride into it without fear. You'll find it amusing and stimulating, almost in the old gay Wellsian manner. F. B.

Two Volumes Contain Many Helpful Tips for Fresh Water Anglers

With the 1942 fishing season under way, all fresh water anglers will find many helpful tips on their favorite sport in two new books: "Fresh Water Fishing," by Myron E. Shoemaker [Doubleday-Doran, $3], is a complete guide on the principles of bait and fly casting, handsomely illustrated with many beautiful color plates. "Fishes" [Macmillan, $1.25] is a pocket reference book with 60 illustrations [many in color] to enable the novice angler to identify the more common species he sees or catches on lakes and streams. The text of this handbook was prepared by John T. Nichols, curator of recent fishes, American Museum of Natural History. B. B.

Action Aplenty in New Novel by Miss Brush

"The Boy from Maine," by Katharine Brush. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

Katharine Brush might well be considered a literary vitamin. Her books have a kind of energizing amusement that inures their readers to the germs of gloom. They aren't world-shaking novels or reporting or reminiscing. They're sometimes a little glib and slick and sometimes a little too easy to read [you know what I mean]. But even when they are about practically nothing at all, they are never themselves nothing at all. They have vitality and amusement and are deft and skilful and are always, even when they are tragic by implication, amusing.

Which is a long way round to the point that "The Boy from Maine" is one of those novels that take you by the hand on the first page and just you try to let go until page 430! It is both a "home town boy makes good in big city" tale and a love story of half a lifetime of unrequited devotion. Its two chief ingredients are perennial and never failing successes in a novel. But Katharine Brush gives them freshness and a new reality by that vitamin K.B. quality in her pen.

The hero is a barefoot boy with cheek of Maine island tan who delivers his mother's washing to the summer folks, does chores for them, and grows up beside, but not with the heroine, who is the daughter of a rich Bostonian. That is when the book opens. When it ends he is a famously successful radio agent and the heroine has skidded downward economically as fast as he has skyrocketed.

The war had everything to do with it—that other war when every one ironically thought they were fighting a war to end all wars. Via the navy, the hero escaped from Mitchell's Island and into the entertainment business. Via the army and two husbands, neither one of whom she would have married except for the war, the heroine was juggled into a new niche in life.

◆

The long arm of coincidence does a little extra stretching in the plot, and some of the secondary characters [Bonnie, especially] seem filled with sawdust and with hops, but even tho you know pretty much all the time what is going to happen, you want very much, but VERY much, to watch it happening. And that, any novelist who has ever tried to turn the trick will assure you, is the neatest of all literary sleights of hand—keeping the customers glued to their chairs.

For my money, "The Boy from Maine" isn't the spell-binder that "Young Man of Manhattan" was, but it's a close runner-up. F. B.

Life and Times of Paul Revere Vividly Etched

"Paul Revere and the World He Lived In," by Esther Forbes. [Houghton-Mifflin, $3.75.] Published yesterday. July choice of the Book of the Month club.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Paul Revere was more than a figure on horseback, more than a great silversmith, bell caster, powder maker, and shrewd leader of Boston's artisans. He was the handyman of the Revolution. He helped to plant the tree of liberty, and lived to enjoy its fruits," says Esther Forbes of her hero. And in one of the finest historical biographies of our day she brings to life not only a man, but the world he lived in.

But to the world that we live in, Paul Revere was essentially a legendary figure on horseback, and that is a tribute to the immortality of the written word in contrast to the mortality of even a great man's deeds. Because a poet, 85 years after that "eighteenth of April in seventy-five," wrote about the midnight ride of Paul Revere, the rider "started on a ride which, in a way, has never ended," as Miss Forbes says.

Paul Revere will continue thru time as a figure on horseback, on account of Longfellow's stirring words, altho readers of this fascinating biography will find that ride only one incident in a long life which elicited the tribute at his death: "Seldom has a tomb closed upon a life so honorable and useful."

◆

By his contemporaries Paul Revere was considered one of the principal lieutenants of the Sons of Liberty. He was in the thick of the Revolution, eventually a lieutenant colonel in the continental army. Even when he was 80 years old, he was still working for liberty—he helped "by manual labor in measures for the defense of the town and naval arsenal," and was one of the 150 odd "mechanics of the town of Boston" who helped build Fort Strong by hand.

Meanwhile, at the age of 65 he started the first American mill for rolling sheet copper. Revere copper sheathed the old Constitution, many other ships, and the Massachusetts statehouse dome. He made "no less than 398" famous bells. And thruout his life he had been a famed silversmith. He had 16 children [five died in infancy], all of whom were a credit and a comfort to him, so he must have been a good father as well. He died one of the most prosperous men in Massachusetts, and as honestly as it could be said of any, he could be called a self-made man, a typical American.

Paul Revere, more than most, helped make the world he lived in, and his story is its story as well. Miss Forbes has made a remarkable and a brilliant restoration of that world. She has brought to life every moment of it, peopled it with human beings who are so stirred to life that the reader senses their very thoughts, altho Miss Forbes, as a meticulous historian, records only what the records prove, and not what she thinks might have been thought.

"Weak and divided as the little colonies were," she writes, "they believed in their own form of government, the actual freedom and democracy they had established for themselves in the wilderness. Rich and poor alike, they were ready to die for these good things."

In these pages the American idea of freedom is as truly hero as is its titular hero, Paul Revere, and the story of its early days is as vivid as the life story of Paul Revere.

Novel Portrays Washington as 'Unvanquished'

"The Unvanquished," by Howard Fast. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]

"The Unvanquished" of this historical novel's title is George Washington. Its pages record as gruelling a series of events aimed to vanquish a band of freedom-dedicated fighters as history has known. One long, harrowing retreat treks thru the pages, with occasional moments of relief from strain on the part of the ragged army which Washington commanded, but few for their commander. Washington, the Virginia fox hunting gentleman, grows in these pages from a man unsure of his ability to command into an involuntary dictator who must decide whether the Revolution should fail or make a last stand alone and unaided by congress.

"It was the old heartbreaking story, officers pleading and yelling for the men to make a stand and the militia running wildly." Time and time again Washington's men melted thus, and he found himself "a man who held water and sand in his fingers." But "times that try men's souls" also anneal some of them, and the iron in Washington's became, after the tragic days which "The Unvanquished" records, unvanquishable blue steel.

As most historical novels go, this one is as bare of decorations and panoply as an operating table. It will be a disappointment to those who are used to all of the furniture and garniture of the cloak and sword drama. But it has, for its very forthrightness, memorable veracity. F. B.

Escapes Doghouse

JEREMY S. LANE

Miss Helen Hall gets credit for saving Jeremy S. Lane from what looked like a sure trip to the doghouse. It was 5:15 when Mr. Lane suddenly remembered it was his wife's birthday. Things looked pretty black when he dashed into the Field Building Book Shop. But Miss Hall took him right in hand and in five minutes flat he was on his way rejoicing, with a beautifully wrapped gift under his arm. "The same thing has happened so many times," says Miss Hall, "they're beginning to call me 'the doghouse expert' around here." SYNOPSIS.

News of the death of Harold, earl of Festone, in an auto accident near his home in Cuernavaca, Mexico, brings little sorrow to his acquaintances and supposed friends of the British-American colony there. Philip Rankin, English art dealer, is frankly glad; so is Sir James Lynn, British oil magnate, whose wife, Elaine, was in love with Lord Festone. Sophisticated Sharon Lathrop also thinks he is better off dead; and Juliet Johnson, young dancer from New York and house guest of the Lynns, is shocked but not sorry. Then Dr. Alvarez, Mexican phyisician, joins the group and announces that Festone died of a bullet wound, not of accident injuries. Juliet wonders how Elaine, who is not present, will take the news. She recalls how unsuspectingly she accepted Elaine's invitation to visit her and her new husband in Mexico, only to discover after she had arrived, that Elaine was using Juliet's visit to cloak an illicit romance with the worthless Lord Festone. Juliet had first met Elaine in London, where, before her marriage to Sir James, Elaine was only a showgirl.

INSTALMENT III.
DOCTOR'S THEORY.

As nearly as Juliet could determine, Sir James Lynn had left nothing undone in his efforts to make his beautiful young bride happy. It was all time, money, and effort thrown to the winds after she had first laid eyes on the suave, impeccable Lord Festone.

"O, Julie!" Quick tears flooded Elaine's eyes as she confided in her guest the night of Juliet's arrival at the honeymoon house on Emiliano Zapata avenue. "James has been so good to me. And yet I wouldn't have married him for anything if I'd known there was a man on earth like Harold!"

"That's the trouble," Juliet said with a sigh and a quick toss of her long jet black bob. "We never know when love—real love—is going to take a swipe at us. But I thought you were going to dodge it."

"But don't you see—Lord Festone is everything I wanted. Position and love combined. Julie, I've got to get out of this marriage some way, so we can be married—Harold and I. I've got to. Of course James doesn't know yet how I feel. He'll be awfully hurt and mad. He's so used to having things his own way."

"Ummm. Climax. Curtain. Second act," Juliet answered. "Pretty dangerous situation you're working up, don't you think, Elaine?" Even as she spoke she knew that Elaine was deaf to reason.

Juliet studied Elaine with her big, dark eyes and thought how wide the mark she'd been when she half envied Elaine's skill in getting just what she wanted out of life.

"I'll work it out," Elaine said stubbornly. "I feel better now that you're here. I can see Harold all I want—and that's all the time—and James will think he's hanging around because of you. Don't you see?" she asked mischievously.

"I see," Juliet answered dryly. How thoughtless it was of Elaine—and how like her—to put another girl in a spot like this. Juliet hoped her mother would never know.

"And don't you be making big, black eyes at Harold, either," Elaine had added gaily, without catching any implication in Juliet's tone.

Juliet found Sir James awesome and brusque—altho charming when he chose to be.

Boisterously proud of being one of the few Englishmen of born title who enjoyed work, he was obviously bored and annoyed by the constant fluttering of his lovely butterfly bride.

"Worked hard all my life. I like it. Now Elaine wants me to play. Biggest job I ever had."

The sun wrinkles, etching the corners of his eyes, deepened as he smiled. He patted Juliet's hand.

"Make our home your home. Glad you're here. Makes Elaine happy."

Juliet's broad smiles seemed thanks enough. He patted her hand again, then lumbered away to his library, probably to smoke and ponder on the effrontery of a national government which dared to expropriate his property.

"All right—your husband." Juliet tried to disguise the half heartedness of her approval.

"That's what I thought once upon a time," Elaine retorted. "What do you think of Harold?"

"How'd you get to know him?" Juliet side-stepped neatly.

Elaine chuckled. "James introduced us. He's always known him. Harold's family is one of the oldest in England—much more celebrated than James'—and almost as wealthy. Only Harold has a hard time getting anything out of England now—the war, you know."

"Why isn't he back fighting?"

"O, don't be silly—that's why he's here. It's why we're all staying here, I guess—except James—to escape war. Only James is lucky. He's got bank accounts here as well as in England. Poor Harold is having to live on his earnings from his paintings."

"Is he a good artist?"

"Awf'ly talented. Even Philip says so. He's sold some of Harold's pictures. And I've bought a lot. I'll give you one. The one he did a long time ago of Maria, our Mexican maid."

"Don't give away everything you prize."

"O, that's all right. I like them all."

So she really had lost her heart, Juliet thought. What would Sir James say if he knew?

Less than a week later Juliet was horrified to discover that the charming Lord Festone—even if he were in love with Elaine—was not above doing a little casual hunting elsewhere.

It happened first on the moonlit veranda of the Bellavista hotel. He slipped an arm about Juliet's dainty waist. Before she could protest—it happened so suddenly—he was kissing her madly.

"Don't!" she gasped when her lips were free.

"But why not, Juliet? You like me a little, don't you?"

"Yes. Yes, of course—but—"

That was the first time she had run from him. There were others. He was amused. For days she worried whether she ought to tell Elaine. She decided against it. Elaine, bedazzled by love, wouldn't believe her.

Elaine apparently didn't notice Harold's growing interest in Juliet. Open in his admiration, he remarked upon the attraction of each feature of her heart shaped face and insisted that the dark haired American pose for him. Elaine couldn't understand why Juliet didn't find the time for a sitting.

"It's so sweet of him to offer," Elaine reproached her. "Of course I suppose he'd want to do anything for a friend of mine."

Juliet had no ready answer.

"Well, now she was glad. Fate had solved her problem. Elaine need never know—need never have her heart crushed. She would never have to fence with Harold again—she would never have to feel guilty before Sir James.

Elaine's nervous confidence that she was going to find a way to become Countess Festone had been a burden to honest Juliet. The news of the accident should have shocked her. Instead she found she was as pleased as the others at her table.

The doctor had finished his scientific discourse when Juliet jerked herself back to the present and to the conversation of the luncheon guests who were preparing to leave.

"I hate to think of Harold ending his life that way," Sharon was saying.

There was a momentary silence. Then the doctor spoke:

"Perhaps, senors, you will learn that he did not take his life voluntarily. I do not know whether a gun was found, but in view of what I have just described, I do not believe he could possibly have fired the shot that killed him. Yet one can never tell."

* * *

"Must have been suicide," Sir James said abruptly, scowling his way out of a reverie, as he and Juliet were having tea that afternoon on the blue stone porch of his home—a porch that was actually a balcony overhanging a tangle of wild growth on the plot adjoining the residence.

For an hour, they had been talking of his family, of his career, of his resentment over the Mexican seizure of his oil holdings, of the war, of the desperate pennilessness in which wealthy refugees were finding themselves—of everything and anything except Lord Festone's death.

On the way home from the luncheon—which broke up with all four diners remonstrating that Dr. Alvarez must be wrong—Juliet had persuaded Sir James that it would be better to let her tell his wife the story of Harold's death. At first he had argued violently. Suddenly he had acquiesced.

AND THE WORLD HE LIVED IN

The story of a very typical American—a patriot and a silversmith who sturdily adhered to the side of liberty throughout his long life. Around him arises his whole teeming world of adventure — the young, expanding, boundless and dauntless American nation. His biography is the epitome of the American heritage. This book is history, but it is written as only a great novelist can write it.

FISHERMEN TAKE GOOD CATCHES IN NORTHERN LAKES

Muskie, Walleyes, Bass Fall to the Lucky.

BY BOB BECKER.

Elmer F. Layden, czar of professional football, is one of thousands of outdoor fans who would rather talk fishing than football at this time of the year.

Mr. Layden already has had one June fishing trip to Minocqua, Wis., and reports from that town have it that he threw some fancy "casting plays" at the walleyes and the northern pike. In his party were Dr. Claude L. Geyer, C. W. Ginz, and G. Fred Wiedman, all of South Bend, Ind. They got nice strings in Minocqua and Tomahawk lakes.

[The fish in Langlade county—pike, muskies, and trout—had better take to cover, for we understand that Layden and his squad are due to throw their lines around in that part of Wisconsin pretty soon.]

Most of the Chicagoans who have been casting their lures in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan aren't complaining these days. They found 'em and caught 'em.

Take Muskie Prizes.

The muskie anglers have been especially busy. Dr. A. H. Wood of 3808 North Monticello avenue recently returned from South Turtle lake and the Turtle waters near Winchester with a 21 pound fish. John Moyse of 558 Sheridan square, Evanston, with a 17 pounder; N. E. Bibow of 1116 Maple avenue, Evanston, with a 14 pounder, and Ralph T. Breyer of 3926 North Keeler avenue were others who connected.

The muskies in Wisconsin's High lake apparently like the way the bankers toss out their lures. Charles J. Klink, an officer of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, visited that lake with his co-workers, David F. Anderson, Frank H. Etterwind, and Ernest D. Holmes. Mr. Klink hooked a 39 inch specimen after losing one and releasing another just under the legal limit of 30 inches. Harry Swanson of Geneva, Ill., also found the muskies there on the job. He came home with a 20 pounder.

Watch the Wind.

Walter Ross of Hayward, Wis., reports a story familiar to fishermen—storms slow down the luck, and warm winds start the muskies and pike to hitting. Dr. and Mrs. Henry Hofman of 6254 South Ashland avenue were lucky in hitting the walleyes just right. They tried Lostland lake, where they caught two limits averaging close to 3 pounds each. Later they landed a 35 inch muskie from the same lake. Then they tackled the Chippewa flowage [Scott lake] and got more walleyes.

George F. Schnath of 192 North Clark street likewise fooled the walleyes and muskies up there. Using bucktail and spoons, he caught three muskies between 30 and 35 inches long. The Spider lakes chain near Hayward produced for G. H. Warren of 123 North Lamon avenue. He landed three weighing from 18 to 30 pounds.

Since warm weather arrived along the Minnesota border the walleye fishing has improved considerably. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fast of 346 Lionel road, Riverside, Ill., who visited Moose and nearby lakes, got limit catches. Some lake trout weighing more than ten pounds have been caught in that region.

Wild Life in Chicago

A motherless fawn, found near Minocqua, Wis., is on display this summer at the Chicago Union station. The exhibit was arranged by station officials aided by the state of Wisconsin and the Milwaukee road.

THANKS for your help

OUR thanks to the thousands of Alton patrons who are patriotically cooperating in helping to win the war!

The Alton is doing its utmost to meet the needs of civilian travel during this abnormal period and to maintain, as far as possible, its high standard of service.

BUT the transportation requirements of Uncle Sam and his armed forces must come first. There will consequently be times when the types of Pullman accommodations desired are not available or other inconveniences may arise which might never occur in normal times.

We ask your continued patience and understanding in this problem until the main job is done. We sincerely want to serve all to the limit of our ability. Here's how you can help us and yourself:

★ Plan your trips as far ahead as possible.
★ Make your arrangements for Pullman and Coach space early.
★ Cancel those arrangements promptly when your travel plans are changed.
★ If possible make your trips early in the week, to avoid peak rush over week-ends.

The Alton Serves: CHICAGO, BLOOMINGTON, SPRINGFIELD, ST. LOUIS, KANSAS CITY

RESORT OWNERS RALLIED TO SCRAP RUBBER PROGRAM

"We have been fighting to keep gasoline rationing out of the middle west," Hugh J. Gray, secretary-manager, said today. "Now the President is putting it up to the people to prove that there is enough scrap rubber available to forestall that rationing. This campaign gives the resort interests something tangible to do in the war effort."

IF YOU PLAN A TRIP "OVER THE 4th"

Please Remember,

War Travel Comes First!

WAR itself takes no holiday.

So the wheels of the Pennsylvania Railroad will click over the Fourth of July week-end speeding military and war-business travel just as at any other time.

In addition, we shall carry thousands of our armed forces traveling over the week-end.

Please consider these facts in making your holiday travel plans. Try to "time" your trip so as to avoid the peak rush Friday afternoon and evening. Below we offer a number of helpful suggestions—please read them.

To the best of our ability we shall endeavor to accommodate you, but should you be inconvenienced in any manner, please remember we must keep the war effort rolling—first, last and always, holiday or no holiday!

SUGGESTIONS TO HELP MAKE YOUR TRIP RUN SMOOTHLY

1 If possible, start your trip on Wednesday or Thursday to avoid the peak rush on Friday.
2 Plan to return on Monday or later in the week.
3 Whether you're going Pullman or Coach buy your tickets in advance and avoid standing in line at station ticket windows. Buy round trip tickets. You save time and money.
4 If you're going Pullman, please accept whatever accommodations are available. And if you decide to postpone your trip, please cancel your space at once so that it can be assigned to others.
5 If you're going coach, be sure to get to the station well in advance of your train's departure time.

Galloping Hills Horse Show to Feature a Hunt

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOLLOWERS of fox hunts will realize how sensational is the "scoop" which Mrs. Louis F. Swift has scored for her Galloping Hills horse show on Sunday in Wheaton. Mrs. Swift has arranged for the Longmeadow hounds to bring its complete staff to the show, lay a drag, and give an exhibition hunt—a feat which never has been attempted in any horse show. All the hunters and every one competing in the show will ride in the hunt thru the woods adjoining the Galloping Hills farm, over a course similar to a point to point course. Climaxing the hunt will be the kill on the side of the hill. The horses will be judged on their manners and way of going, and trophies will be a fox mask and brush.

A 50 cent general admission fee will admit guests to the show, which will be crowded with events from 10:30 to 6 o'clock. Among the most startling feats will be Mrs. Swift's exhibition of jumping without a bridle or saddle on her Range Wrattler. Proceeds from the show will go to the Chicago Maternity center.

Janet Fairbank Is Starring in Belfry Players' Drama.

If ever an organization were vulnerable to tire rationing and prospective gasoline rationing, it would be the Belfry Players of Williams Bay, Wis. Undaunted by any threats to their comparative inaccessibility, this talented group of artists is enjoying a great success with its first play of the season, "Skylark," in which Concert Singer Janet Fairbank, daughter of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of Chicago and Lake Geneva, Wis., is starred. The final performances of the play will be presented tomorrow, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights, with many loyal supporters from nearby summer resorts out in full force.

There are no transportation problems involved in the annual rummage sale of the Lake Geneva Fresh Air association, for it is being held in Horticultural hall, in the heart of Lake Geneva, all day tomorrow. Uncle Sam released an extra quota of sugar to members of the association to go into the cakes for which the sale is famed.

Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman in Charge of Cake Booth.

Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman is in charge of the cake booth, but her daughter, Miss Jane Zimmerman, an indefatigable worker in previous years, will not be on hand tomorrow as she cannot leave her work at the County hospital, where she is taking a nurse's aide course. Mrs. E. Perry Ellwood is in charge of women's wear, of which the pièce de résistance offered this year is the fragile, lovely mousseline gown Miss Sara Peace wore to Miss Ada Blanche Wrigley's coming out party last summer. That gown and many others probably will be snapped up by the Belfry Players, who add to their costume room each year at the sale.

Miss Edith Kohlsaat is president of the association, which supports Holiday home at Lake Geneva. Historical paintings, old flags, and other interesting items will be for sale in the "victory corner." China, books, rugs, lamps, draperies, jewelry, and bric-a-brac also will be on sale.

Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. is chairman of the venture. Her father-in-law, Mr. Madlener, will act as treasurer with John Bruns. Mrs. Madlener Jr.'s children will not be helping at the sale this year, for they are visiting their other grandfather, former Gov. Frank M. Lowden of Illinois, at his Sinnissippi farm. Mr. Lowden will not open his island home in the Thousand Islands this year. It was not opened during the last war.

Randall Anderson Jr. Home for His Brother's Wedding.

By happy coincidence the Randall Andersons' son, Randall Jr., has come home from his eight month trip around the world in time to be best man on Saturday for his brother, Brentano, when the latter marries Miss Barbara Vosburgh. A long distance call the other night from Boston informed the Andersons that the young traveler had landed in this country after a harrowing voyage menaced by enemy submarines. A second call told of Miss Vosburgh's and Brentano Anderson's sudden decision to be married on Saturday, so the Andersons packed their bags and left yesterday for New York to welcome one son and attend the wedding of the other.

The church ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock. Later the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Vosburgh, will give a reception in their Passaic, N. J., home. Unfortunately the bridegroom's sisters, Miss Georgia and Miss Audrey Anderson, won't be able to make the trip east. Young Mr. Anderson and his bride will take a western trip before going

Print Costumes for Racing Fans Get High Rating

BY REA SEEGER.

With long distance vacation roving frowned upon by the authorities and with military officials rightfully taking seats whenever and wherever they need them, the trains going out to the races these summer weeks will be filled with escapists from office, routine, or too much wartime excitment. At least you'll be sure of your seats for that short distance. Add the fun of brand new grandstand clothes, and going to the races will be listed at the top of get away from it all festivities.

Classic finds include the print dresses and print costumes, clever print dresses with dramatically large patterns and brilliant color contrasts. Red and write prints and that good-looking lime yellow shade are the summer time favorites. Top with a big brimmed sheer hat or one of burnt straw or the linen affairs with rickrack edging along the floppy brim, and you have a costume for the most exciting racing meet.

For chilly days, select any of the smooth hand-knitted costumes, one piece dresses, two piece models, and the three piece ensemble of suit and topcoat in many fascinating new shades, and off-white.

These are the superlative hand knits, unusual patterns, costumes that are guaranteed not to sag or bulge and are, of course, wrinkle proof. Smoke gray, honey beige, moss green, taffy blonde, raspberry, star sapphire blue, stunning russet reds, coppers, midnight blue and black are some of the colors.

There's a swanky new topcoat that is especially ideal for the racing enthusiast. It's military in outline, has a double row of brass buttons, deep pockets and comes in white, beige, and dark colors.

Sleek white jersey and dazzling white sharkskin dresses are slick finds in either the shirtwaist models or the more dressmaker types accented with braid, applique scrolls, stitched bands and metal buckles or the vivid contrasts of colored bands combined with the white in deep yokes, or wide horizontal bands in the skirts.

Leo Kopp, dynamic young conductor of the Chicago Opera company, has been in town to hear auditions on his way to St. Paul, where he will conduct the Minneapolis symphony in a series of "pop" concerts. One number Mr. Kopp will play during the season is his own "Six Sketches of St. Paul." He's named them "Barn Dance," "The Lakes and the River," "Indian Mounds—Past and Present," "Carnival Show on Ice" [the concerts include a 15 minute ice show], "Triumph of an Ideal," and "March of the Legislators." One man who heard the last sketch commented that from its tempo the composer must have had some pretty lighthearted legislators in mind.

Such Is Fame.

The presence of Bobby Jones in Chicago for the Hale America golf tournament recalled an amusing incident to a contributor who signs herself Elah. Some years ago she and her husband were staying at an inn at Bryson, N. C. When the proprietress learned that their favorite sport was golf, she directed them to a course not far from the village, commenting that Bobby Jones, then national champion, would play the course later that year. As the husband waited to tee off he asked one of the caddies, a little country boy, if he hoped to caddy for the champion. The question apparently meant nothing to the lad, so the man asked him if he knew who Bobby Jones was. "Reckon I do," answered the boy, brightening visibly. "He's the little boy lives over in the holler with his maw."

Nippy Wire.

Hugh Robertson, executive vice president of Zenith Radio corporation, is a Scotsman—even to the extent of living on Bonnie Brae road in River Forest. Not long ago he was called to a camp in Mississippi, where his son, Hugh Jr., a lieutenant in the navy, lay seriously ill. Mr. Robertson supplied the blood for a transfusion, and his son recovered rapidly. On Father's day Lieut. Robinson sent his father the following wire: "Best wishes and thanks for the extra pint of Scotch."

For a Pilot.

"He went up there today—up there out of the world of men and into the world of the sky . . . I've heard there's a lady up there, a lady with hair of soft clouds who wears the golden radiance of a beautiful day to blind men. At night she wears black velvet and sprinkles stardust in her hair. . . . When he comes back his face will be tanned and his eyes bluer than ever. The sky will be in them . . . All men who fly look like that; they never seem to see you, just the sky. . . . Will she win him from me or will she be kind and let him fly back? . . . When he flies out over the sea will he think of me? Can he possibly know my emotions every time I see or hear a plane? That I stop and gaze upward to see the sunlight glancing off the wings, and wonder when he'll come back? . . . Does he sing along in tune with the throbbing engines, or is he quiet and content up there in infinity, alone with God? Does he reach out to touch that which is nothing and yet everything? . . . When he's up there alone, please, dear God, help him to do his job. . . . Keep him safe and let him come back to me.

Soldier in Quest of Magic Tricks Seeks Sally's Aid

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Here's an SOS to all amateur magicians from a boy in the air force. He has helped entertain the other men with feats of magic, but now finds himself short of materials and he has been forced to repeat the same old tricks at a number of performances. If any amateur magician would like to help him out by supplying new materials, we will be glad to provide his name and address.

Mrs. K. lives in a small basement apartment on the south side of the city. She has a daughter who has been an invalid for many years. The apartment is uncomfortable during the warm weather, but there is a tiny yard and a little park near by. If Mrs. K. can locate a canvas lawn chair or swing and a small card table, she can make her daughter comfortable in the open air this summer.

If any reader has a rowing machine he no longer uses, Mr. S. would be grateful for it. He is now recovering after an illness of two years, and could utilize such a machine in exercising. He can arrange transportation.

Capital Society Steps on Gas to Meet Royalty

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Washington society has forgotten gasoline rationing and rubber saving in a mad scramble for royal favor.

Good resolutions to use automobiles sparingly dropped by the wayside a short time back during the visit of King George II. of Greece. Socially ambitious Washingtonians rushed to their cars to drive to the Greek legation to leave cards in the hope of obtaining crown embossed invitations.

Scarcely had King George left town when the word went out that King Peter of Jugo-Slavia also would be a White House guest. The race to the Jugo-Slav legation was on for coveted "by command of his majesty, the king" invitations.

Peter is now in town incognito. He does not emerge as King Peter until tomorrow, when he is to be entertained at a stag dinner in the White House. The dinner is to be stag because Mrs. Roosevelt has a speaking engagement in New York.

Since his arrival the social parade has shifted to the Netherlands embassy because of the impending visit of Queen Wilhelmina. The socially minded hope to be able to bend a knee to the queen, who recently arrived in Canada from England, where she has reigned in exile since the Nazi conquest of Holland.

It is expected other royalty without a throne will visit the capital this summer, so that in time the capital of democracy will become used to royalty. But at present the capital is all agog over the royal invitations and the old question of to curtsey or not to curtsey.

Mrs. Roosevelt, an old hand at entertaining royalty, said today the only difference between royal guests and other guests is that the former are more trouble. The royal visitors have to be provided with sitting rooms of their own as well as with sleeping rooms.

Weddings

Miss Adair Orr and Ensign Volney Foster were married at noon yesterday in the Church of Our Savior in San Gabriel, Cal. The Rev. John Atwill, rector, performed the ceremony and a breakfast followed at the Town House in Los Angeles. The bride and her mother, Mrs. Robert Orr, and sister, Miss Nancy Orr, went west last week for the wedding, after the date had been set once, then postponed, and then set again. Miss Jane Swift, who was a bridesmaid with Miss Nancy Orr, and the bridegroom's father, Volney Foster of Lake Forest, also went west at the same time and Miss Eleanor McClurg joined them later. She also was a bridesmaid.

Announcement is made of the marriage on June 18 of Miss Betty Bronson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Reid R. Bronson of Evanston, and Kirkpatrick W. Dilling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Dilling of Kenilworth. The ceremony took place in St. Mark's Episcopal church, Evanston, with a reception following at the Georgian hotel. Mr. Dilling and his bride have gone to Wisconsin on a wedding trip.

Mrs. Frederick W. Preston.

Mrs. Frederick W. Preston was Miss Gertrude Bradford until her marriage yesterday in New York to a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Preston of Lake Forest. Dr. Preston and his bride will reside in Rochester, Minn., where he has a fellowship at the Mayo clinic, until he is called into active service.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard Hamilton of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to Frank Whiteman Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Lindsay of Hollis, N. Y. Miss Hamilton is a graduate of Northwestern university and of the American Conservatory of Music and has been teaching instrumental music in Bronxville, N. Y. Mr. Lindsay is a graduate of Haverford college and of Columbia university and teaches languages at the Friends' school in Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding will take place this summer, and Mr. Lindsay and his bride will reside in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hammerschmidt of Elmhurst announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jean, to Martin Stoker. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Stoker, also of Elmhurst.

Swedish Group of Methodism Enters Merger

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Swedish Methodism in the United States came to a close as a bilingual church yesterday, and today churches of the old Central Northwest [Swedish] annual conference in northern Illinois will become members of the Rock River conference. The affairs of the old Central Northwest were wound up yesterday at Elim church, Barry and Osgood avenues, where final sessions were held.

The Swedish conference comprises about 70 churches which will merge with a dozen annual conferences of the former conference's geographical area composed of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, and Iowa. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorff of the Chicago area explained the merger is in line with trends in all Protestant communions to become purely English speaking. He pointed also to the decline in immigration which accentuates that trend. The five other Swedish conferences have previously merged with English groups. Swedish Methodism came to its end in its 64th year.

A few years ago all German conferences were merged with English conferences. Today, as the sessions of the Rock River conference are opened at First Methodist church, Evanston, Bishop Waldorf will welcome the former Swedish pastors and congregations into the Rock River conference. Sessions of that conference hitherto have always been held in the fall, but last year it was voted to adopt early summer dates.

Induction ceremonies for the new Rock River congregations and ministers will take place immediately after the organization of the conference with Dr. Clifford W. Newham speaking on behalf of the Rock River conference and Dr. Eric P. Swan for the old Central Northwest group.

At noon the memorial service for deceased members of the conference will be conducted by Dr. A. Turley Stephenson, superintendent of the Chicago Northern district. Dr. John H. De Lacy of Thoburn church will deliver the annual memorial address.

Sessions will come to a close Sunday afternoon with the reading of pastoral appointments.

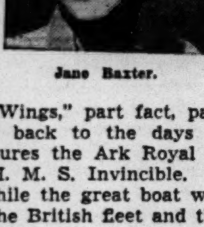
By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The Woods screen is playing host to an excellent aircraft picture. It's dedicated to Britain's aircraft carrier H. M. S. Ark Royal which, in November, 1941, was sent to the bottom of the Mediterranean by a Nazi bomb.



Jane Baxter.

The story, "Ships with Wings," part fact, part fiction, harks back to the days of 1936 and features the Ark Royal in the rôle of H. M. S. Invincible. It was filmed while the great boat was still part of the British fleet and the scenes aboard her are said to be authentic as to technical detail, to have been taken by an expert photographer who sailed on her for many miles.

The purpose of the tale is to stress the tremendous importance of the aircraft carrier in modern warfare, and I assure you that you sit on the edge of your seat half the time as you follow the adventures of the lone carrier and the men who sail her and fly her planes. . . . It is an eventful, believable story acted with restraint and good taste—which never for a moment dampen the force of a portrayal.

The principal character is a young English flyer, Lieut. Stacey, who for an act of deviltry reaps tragedy—and discharge from the air force. . . . The stigma of cowardice is upon him because the lad who could have cleared him dies without regaining consciousness. . . . Dies because of the aforementioned act. . . . And the victim is the son of the vice admiral and brother of Celia Weatherby, the girl Stacey loves. . . .

Stacey vanishes—to reappear later as one of two pilots for a one plane air line operating from a small island in the eastern Mediterranean. . . . The war is declared, Wagner, the other pilot, is revealed as a spy. . . . The loyal Greek owner of the line and Kay Gordon, a girl who had loved Stacey enough to ferret out his hiding place and voluntarily share his exile, are killed. . . . And at last Stacey is able to give valuable service to his country and to—jealously!—make for her the supreme sacrifice. . . .

There's so much splendid acting in the film that it's difficult to pick favorites. . . . John Clements looks—and acts—a lot like Fred Astaire. Brilliant player and most lovable personality. . . . Leslie Banks as the vice admiral is magnificent. . . . So real. . . . Basil Sydney as Capt. Fairfax—who has always insisted in arguments with the admiral that "some day the carrier will serve when your guns are useless"—is quiet power personified. . . . Jane Baxter is gravely lovely as the admiral's daughter. . . . Direction, dialog—tops!

Time and again the audience paid tribute in spontaneous applause, and I know the film has appeal for young and old alike, because of the thrilled and constant whispered comments of two little boys who sat behind me.

See you tomorrow.

The Housewife

If your family gives a lot of hard wear to shower bath curtains you'll be interested to know there are some practical and good looking new ones on the market that cost only a little over a dollar and give excellent service. At this price one can lay in a supply. They are perfectly plain and come in green, gold, and several other colors. They are made of a synthetic material that won't crack or stick together. If you want something more costly and smarter looking there is a really charming curtain in pure white with a design of big red strawberries that is stunning. This is a different fabric and is nontransparent.

EDITH WEIGLE.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., June 23.—Harry Cohn should be down on his knees in gratitude to Twentieth Century for making Rita Hayworth a star. She has been billed as one, but not until she crashed thru in "My Gal Sal" did she really develop into one. Now Cohn's making the most of her. He's lined up four pictures this year—"The Gay Señorita" now in work, with my pet, Fred Astaire; "Cover Girl," "Miss Grant Takes Richmond," and Washington will grant Melvyn Douglas a leave of absence while he plays opposite her; "Defense Town," with Humphrey Bogart. Not bad for an unknown of a couple of years ago, is it?

To Curl or Not to Curl.

No wonder Frank Morgan likes movies. His hair grows down on his shoulders like Buffalo Bill's and has to be curled with the tongs each morning. He sends his man ahead to the hairdresser, and when he gets the word that the room is filled with young lovelies and everything is going full blast, Morgan walks in and has himself a time! . . . Yet we lost a great actor by the curling tong method once. His name was Lars Hanson. He played in "The Scarlet Letter." . . . When Dusolina Giannini, opera star, said, "How do you dot it? You have sang on Bing Crosby's show she said, "How do you do it? You have the most beautiful natural voice I've ever heard!" "Shhhh!" hissed Bing, clutching her and dragging her into his dressing room. "I've been getting away with this for years—you're not going to give me away!"

Night Owls Strutting.

To survive, independent theaters have to keep thinking up new gags. At the Hawaii here, they started a swing shift performance each Saturday night which runs from midnight to 2 a. m. We have 100,000 men and women in this vicinity working that shift. . . . At the première of "The Gold Rush" Marjorie Woodworth had a blind date with Philip Hallahan from Peoria, Ill., who can toss screws and bolts at a defense plant faster than anybody there. Well, when the show was over, he said, "Now I'm taking you dancing." And where do you think they went? To Ocean park, where 4,000 others were doing the same thing. They got home at 7 a. m. Now the boys at the plant are asking for his autograph, but what they don't know is that these two have another date, not blind, at the dance hall down there in Peoria, which a year ago was playing records but now has enough money for a name band. Duke Ellington is booked in, and between eight and ten thousand people a night have fun. I've just got to change my beat.

O! Not That Again!

Adolphe Menjou, just back from a tour of Canadian camps and hospitals, laughed when he told me about a big colored man he came across in a hospital. When Adolphe was handing out autographs, this man didn't ask for one. Menjou said, "Don't you want an autograph?" "No, sir! No, sir!" was the answer. When Menjou moved on, the nurse whispered to him, "He thought you meant another injection!" . . . Menjou was telling Gus Schilling about new methods of growing vegetables with chemicals. "Pretty soon," grumbled Schilling, "They'll be making pictures without actors." Menjou replied, "Well, Disney's been doing it for years!" . . . Grace MacDonald and brother Ray, under contract to different studios, will dance together for the first time in four years, but only for a benefit. They were a well known team until Ray broke his ankle. Then they split up and both got fine picture contracts.

Why Not?

Sequel to "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" isn't "Hell Bent Mr. Jordan," but has been changed to "The Return of Mr. Jordan." Reason is, since Jordan comes from heaven, they can't very well use the word "hell" in connection with him. Claude Rains and Eddie Horton will again be in it, but Bob Montgomery is out of reach, so they'll have a new set of central characters. I hope they won't overlook Jimmy Gleason. For years Abbott and Costello kept a private poker game going between scenes. Now it's grown important. The other day Costello lost $1,000 on one hand, and when a Greek, a professional gambler from Chicago, got going, $11,000 was dropped. Producer Gottlieb takes a hand now and again, and so does Sherman, Lou's agent. Sherman still takes 10 per cent—sometimes more!

Facts and Fancy.

Fantastic figures have been given out when stars return from a bond-selling tour, such as one made by Dorothy Lamour, who supposedly sold $125,000,000. Bob Hope, who's not a bad salesman either, is credited with having sold only $6,000,000. While the treasury department is grateful, they've asked that in the future all amounts be verified thru their office. Fancy figures give a star who might go atouring an inferiority complex. It gives me one just writing about it.

What's in a Name?

June Havoc, who's causing havoc in "My Sister Eileen," has joined up with the women's disaster squad in Beverly, and is learning how to revive men who are victims of shock. No doubt they've read her sister, Gypsy Rose Lee's, book. . . . Two big Metro writers got onto the "White Cargo" set to feast their eyes on Hedy Lamarr's scant attire. They were spied by Director Dick Thorpe and promptly thrown out. . . . David Butler, who will again direct Bob Hope, this time for Goldwyn, says he's never been treated so well. Over at Goldwyn's he has 20 offices. Nineteen of them are locked but that doesn't disturb him. Sam says they're all open to him if he wants to sling a party. . . . Freddie Martin says the modern mother tells her tot: "If you eat your spinach, you may grow up to be tested for Maria in 'For Whom the Bell Tolls'."

Must Your Daughter Risk Happy Marriage on Half-Truths?

Many a mother, reared in days of false modesty, dreads to "tell her daughter." Little wonder so many young wives unknowingly risk happiness by using overstrong solutions of acids for feminine hygiene which can actually burn, scar and harm delicate tissue.

Today such doubts and unhappiness, such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles bought. Get Zonite at your druggist today.

Free Book Tells Intimate Facts

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Ham roll is one of the very best of the hundreds of good dishes which may be made from ham scraps. Served hot with fresh horseradish sauce, it makes a meal to be exclaimed about.

Ham Roll.
[Eight servings.]
1¾ cups ground cooked ham
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon milk
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup solid shortening
About ⅝ cup milk

Mix ham, onion, parsley, mustard and the tablespoon of milk. Make biscuit dough by sifting dry ingredients, cutting in shortening and stirring in milk. Turn dough onto a lightly floured board and knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll into a rectangle ¼ inch thick. Spread with ham mixture, roll jelly-roll fashion and seal edge. Bake on a baking sheet at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Slice and serve hot with horseradish blended with whipped cream, or with plain horseradish.

A sauce is excellent with a dish like this, too. You can make a regular white sauce, if you wish, and flavor it with horseradish or mustard, then pour it over the roll just before it is carried to the table. Mushroom sauce, cheese sauce, and celery sauce, all made on a white sauce base, are good with the roll, too.

The same idea—seasoned, ground meat wrapped up in baking powder biscuit dough, may be carried over to other meats. Leftover chicken or other fowl is excellent prepared in this way and served with chicken gravy, if possible. Ham or chicken roll may be served to guests without the least feeling of dishing up leftovers. You may even want to go out and buy fresh meat to cook just for one of these rolls!

Maple Chiffon Pie.
3 eggs
1 cup maple sirup
1 cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped pecans [optional]
9 inch pie crust

Beat egg yolks and add sirup, milk and salt. Cook in the top of a double boiler, stirring frequently, for 10 minutes. Soften gelatin for 5 minutes in cold water and add to hot custard. Stir until dissolved. Add butter. Chill until mixture begins to thicken, then beat until light with a rotary beater, and fold in egg whites which have been beaten until stiff. If nuts are used, sprinkle them over the baked pie crust. Pour in filling and chill until firm. Serve garnished with whipped cream.

The pie may be made with corn sirup and flavored with maple extract, if desired.

I've suggested a cereal beverage for the evening drink in place of coffee. These products are excellent, and have fine flavor. They can help us make our coffee supply go farther, if we'll learn to put them into our menus once in a while.

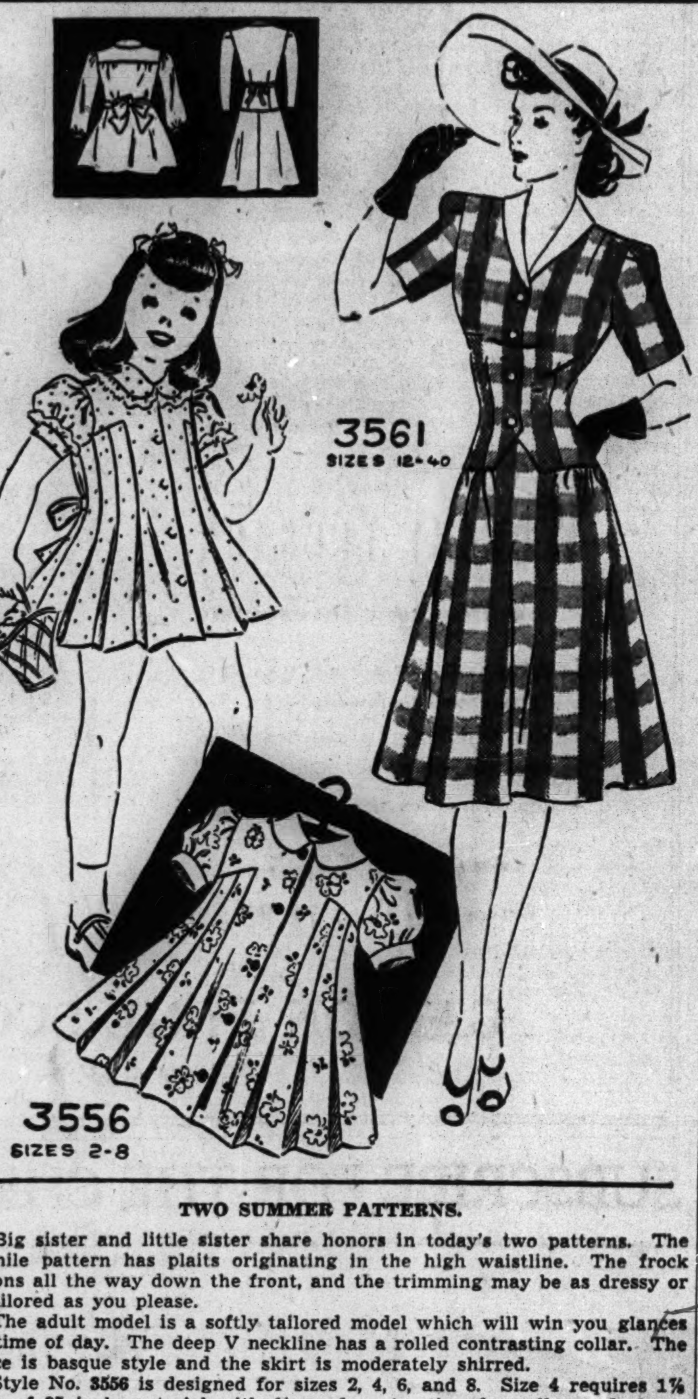
Midshipman Wins 'Queen' for Arlington Whirlaway

Midshipman Jack Bristow of Richmond, Va., a student in the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university, yesterday won the right to take Miss Nadine Kinney to the Arlington Whirlaway, a dance to be given next Saturday night at the Arlington Park race track for the benefit of Bundles for America. Miss Kinney, a volunteer worker at Bundles for America, and a favorite charity fashion show mannequin, and Midshipman Bristow will lead the dance. Miss Kinney was queen of the Northwestern Navy ball this year.

Models for the Season



TWO SUMMER PATTERNS.

Big sister and little sister share honors in today's two patterns. The juvenile pattern has plaits originating in the high waistline. The frock buttons all the way down the front, and the trimming may be as dressy or as tailored as you please.

The adult model is a softly tailored model which will win you glances any time of day. The deep V neckline has a rolled contrasting collar. The bodice is basque style and the skirt is moderately shirred.

Style No. 3556 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅞ yards of 35 inch material with ¼ yard contrasting for collar and sleeve bands.

Style No. 3561 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3⅜ yards of 35 inch material with ⅜ yard contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred)—wrap it carefully, for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The summer pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade king and declarer won with the ace. Six diamond tricks then were dashed off, to West's acute discomfort. On the third and fourth rounds he let go two low spades; on the fifth, a low club, and on the sixth reduced to the Q-J of spades. When three rounds of hearts followed, however, West started to squirm. On the third round he had to choose between blanking the club king and blanking the spade queen. With the deep sigh of self-pity, he threw the jack of spades. This, of course, was "duck soup" for declarer, who had been worrying about the club finesse from the very start. It now was the simplest thing in the world to throw West on lead, by leading the spade ten, and force a club return up to the major tenace.

Imagination and sound defense on West's part almost certainly would have led to a far different result. West could see that he would be forced to make four discards on the diamond suit and, since it was highly probable that South held the heart queen, another discard on the third heart. Three of these discards could safely be spades and one a club; the fifth, and crucial one, would have to be deceptive. If declarer did not have the ace-queen of clubs it would do no harm to blank the king of clubs. If he did hold the ace-queen, it was just as vital to blank the club king, without groaning or squirming, in order to avoid a throw-in play that was easily predictable. Thus, had West quietly discarded two clubs, leaving his king unprotected, it is a good bet that the declarer would have gone wrong.

Conference Opened by United Charities for Visitors to Aged

Preparatory to a new program of volunteer visiting for the aged, the United Charities yesterday opened a conference for a corps of 20 women who have enlisted for the morale project. A second meeting will be held today in room 936-A in the Merchandise mart. The purpose of the conference is to fortify the volunteers in their charitable intent with scientific knowledge, provided by social workers and psychiatrists specialized in problems common to old age.

Yesterday Dr. Jack Weinburg, chief psychiatrist of the Chicago Community clinic, spoke on behavior patterns in the aged and the institutionalization of old persons. Joel D. Hunter, general superintendent of the United Charities, and Mrs. Clara Paul Paige of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, talked on existing services for the aged and the need for a volunteer visitors' service.

Stage Notes

Chicago will see its third Eileen in "My Sister Eileen" when Peggy Van Vleet takes over the title rôle at the Selwyn theater Monday evening. She replaces Marcy Wescott, who wants a rest after arduous months of touring. Last summer Miss Wescott also left the cast, and was replaced for several weeks by K. T. Stevens.

Two of the middle west's most competent summer theaters open their doors tonight. The Port players, who have moved from Port Washington to a new and more modern theater in the Shorewood auditorium in Shorewood, a suburb of Milwaukee, begin an 11 week season with "The Philadelphia Story." The Shady Lane playhouse, located in a real barn 3½ miles west of Marengo, Ill., on highway 20, starts off tonight with a revival of "Twin Beds."

Aid Is Planned for Wives of Men in Service

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"The least a grateful nation can do is to see to it that the wives of men in the armed forces who have babies are properly cared for."

With these words [my quotation may not be exact] Miss Katharine Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau, ended her address before the luncheon meeting of the Maternity Center association which I attended because it was devoted to the subject of "Maternity in Wartime."

I'm sure there are many young women with husbands already in service who will be glad to know that both federal and state governments are organizing themselves to provide for the care of those who are expecting babies and who have neither funds nor private physicians at their command. To quote Miss Lenroot:

"It was recognized by the [children's] charter [in wartime] that the safety and protection of the families of our fighting men is the center of what they fight for, and that to men on the production front the welfare of their families and homes is basic to morale. To children in wartime the home is vital, as a center of security and hope and love. It must therefore be our first care that the mothers in our homes be safeguarded in every possible way, especially during the maternity period; and that children should have health supervision from the prenatal period thru adolescence.

"A special problem created by the war is that of providing obstetric and pediatric medical and hospital care for the wives and children of men in the armed forces. At a meeting on March 27 the state and territorial health officers recommended that state health agencies develop plans to finance such care from maternal and child health funds. On May 1, the Children's bureau sent a communication to state health agencies notifying them that in order to make this care possible the Children's bureau has set aside 10 per cent of the fund designated as 'Fund B' for the fiscal year 1943, amounting to $198,000, for allotment to the state health agencies wishing to finance this type of care.

"It is recommended that all expectant mothers, irrespective of legal residence, who state that the father of the expected child is in the military service and not a commissioned officer, should be eligible for obstetric, medical and hospital services provided under the maternal and child health program, without cost to the family, whenever to the knowledge of the state health agency such medical and hospital services are not otherwise readily available to the patient.

"The type of care contemplated by the proposed plans which, under the policies recommended, would include provisions for maintaining acceptable standards of service, has already been provided by the Washington state health department in the area around Fort Lewis. Here prenatal clinics are available, medical and hospital care at time of delivery is paid for by maternal and child health funds, public health nurses visit the homes of the families, and medical social workers assist the mothers in making plans and adjusting family budgets. Tho this project was started only last August, more than 100 wives of service men have been cared for, and 175 expectant mothers are now under care."

Thru the Looking Glass

Working men and working women, and even children who are on the high strung side can use a good pine bath with profit. At the end of a hard day of physical exercise or mental strain a soothing bath has a therapeutic effect that is heightened, we think, by the addition of a good, tangy pine oil.

There's a new one out—a pine needle oil it's called—that is excellent. It's true pine, really that "breath of the woods" you read about but seldom find. A small amount of it in a steaming tub makes your bath a piney sea in which your troubles and your nerve kinks will melt. Muscle strain, too, if you've been working too hard or exercising too strenuously will be eased considerably.

We particularly like the way this oil is packed and priced. It's got appeal for these times. A 12 ounce bottle is one the whole hardworking family will feel free to use and the price is reasonable. The men and women who are working in defense industries—and they're working hard in case you haven't heard—will find this a bath trimming they can afford and one that is more than just a trimming.

This is the kind of a pine version that men like just as much as women do. It's not perfumey, but rather it's the perfect, true translation of one of the most bracing fragrances nature provides.

Women in War Work

Employers' problems in having women in war work formed the subject of a forum of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Hotel La Salle last night. More than 1,500, the majority of them women, heard Harry Kessler, president of the Tuthill Pump company and chairman of the session, summarize the record of women in industry. "Women are driving trains, riveting, doing major assembly work," he said. "Now that brute strength has been eliminated, there is no limit to what women can do."

Among the conclusions reached in the discussion were that women don't like to work for women, that women bosses "know all of the tricks," and that women bosses get more production.

The record of the 500,000 women who have gone into war industry since Pearl Harbor [there were 300,000 before] was described as excellent. The manufacturers were advised to hire carefully, to train a training staff, to avoid giving women stretching and lifting jobs. They also were assured that their new women workers would give satisfaction.

The Kenilworth Girls' Service organization is making nearly a full time job of entertaining service men. The members will be hostesses at the Highland Park USO center at a party for service men on Friday evening, and they entertain again on Sunday evening at the Waukegan USO center.

The Chicago Woman's club is entertaining 250 soldiers from Camp Grant in the club home, 72 East 11th street, on Saturday evening. Dancing, games, singing, and plenty of food make up the brief statement of plans for the evening. Mrs. Frank H. White, who holds open house for men in uniform at her home, 1716 West 103d street, every Sunday, is chairman of arrangements for the club party. Mrs. White, who is recording secretary of the club, will be assisted by Mrs. Allen H. Dawson, Mrs. Morris Fishbein, Mrs. Robert E. Lanestrem, Mrs. Harley H. Johnson, Mrs. Harold Leopold, Mrs. Grant Senn, Mrs. S. V. Robuck, and Mrs. Vinton E. Sisson. Mrs. C. D. Eulette, president of the club, also is helping with the plans.

Housewives whose responsibility is to keep this nation well fed despite shortages and rationing are front line war workers, even tho their campaigns are all carried on over their own kitchen ranges. For them, then, this little story of the Kenwood Consumer Information center Victory luncheon may be an indication of things to come.

The Kenwood group decided recently to present a low cost nutrition meal. It was advertised as open to the public at St. James' church, 46th street and Greenwood avenue. The cost—just 37 cents a person. Fearfully the center's staff members planned for 100. They insured themselves against total failure by agreeing what each member would take home and pay for after the meal was over.

The great day came. At noon hungry men and women stormed the doors. Half way thru the meal the women knew they didn't have enough food. Mrs. P. F. Ciral, 5017 Drexel boulevard, a resident of the district for 11 years, was sent out to shop. In her excitement she took off her glasses, wondered why everything looked strange, and finally got lost.

Eventually a truck driver directed her, and she remembered her "specs." Even with reënforcements some of the customers had to take refunds after the last servings had been divided and subdivided. That popular menu was a porcupine meat ball, which is ground beef with lots of rice mixed in to "extend" it; a Spanish gravy, which is a mixture of tomatoes and celery, and buttered string beans. Two pieces of bread with butter went with each serving, as well as a salad of cabbage, carrots, and green peppers. Dessert was a piece of cake made with sirup for sweetening.

Every one liked the food, ate so much of it that the staff of 10 had only bread crusts to dunk into the last little bit of gravy for lunch. They finished, dead tired, at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Ciral, who is assistant to Mrs. F. W. Beedy, chief of program service at the Consumers' Information bureau, 228 North La Salle, says that the Kenwood group's experience would indicate that war meals are going to be popular.

Members of the morning volunteer group of the South Park way center of the YWCA are circulating a statement and pledge in their neighborhood as a measure toward building civilian morale for the war effort. Already more than 200 have signed this statement:

"Because I believe in the social, political, and spiritual equality of all men and women; because I believe in the justification of the cause of the allied nations in the present world conflict; because I believe that the forces of justice and right will finally prevail;

"As a Negro woman I pledge myself [1] To work faithfully that all men and women be given adequate opportunity to live, work, and serve their country on an equal basis; [2] to encourage our legislators and armed forces in their defense of our country, to promote civilian defense by buying war bonds, and saving and salvaging materials; [3] to work for a peace built on the principles of justice and brotherhood among all mankind."

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

George S. Watson to Wed Eastern Girl on July 11.

The Cornelius Bushnell Watsons, who saw one son married earlier this month, have a second romantic event on their calendar within the next few weeks. Miss Helen Elise Wilmer and George Smith Watson have decided to be married on July 11 in St. Luke's church, Germantown, Pa. Mrs. Norman Mellor and Miss Margaret Willcox of Philadelphia will be the honor attendants for Miss Wilmer, whose parents are Dr. and Mrs. Harry Bond Wilmer of Germantown. Cornelius B. Watson Jr. is to be his brother's best man. Their brother, Gilbert L. Watson II., and the former Marie Louise Richards were married on June 6.

Surprising news is that of the marriage of Mrs. McFahrich Kirk and Stanley Mitchell, formerly of Monte Carlo, on Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's son, Samuel A. Culbertson II., and Mrs. Culbertson. Only the families, including the bride's aunt, Miss Mary McFatrich, and sister, Mrs. William M. Scudder; Mr. Culbertson's sister, Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., and Mrs. Scudder's son, James Braun, and Mrs. Braun were present. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are going to Santa Barbara for a few months. Mr. Mitchell, a retired naval officer, is a graduate of the United States Naval academy. Mrs. Mitchell recently was divorced from Wallace F. Kirk.

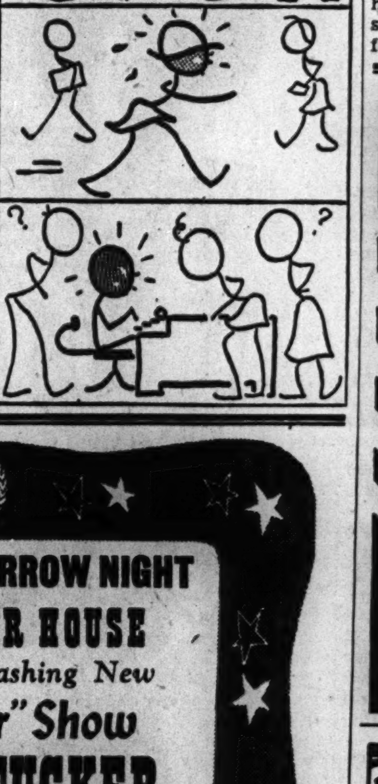
Dear Diary

BY BECKY



White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Happiest Years.

A professor doing sociological research at Iowa State college asked 450 persons over 65 years old what was the happiest period of their lives. The greatest number—well over half—answered that they were happiest during the years of young adulthood—25 to 45.

From the results of the survey one might draw some heartening conclusions. The average person gains more satisfaction from the years of hardest work and heaviest responsibility than he does from the carefree years of childhood.

Work and responsibility are the normal counterparts of life. The normal person recognizes this. The business man who looks back with longing to his boyhood days or the busy mother or business woman who thinks wistfully of the long ago little girl years, when there was no more serious problem than the choice of the right hair-ribbon—these are the exceptions.

Most persons have more fun doing something and saying [in popular radio slang], "I dood it."

Salvage Advice.

Mrs. Anne Zinser, director of women's activities for the state salvage drive of the War Production board, calls on the white collar girls, who, she says, "can be tremendously helpful if they will concentrate on rescuing old erasers, rubber bands that have lost their elasticity, and rubber stamps that are free of wood."

Mrs. Zinser might be interested in a letter from three South Bend white collar girls. After following the usual suggestions for salvage, the girls, when they had some spare time, went thru the storage boxes of old time cards, tied the packs together with string, and salvaged the rubber bands.

Lunch Companions.

If you go back to the office and your lunch is stuck just about at your collar bone, don't blame the food; blame your companions!. So says the man in charge of a large dining room where distinguished executives are wont to settle their business deals.

If you can help it, he says, don't go out to lunch with persons you don't like. Directing his advice to your digestion, he adds that business arguments can curdle the smoothest cream sauce, while unpleasant associates who accompany you to lunch can ruin the chef's best dish.

"I never eat lunch with people who argue," said a serene appearing professional woman. The result? She relaxed and derived some benefit from her food, went back to her office refreshed.

Turning the Wheel.

"Regarding Betty Bayer's story of the letter press in which she says, 'Imagine having to do that now!' Well, I do, believe it or not, besides making carbon copies of all letters. I showed the article to my employer thinking he would take the hint—but—I still turn the wheel on the press."—EOA.

Clothing Allowance of $184.91 Provided for WAAC Member

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Here's what it will cost Uncle Sam to dress his WAACS—the women soon to join the army's auxiliary corps.

One item in the women's bill, $10 a pair for gloves, was described by Rep. George H. Mahon [D., Tex.] as "outrageous."

The figures were disclosed by the house appropriations committee in sending to the floor a bill for funds for the army for 1943.

HOTEL IS CLOSED AS A VENEREAL DISEASE MENACE

North Side Place Named in Three Complaints.

Chicago health officials yesterday revived the fight against venereal diseases by invoking the 32 year old law of quarantining houses of prostitution and other dwellings where infection has been discovered.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, board of health president, announced that he has quarantined the Lane hotel, a five story building at 878 North Clark street, in an effort to halt the spread of syphilis, gonorrhea, and other venereal diseases among service men. It is the first action of its kind since the war began.

Three Cases Discovered.

The action was taken after three cases of infection were discovered, all during last week-end. Under the quarantine nobody may enter or leave the place. The quarantine sign will be taken down only after department of health officials give the place a clean bill of health, Dr. Bundesen said.

The sign was posted Monday afternoon but was torn down several hours later. Dr. Bundesen ordered it posted again yesterday and Capt. Frank Reynolds of the Chicago avenue police station issued orders to patrolmen to see that the sign stays up.

Dr. Bundesen declared that the first complaints against the hotel concerning infection of service men were received in April. At that time the department of health warned the owner, Frank Demeter, to see that all women suspected of venereal diseases be sent to the board's clinic at 26th street and Wabash avenue.

Owner Appears to Protest.

The complaints continued to come in, Dr. Bundesen asserted. Demeter appeared at the board of health offices with a lawyer denying the hotel harbored prostitutes. The quarantine order was issued after renewed complaints were made over the last week-end.

"Chicago has the best record in fighting venereal diseases of any city of more than a million population in America," Dr. Bundesen said yesterday. "The department of health intends to see that this record is maintained. Special attention will be given to the protection of service men, and in this effort the commands of the armed forces are coöperating."

Military authorities in the Chicago area yesterday complimented police and department of health officials in keeping down the spread of venereal infection among service men by clamping down on prostitution.

Since Jan. 1 about 150 venereal disease cases have been contracted among service men thruout the city, it was estimated.

2 WORKERS DIE IN PLUNGE WHEN SCAFFOLD SLIPS

Two workmen plunged to their death yesterday from the steeple of the First Presbyterian church in Evanston when an anchor of the scaffold which held them broke or slipped. An elderly woman about to enter the church was almost struck by their falling bodies.

The dead are Eric E. Johnson, 41 years old, 1628 Balmoral avenue, and Melvin Anderson, 36, of 6733 Jean avenue, both of Chicago. They had been tuck pointing on the church tower [filling cracks between the stones with cement] when the scaffolding dropped from under them at 10:30 a. m.

The two men, their tools, buckets of water, and cement fell 60 feet into Lake street. Mrs. Ida Mae Peaslee, 77, of 1021 Grove street, about to enter the church to attend a Red Cross first aid class, was almost struck by the falling men, and was showered with water and rubble.

She ran inside the church and summoned other members of the class, but Johnson was already dead and Anderson was beyond help. He died three hours later in St. Francis hospital.

OPEN RECRUITING OFFICE FOR 13TH ARMY HOSPITAL

Recruiting headquarters for the army's 13th general hospital has been established in the Presbyterian hospital, with Capt. William Willis in charge. There are openings for 200 men, including automobile mechanics, chauffeurs, hospital orderlies, medical and dental technicians, tailors, clerks, stenographers, mess sergeants, and drill and administration men.

Lieutenant Colonels Edwin Miller and Homer Nicholl head the hospital. They served in France during World War I. with base hospital 13, to which the present unit is successor.

PREDICT HEAVY RAIL, AUTO, BUS TRAVEL JULY 4TH

Heavy travel by rail, bus, and private automobile is in prospect for the Fourth of July week-end, said travel experts yesterday. Major railroads are planning extra trains, and the Chicago Motor club warned motorists to make reservations at hotels now because resorts are reporting more business than ever.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, said that because there is no gas rationing in the middle west and because the Fourth falls on a Saturday, the highways into and out of Chicago will be crowded. One bright point is that with no new roads under construction there are no detours with which to contend.

Hayes urged a five point program to prevent accidents: Take plenty of time for the trip, don't pass on hills or curves or weave in and out of traffic, don't drink and drive, don't forget to use hand signals, and don't expect the other motorist to observe safety rules.

Vacationists are advised to take with them their sugar ration books if they plan stays of any length of time. If more than 12 meals are eaten in summer resort or hotel, surrender of the books is asked.

Mexico's Biggest Lake Agitated by Earthquake

MEXICO CITY, June 23 (AP).—Guadalajara dispatches said today that an earthquake at the nearby resort of Chapala had caused one death and serious injury to another victim. Waters on 60 mile long Lake Chapala, largest in Mexico, were agitated greatly by the tremors. The quake was felt in a number of Jalisco state villages but no further casualties were reported.

406 LETTERS, BUT NOT ONE FOR HER HUSBAND IN ARMY

Young Wife Tells Judge His Are Too Dull.

If you're a soldier in the United States army, you stand a fair chance of getting a letter from Mrs. Marion Raines—she's written to 406 already—unless you're the young woman's husband; she won't even write him to ask for money.

Mrs. Raines is 21 years old and lives at 735 West 80th street, with her two sons, Thomas Jr. 3, and Richard, 2. She appeared in the court of Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday to see what could be done about collecting the $42 her husband, Thomas, 23, formerly a coal dealer, owes her.

Support Money Ordered.

Raines, who filed suit for divorce against his wife charging desertion, was drafted by his local board last week. Pending hearing of the suit, he had been ordered to pay $15 a week for support of his sons.

At a hearing a month ago, Raines gave Judge Desort 106 letters his wife had received in correspondence with a like number of soldiers. Her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, yesterday handed over an additional 300 letters.

"Our client is bidding fair to become the sweetheart of the USO—or the U. S. A.," Norman Becker told the court. "Being a patriot, she answers all the soldiers' letters she receives. But this arrearage now. . . ."

"Why doesn't she write her soldier husband a nice letter?" interrupted the judge. "Maybe he'd come thru with the money."

Letters "Too Dull."

"No, sir!" stated Mrs. Raines. "That's one soldier I won't write to. Not even for $15 a week. His letters are too dull, and I'm not even sure he can write."

Judge Desort said he would have to take the matter under advisement. The Raineses were married Feb. 3, 1938, and separated in April, 1941.

Park Safety Plaque Won by Special Service Unit

A safety plaque was presented to Evan I. Kelly, director of the parks' special service department, at the semimonthly meeting of the park district board yesterday. None of the department's employés was injured during the last 18 months. The department serves the planetarium, zoo, and yacht harbors. The park board also ordered the payment of $500,000 in tax anticipation warrants with interest.

2 TELL JURY HOW ZILLER FORMED POLITICAL CLUB

Testify at Quiz Into Job Sale Racket.

Bloomington, Ill., June 23 [Special].—Two witnesses who appeared today before the McLean county grand jury were reported to have told how the Democratic club of Weston was organized and managed by George W. Ziller. The grand jury is looking into charges that Ziller collected large sums from residents of several Illinois towns to get them jobs as laborers or truck drivers on the government ordnance plants at Kankakee and Elwood.

It previously had been disclosed that Ziller exacted $25 as membership fees in the club from men who got jobs as laborers. This was in addition to an initiation fee and two months dues—a total of $21—which were paid to Ziller as agent for the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' union in Joliet.

Officials in Club.

The witnesses, John Meints and Russell Brandt of Weston, the McLean county village in which Ziller maintained a home, were respectively vice president and secretary of the club when it was incorporated with the secretary of state. Both men were said to have denied ever handling any of the club's funds, and to have testified that Ziller did all the work.

Outside the grand jury room Brandt, who said both he and Meints had been chauffeurs for Ziller, asserted he had met a state official, W. D. [Don] Forsyth, in the Ziller home at Weston.

"It was a social occasion," Brandt said, "and I think Forsyth was there for dinner."

Forsyth is in the automobile department of the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes and is the Democratic nominee for state treasurer.

Placed in Jobs by Ziller.

When it was disclosed by investigators for Attorney General George F. Barrett and State's Attorney Clifford N. Coolidge, who are coöperating in the presentation of evidence to the grand jury, that many telephone calls were made from Ziller to Forsyth, the latter asserted that Ziller had annoyed him about getting a low auto license number. He admitted, however, that he had sent some men to Ziller and that thru him they were placed in jobs.

Another witness of the day was R. R. Howard, an executive of the Anthony Body works at Streator. His testimony was not disclosed. Earlier he told the investigators that Ziller had demanded a fee for the sale of truck bodies used on the ordnance construction and told him "You'll find yourselves in a brier patch if you don't pay."

TRIBUNE'S SALE OF SERVICE PINS IS NEARING 50,000

Sales of service pins for relatives and sweethearts of men in the armed forces is expected to pass the 50,000 mark before the week is over, John Gillespie, director of the public service offices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, said yesterday.

Seven hundred of the gold-plated pins, bearing the emblems of the army, navy, marines, coast guard and the air forces of the various branches, were sold over the counter and by mail orders yesterday. The sales brought the total number of pins purchased to 48,500.

Designed in 25 combinations, the pins designate the relationship of the wearers to either a father, husband, son, brother, or sweetheart in the service. They are sold in THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street or in Tribune Tower, for 10 cents plus 1 cent jewelry tax or 15 cents by mail. All profit will be given to the United Service Organizations.

CUBS WIN, 8-4; NOVIKOFF HITS 3-RUN HOMER

LITTLETOWN TO MEET CARELESS IN $3,000 EVENT

Primer Field

TWELVE juveniles were named in the overnight entries for the $3,000 Primer stakes which will be run today at Arlington park. The field in order of post position follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Odds.
Dr. Rush	114	J. E. Oros	20-1
Busyridge	109	R. L. Vedder	50-1
Clickety Clack	111	R. Neves	10-1
Take Away	120	M. L. Fallon	20-1
Occupation	117	A. Craig	3-1
Lady Liberty	114	D. M'Andrew	12-1
Tweendeck	114	No boy	50-1
Careless	109	L. Haas	5-2
African Sun	114	B. Pearson	10-1
Fire Engine	117	L. Balaski	15-1
Littletown	120	Litzenberger	2-1
Nod	114	O. Scurlock	12-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The quest for another Alsab will be launched in earnest this afternoon when 12 juveniles go to the post in the Primer stakes at Arlington Park. This follows a second day program which was marked by a $907 daily double when Amber Light and Double Take won the first and second races on yesterday's card.

In the Primer, Littletown, current king of the Chicago area juveniles, will meet the challenge of several strong invaders which have been running in the east. These include Calumet Farm's Careless, Louis B. Mayer's African Sun, T. P. Morgan's Lady Liberty, and W. E. Boeing's Clickety Clack. In addition to these and several others, Littletown will have to cope with his old rival, John Marsch's Occupation. In a previous showdown between these two, Littletown was the winner. That occurred in the Joliet stakes at Lincoln Fields.

Careless Shows Promise.

Littletown, owned by Charles Nuckols, Kentucky horseman, will have to hustle today if he is to defend his position successfully. Careless, the Calumet farm's well bred youngster, acquired considerable prestige by the way he performed in the only previous start of his career at Belmont Park in a 5 furlong race, in which he started 18th and finished fifth.

Careless' workouts have been very impressive. He thinks nothing of clicking off a half mile move in :47 2-5.

As for that big double on yesterday's program—Amber Light and Double Take delivered the biggest payoff of the season for this phase of betting activity. Amber Light, a 2 year old colt owned by Dixiana

Wishing and Forever Prince put a punch in the finish of the first division of the seven furlong Broomstick purse. They came up in the stretch to catch the early pace-setter, After School, in the last few yards. Then head and head they went over the line with Wishing getting it by a narrow margin. Kansas City, which had joined in chasing After School, took third money.

Sir Jeffrey Wins.

Wishing and Forever Prince duplicated the finish they had made in their last previous efforts at Lincoln Fields. On that occasion, too, Wishing had beaten his rival by a head in a race of the same distance. He was a six to one shot yesterday, paying $14.20, $6.40 and $3.80.

Sir Jeffrey, the 4 to 5 favorite, dominated the second division of the Broomstick purse. After taking the lead immediately after the start, he held his chief challengers, Idle Sun and Inscolassie at a safe distance. His margin over Idle Sun at the finish was three lengths. Sir Jeffrey had been shipped in from the east after a successful campaign at Suffolk Downs and one start at Belmont in which he ran fifth to Some Chance. His payoff yesterday was $3.60, $2.60, and $2.40.

Contributors Boost All-Star Football Fund to $31,100

Contributions from 14 Chicagoans yesterday raised the total donations to the All-Star football game's Army Emergency Relief campaign to $31,100. The biggest check was for $800. It came from a gentleman who prefers to be known only as "An All-Star Fan."

The ninth annual All-Star game, which will be played in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28, will bring together a team of College All-Americans, chosen in a coast to coast poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 200 associated newspapers and radio stations, against the Chicago Bears, world's professional champions. All profits from the regular ticket sale—$4.40, $3.30, $2.20, and $1.10—will be divided evenly between Navy relief and Army Emergency relief. However, all revenue from the special $100,000 campaign will be donated to Army Emergency relief. For each $100 contribution the donor will receive a seat on the 50 yard line for football's most celebrated contest.

Donations to the Army Emergency relief drive are deductible in computation of the 1942 income tax. If the goal of $100,000 is attained—and the present pace indicates it will be—it is likely that the total contribution to war charities from this year's All-Star game will approximate $150,000.

Miss Dudley Eliminated in Western Open

Eleanor Dudley of Ridge, one of Chicago's foremost contenders in the Women's Western Open tournament now in progress at the Elmhurst Country club, suffered the fate reserved for most medalists when she lost her first round match yesterday to Marjorie Row of Detroit, 1 up.

Miss Row, a junior journalism student at Michigan State college, who qualified for the championship bracket with an 85, was forced to come from behind twice to overcome her Chicago opponent, who won the qualifying medal with a par equaling 76. After trailing by two holes at the 12th, the blonde Detroit sharpshooter fought back to square the match with a birdie on the next hole and then clinched victory with a par 3 on the 18th where Miss Dudley missed the green with her drive and took a 4.

Other Favorites Win.

With the exception of Miss Dudley, the favorites came thru with first round victories, but several were hard pressed to remain in the running. Mrs. Russell Mann of Omaha, the Western Closed champion, was forced to the 18th hole to defeat Frances Ann McCanna of Rockford, 1 up. Mrs. Mann was one up at the turn and added to her lead by capturing the 15th with a birdie. Miss McCanna took the next hole and they halved the last two holes.

In the only extra hole match of the day Dorothy Ellis of Indianapolis defeated Jane Crum of Orangeburg, S. C., one up in 19 holes. Miss Crum

STEWART'S 141 SETS RECORD IN COLLEGIATE GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., June 23.—Earl A. Stewart, a 21 year old southern gentleman and a great golfer to boot, today proved himself on both counts in the 36 hole qualifying round for the 45th National Intercollegiate Golf tournament over the Chain o'Lakes course of the South Bend Country club. The red head from Louisiana State who last year won the driving championship, the qualifying medal and the individual crown, today shot a 70, for a 36 hole score of 141, one under par and one under the all-time qualifying record of 142 which he set in the 1941 tournament at Ohio State.

That, of course, entitled him to add another medal to the heavy metal pocket chain which dangles from his belt, but he waived the prize and insisted that it be awarded to Dick Haskell, Northwestern graduate who had led Stewart and the field by two strokes at the end of yesterday's first 18 holes and who today made one of the finest fights ever seen in the Intercollegiate.

Stewart Sinks 35 Footer.

Haskell, who will report to the army air corps shortly, picked up another stroke on Stewart, who was playing directly in front of him thru 27 holes, at which time he had taken 105 shots to Earl's 108.

Came the back nine, and a pair of Stewart birdies, coupled with mistakes by himself left him one down after 32 holes, and Stewart went to the front another shot on the 33d with a par. The Wildcat star retorted to that with a 35 foot putt for a birdie on the 16th. On the home hole his try for a birdie to tie slid two feet past the cup.

Then it was that Stewart informed Chick Evans, golf chairman of the NCAA committee which is conducting the tournament with Notre Dame as the host school, that he would waive the medal to Haskell.

How well the redhead, who expects to be in the army before the summer's end did on that latter count is shown by the fact that LSU tied Stanford for the team crown awarded to the low scoring foursome from any one school for the 36 holes of qualifying, each team shooting 590.

Three Stanford Men Hit 146.

Last year four Stanford men each shot personal 145s for the 580 which established a new team mark. Yesterday three of them — Ray Brownell, Frank [Sandy] Tatum, and George Traphagen—each had 146s, while Dave Doud turned in a 152. Aside from Stewart's 141 the Louisiana State swingers who share in the team victory were Dale Morey, 146; Jack Killen, 151, and Jim Wittenberg, 152.

Northwestern was third in the team standings with 597, followed by Wash-

I'd Give Up All These Riches.

Do you recall our childhood, bright and gay,
Before the world had heard of motor cars?
You had a wheel and nearly every day
I rode to school upon the handlebars;
No queen within her chariot of gold
Could ever have been happier than I,
Those distant days of childhood seemed to hold
A peacefulness that money cannot buy.

Today I have a gorgeous limousine
And wear silk raiment of the very best,
My home would be the envy of a queen
And yet an aching heart throbs in my breast;
I'd give up all these riches with their pain
To ride the handlebars with you again.

BY FRANK MASTRO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 23.—Melio Bettina made another stride toward recognition as a heavyweight contender when he beat Harry Bobo of Pittsburgh tonight in the headline bout of Cleveland's huge boxing show in Municipal stadium on Lake Erie. A crowd of 23,574 saw the parade of ring talent of almost all sizes, and the gross receipts were expected to be $100,000, of which approximately $25,000 will go to the Gen. MacArthur Bomber fund.

Bettina had to weather a stormy fifth round in which Bobo sent Melio crashing to the canvas for a nine count. Because of his achievement Bettina likely will meet Bob Pastor in a Chicago ball park next month. Melio was signed for the impending match immediately after he had beaten Altus Allen in Chicago Stadium on June 12. Pastor has not yet accepted terms but fans know he will be unable to command another opportunity at the championship unless he first eliminates Bettina, which, off Melio's performance of tonight, will be a difficult task.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—Lou Novikoff, the Sevastapol slugger, swung hard just once in Shibe park today and that one punch gave the Cubs an 8 to 4 victory in the opener of a three game series with the Phils.

The glad Russian stepped to the plate in the fifth inning with two mates on the bases. Whereupon Frank Hoerst, a southpaw, served as his initial pitch a very slow ball which didn't move a stitch on its high trip to the plate.

Novikoff took several preliminary swings and steps, then reverted to his original waiting position before crashing the ball into the upper left field stands for his third home run of the season. That blast gave Vern Olsen a 5 to 0 lead which he protected until the seventh when the Phils burst forth with four runs.

Cubs Get Three More in Ninth.

Fortunately, Danny Murtaugh erred in the ninth and Bill Nicholson's ensuing triple scored two runs. Bill counted on Bobby Bragan's fumble of Jim Foxx's grounder. But Novikoff's poke was the payoff belt.

Ousen was credited with his second triumph of the year, but when things get warm in the eighth Les Fleming rushed to the rescue and did his usual competent job. At that the Phils outhit the Cubs 13-12, but Phil Cavarretta's three, Novikoff's two, Foxx's two and Nicholson's pair carried more steam.

Singles by Nicholson and Novikoff sandwiched with a pass to Foxx loaded the bases in the second inning but Hoerst fanned Chico Hernandez and retired Olsen.

Cubs Start Clicking.

With two down in the third, Cavarretta dented the right field wall for a double and scored on Rip Russell's single to center. Foxx started the fourth with a double, reached third on Novikoff's liner to Dan Litwhiler and scored on Hernandez's double to left.

The Cubs continued to move forward in the fifth which started with Cavarretta's safe bunt. Two outs later Foxx singled and Novikoff

Yale Advances Seven.

Yale led all of the 64 qualifiers for the match play dueling, which begins tomorrow with two 18 hole bouts, that program being repeated Thursday. Friday's semi-finals and Saturday's championship match will be over the 36 hole distance. Yale sent seven players into the man to man competition, the septet providing a new tournament qualification mark.

Stanford will have six in match play; Notre Dame, Northwestern, Minnesota, and Louisiana State, four each; Michigan, Ohio State, and the University of Washington, three each. Twenty-seven schools remain in the tournament.

John Stoltz, Northwestern sophomore who was among the nine shooters qualifying for match play with a 146 total, tonight was elected captain of the 1943 Purple team.

Pairings for tomorrow's first round of match play, beginning at 8:30 a. m. and continuing at five minute intervals, with qualifying scores in brackets, follow:

MELIO BETTINA BEATS BOBO ON CLEVELAND CARD

Buffalo topple big Lem Franklin in the first round of their scheduled 10 round battle. The soldier ducked Lem's menacing blows for two minutes, then floored his man with a flurry of rights. Franklin was up at the count of two, stumbled around for a few seconds, then was nailed again with a series of rights to the chin. While Lem was untangling himself from the ropes and trying to get up Referee Joe Stedley stopped it.

Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland, 175 pound contender, beat Joe Maxin, a fellow townsman, in another feature of 10 rounds. Bivins' superior punching in the final round clinched the verdict after the rivals had fought on even terms.

Shapiro Beats Teaney.

In another contest Anton Christoforidis, once holder of the light heavyweight title, scored a 10 round decision over Johnny Colan, a Chicago favorite from New York. Colan was down for a nine count in the 10th, after being floored three times previously.

Maxie Shapiro, skilful New York lightweight, was awarded a disputed verdict over Harry Teaney from Cleveland in the first of the 10 round events. It was Shapiro's sixth straight victory. Teaney scored two knockdowns, one each in the second and eighth.

3 $100 CHECKS TO ADMIT 300 MEN TO SERVICE GAME

This will be good news for approximately 300 soldiers, sailors, and marines.

Radio stations W-G-N and WJJD, and Walter Monroe each sent in $100 to the White Sox yesterday for the purchase of tickets to the Army-Navy night baseball show the night of July 2 in Comiskey park. They requested the tickets be distributed to service men.

Advance ticket sales for the program yesterday reached $9,037. All gate receipts will be equally divided between the Army Emergency relief and the Navy relief funds.

Army-Navy Night will get under way at 6 o'clock with a game between the Great Lakes team, recent conquerors of the White Sox, and the strong service nine from Chanute field. At 9 p. m. the Sox and Indians will battle under the lights.

YANKEES GET 14 HITS IN BEATING BROWNS, 6 TO 5

Gutteridge Makes First Homer of Season.

St. Louis, Mo., June 23 (AP).—Even the fact that weak hitting Don Gutteridge hit his first home run of the year availed the St. Louis Browns nothing tonight as the New York Yankees unleashed a 14 hit attack for a 6 to 5 victory.

The Browns scored three runs in the eighth on a walk, four singles, and an infield out. Mike Chartak fanned with the tying run on first. That paralleled the Yankee fourth, in which Joe DiMaggio tripled, Joe Gordon doubled, and Tom Henrich and Buddy Rosar singled for three runs.

It was the largest crowd of the year for the Browns, 15,751. Score:

Well, the Sox and Senators Took a Day Off

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Maybe Jim Dykes is girding for the Yankees and wanted to save his power yesterday. Or, maybe it was cold in Comiskey park. In any event yesterday's scheduled opener with the tailend Washington Senators was postponed, a happy break for the fans who thus will be able to see the Sox and Senators in a double header when the capital boys come back to town in August.

Weather permitting, the Washingtons will perform in Comiskey park this afternoon. And that's only half the story. They'll be on the same ground tomorrow, weather permitting.

Then Come the Yanks.

Well, that's two games, weather permitting, the Sox will have to play before the Yankees come to town. The Yanks, 'tis true, haven't been doing so well as usual on this trip but are moving on Chicago with the hope that four games with the Sox will restore them to full vigor.

The Yankees, who ended a five game losing streak a few days ago, had lost four out of five when the Sox appeared in Yankee stadium the first week in May. They bowled over the Sox four straight in that series and started the sprint which at one time had them 11 games above second place.

They're Yankees' Cousins.

The Sox have subsequently been pushed over four more times by the Yankees. If the Chicagoans win one in the imminent four game series this will give them a total of one victory for the season over the champions up to that point.

In the Washington game this afternoon, weather permitting, Johnny Humphries will appear as the starting pitcher. He will be opposed by Sid Hudson.

blasted his homer. This led to Hoerst's dismissal in the Phils' half for a pinch hitter and brought Si Johnson in to pitch.

The Phils, held in check for six innings, turned on the power in the seventh. Safe wallops by Tom Livingston, Pinch Man Earl Naylor, Stan Benjamin, Murtaugh, and Litwhiler, along with a wild throw by Cavarretta, gave the Phils four runs.

Neighbors Greet Louis

The march of time:

June 22, 1937—Joe Louis knocks out Jim Braddock in Comiskey park in the eighth round to win the world heavyweight boxing championship.

June 23, 1942—Corp. Joe Louis, still the heavyweight king, arrives in Chicago from Camp Upton, Long Island, on way to Fort Riley, Kas., to complete the training which will make him a full fledged soldier for his country's truly world championship bout against the axis.

Five years ago the south side was delirious with joy when Joe won the championship. He was followed by crowds wherever he went and became the idol of his race.

Yesterday Corp. Joe's neighbors were out in force to greet him when he drew up in front of his apartment building at 4320 South Michigan avenue. They looked him over approvingly in his well tailored uniform.

Corp. Joe called on his fight manager, Julian Black.

Greenberg, Jake Win in Singles, Lose as Team

New Orleans, La., June 23 [Special].—Northwestern university had success as expected in the singles division of the National Intercollegiate Tennis tournament here today when both Wildcat entries won their matches.

Robert Jake had only one tough set as he defeated eighth-seeded John Hickman of Texas, 2-6, 9-7, 6-2. Meanwhile Seymour Greenberg, winner of the National Clay Court championship Monday, coasted to a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Vince De Stefano of Southwestern Louisiana institute.

In the doubles division, Greenberg and Jake were beaten by Hickman and Driver of Texas, 3-6, 6-1, 7-3.

Dan Canale of Notre Dame was beaten by Walter Driver of Texas, eliminating the last Irish entrant in the singles play. The other three were beaten Monday.

In doubles James Parks and Olen Ford of Notre Dame whipped Elston Wyatt and Hardy Fowler of the Navy, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, while Canale and Bob Faught, the other Notre Dame pair, downed Bill Culver and Eric Pratt of Kalamazoo, 6-2, 6-2.

FRENCH WINS HIS SIXTH IN ROW FOR DODGERS, 6 TO 2

Medwick Hits Safely in 26th Straight Game.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 23 (AP).—Larry French received credit for his sixth victory without a defeat tonight in a relief rôle as the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 2. The Dodgers broke a tie by bunching five hits for four runs after two were out in the fifth inning.

The climax of the rally was a two run double by Joe Medwick, extending his batting streak to 26 games. French, who relieved Whitlow Wyatt after two innings, started the inning's activities with a single after two were down. Peewee Reese and Lew Riggs also singled to load the bases, then Pete Reiser brought in two runs with a single and Medwick doubled for two more.

The game was played at twilight, with the Ebbets field lights being turned on for most of the game, and drew a crowd of 15,049.

SELECTED ISSUES SLIGHTLY HIGHER IN STOCK MARKET

War and Tax Hopes Swing Trend of Prices.

New York, June 23 (AP).—Selected stocks attracted buying support in today's market altho many leaders loafed at slightly lower levels. The better action of the list as a whole was attributed partly to the opinion in Wall street that recent war reverses, while serious, were far from determining the conclusion of the conflict.

Revived hopes for a more lenient tax bill also were helpful to sentiment. Trends edged upward at the start and prices were best around midday with gains ranging from fractions to a point or so. Top marks were reduced and many advances converted into minor losses in the final hour.

Gains Outnumber Losses.

Of 517 individual issues appearing on the tape, 184 were up, 176 down and 157 unchanged. Western Union was up ⅝ and Postal Telegraph preferred a point in response to the senate's passage of the merger approval for these companies.

Eastman Kodak jumped 2 points. Modest gains were retained by Santa Fe, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Union Carbide, United States Gypsum, Douglas Aircraft, and Standard Oil [New Jersey].

United States Steel and Bethlehem ended all even, while General Motors and Chrysler slipped a shade, along with American Telephone, Westinghouse, American Can, and Woolworth.

CHICAGO PRICES SAG.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange were slightly lower yesterday as volume shrank to 9,000 shares. Of the issues traded, 26 advanced, 31 declined and 10 were unchanged. Chicago corporation was the volume leader with 1,450 shares and closed unchanged at 1. Allied Laboratories was off ⅛ at 10⅛, and Commonwealth Edison advanced ⅜ to 20½ on volume restricted to 400 shares. In the final half hour of trading, General Motors and Liquid Carbonic both gained ⅛ over their New York prices.

INTERLAKE IRON VOTES DIVIDEND, FIRST THIS YEAR

Interlake Iron corporation, Chicago, declared a dividend of 25 cents on its common stock yesterday, the first payment in 1942. Last year the company made three payments of 25 cents each. Marshall Field & Co. voted the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents on the common shares.

The Timm Aircraft corporation, Van Nuys, Cal., authorized a 5 cent distribution, the first since the company was organized in May, 1936. American Potash and Chemical corporation, New York City, declared a dividend of 75 cents, the first this year. In 1941 the company paid $1.50 in December and 50 cents in September.

Wickwire Spencer Steel Gets Loan, Repays RFC

New York, June 23 (AP).—The Wickwire Spencer Steel company announced today directors had authorized payment of its Reconstruction Finance corporation loan, which on May 1 amounted to $1,648,932. A new loan from a bank has been arranged and the company will terminate the voting trust of its stock, which has been attacked in court by shareholders.

News of Financing

The Celanese Corporation of America, largest producer of cellulose acetate yarns in the United States, filed with the Securities and Exchange commission yesterday a registration statement covering a proposed issue of 35 million dollars of 3½ per cent debentures, due July 1, 1962. It will redeem $24,700,000 of outstanding 3 per cent debentures, due 1955, and pay off 3 million dollars of bank loans. Principal underwriters were named as Dillon, Read & Co. and Glore, Forgan & Co., both of New York City.

Public offering of $150,000 of 6 per cent sinking fund debentures of Rand's, Pittsburgh, Pa., drug store chain, will be made today by the Floyd D. Cerf company, Chicago, and Grubbs, Scott & Co., Pittsburgh. The new issue, maturing in 1957, will be offered at 100 and accrued interest. Subsequently $350,000 of the debentures will be offered to holders of the company's preferred stock on an exchange basis.

The H. J. Heinz company, food manufacturer, plans to authorize an issue of 5 million dollars of preferred stock to increase authorized capital to 41 million dollars. No public offering is expected.

A syndicate headed by Phelps, Fenn & Co., New York, was the apparent high bidder for $2,267,000 of New Haven Housing Authority bonds, due 1943-'79.

HIGHER CEILINGS ON MEAT PRICES URGED UPON OPA

Cattle Feeders Worried, Says Committee.

Quits Packing Beef

Howard Pearse, partner with his sons in the operation of the Pearse Packing company, 911 West 37th street, announced yesterday that the company is quitting business Saturday. Pearse said the company, which packs beef exclusively, has been losing money since lend-lease buying started meat prices climbing. He said OPA ceilings on wholesale beef prices hastened its end.

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—An upward adjustment in ceiling prices on meat was proposed today by a committee representing the live stock and meat industry.

The group told the Office of Price administration that unless meat ceilings were adjusted in line with costs, cattle producers would be discouraged from proceeding with their next year's feeding operation plans.

"The cattle industry," they said in a joint statement, "is in a dilemma because the OPA contends that retail meat ceilings cannot be punctured and we contend that the price of feeders cannot be lowered."

HOGS NEAR '42 PEAK

Despite numerous complaints from packers that current high prices of live hogs and the federal ceilings on pork prices have almost eliminated profit margins, live costs in the Chicago stockyards rose again yesterday. Top loads of hogs sold 10 cents higher at $14.60 a hundred pounds, only 5 cents under the highest this year.

Altho farmers are selling hogs in record volume for this time of year, the available supplies are not sufficient to hold live costs in check and still furnish the government with the amount of pork it wants for immediate lend-lease shipment, packers said.

Best grades of steers and yearlings worth over $13 sold steady to weak, while cheaper kinds, least affected by price ceilings on beef, were firm.

Commodities

Cotton futures lost most of earlier gains to close unchanged to 15 cents a bale higher yesterday. Testimony before a house subcommittee that government needs had been provided and that there was no need to consider rationing of cotton textiles for civilians this year or next weakened the market, traders said.

REPORT U. S. WILL BUY FLOUR CUTS WHEAT PRICE DIP

Offsets Influence of New Crop Movement.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Government contracts for about 250,000 barrels of flour will be awarded Saturday, millers disclosed yesterday. Quiet buying of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade by milling company brokers to lift hedges in connection with the anticipated flour sales erased more than half of the early losses recorded in the grain market.

The flour is being purchased for the navy, trade sources said. More than a million bushels of wheat will be involved in its making.

Harvesting Stepped Up.

This buying largely offset pressure developing with the growing movement of new wheat from producing sections to the terminal markets. Grain men received reports telling of much better harvesting conditions in the southwest, where rains had delayed field work.

While most of the new grain is being stored under government loan, brokers reported some hedge selling in the Chicago wheat pit. The market declined as much as a cent a bushel at one time but rallied to closed ⅜ to ½ cent lower with the July future at $1.18¼.

Corn finished unchanged to ¼ cent lower, the market holding in an extremely narrow range and being influenced for the most part by action in the wheat market.

Soy Bean Prices Mixed.

Oats finished ⅛ to ¼ cent lower and rye, ⅛ to ¼ cent down. Soy beans closed irregular with the July future ¾ cent higher and the deferred deliveries down ¼ cent.

Lard futures advanced 15 cents per hundred pounds to the highest levels since May 18 and to within 5 cents of the seasonal top. Cash houses bought the futures as hogs advanced. Another strengthening factor that also lifted July soy beans was the report that a large quantity of soy bean and linseed oil had been sold to lend-lease buyers.

GRAIN SHIPMENT PERMIT RULES TO BE GIVEN TODAY

Members of the permit division of the Chicago grain storage committee announced last night that they would distribute printed instructions to the grain trade today governing the issuance of permits for grain to be shipped to the Chicago market for storage. An embargo on these shipments becomes effective tomorrow.

The committee said country shippers should make application for a permit thru their Chicago representatives, to whom the permits would be issued after they had located elevator space for the grain. Permits will be issued for individual cars of a maximum number of pounds and in most cases will be good for 10 days.

The committee said that at present no permit is necessary on free grain "such as grain purchased to arrive, or consignment from any area." It said it may be necessary in the future to restrict the shipping points or areas from which free grain may move to this market, notice of which will be announced.

OFFER RFC LOANS ON TYPEWRITERS AND OIL BURNERS

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is ready to make loans to typewriter and oil burner dealers under terms of the Murray-Patman act, Frank M. Murchison, manager of the RFC's Chicago office, announced yesterday. Loans on certain articles and commodities affected by freezing orders are permitted under the act.

The typewriter and oil burner loans will be made only on new products, dealers in used items not being included in the program, according to Murchison.

"With the program expanded to the two additional lines a loan may now be made to any dealer in rationed or 'frozen' merchandise who can establish that as of June 1, 1942, he was regularly engaged in the business of offering for sale typewriters, oil burners, automobiles, trucks, or tires," Murchison said.

INLAND'S PLATE OUTPUT IN DAY SETS NEW MARK

A new record in the production of steel ship plate was announced yesterday by the Inland Steel company. The record was set, A. P. Miller, assistant general superintendent of the Indiana Harbor plant, said, when 3,515 net tons of plate were rolled in a single 24 hour run.

Altho the percentage of increase was not revealed, Miller indicated the new mark was well above the former record set about five weeks ago. The one day's production of plate was equal to seven-tenths of the plate needed to build one Liberty ship of 10,000 tons capacity, he said. The steel was immediately loaded on 73 gondola cars for shipment to the shipyard while still having a temperature of 600 to 700 degrees.

Butter and Egg Futures Close with Small Gains

Butter and egg futures recorded small gains yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The November butter contract closed at 37.2 cents a pound, up .1 cent. Eggs for October delivery finished at 33.8 cents a dozen, also up .1 cent. Transfers included 11 cars of butter and 20 cars of eggs.

KROGER SALES INCREASE.

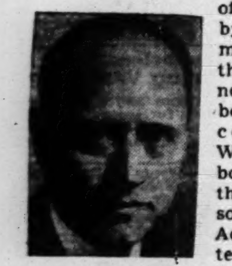
RISK REDUCTION SAID TO JUSTIFY WAR PROFIT CUT

Price Curb Cited by WPB Accountant.



Maurice E. Peloubet.

Government devices for limiting war contractors' profits are a result of the assumption by the government of some of the risks that normally would be taken by the contractors, a War Production board official told the National Association of Cost Accountants yesterday at a meeting in the Palmer House.

Maurice E. Peloubet, assistant chief of the accounting advisory branch of the WPB, discussed war contract accounting problems at the association's international cost conference.

"Under ordinary circumstances the risk taking function of the business man often is as important as his operating function," Peloubet said. "Cases where good operators have failed as business men because of faulty judgment of risks are within the experience of all of us.

Control Reduces Risks.

"This condition hardly exists when a company deals with the government, because the government controls, for all practical purposes, prices and supplies of important materials, and has a large measure of control over wage rates.

"No contractor could judge what the government might do or be forced to do in the same way that he could forecast the possible course of prices of a commodity under the conditions of a free market. This is well recognized by the government agencies. Various devices have been adopted to transfer the risk from the contractor to the government. Their purpose is to protect the contractor against changes in factors over which he has neither control nor the possibility of knowledge."

Peloubet said that if the government is to protect the contractor against risks, the contractor cannot expect to include in his price or margin the usual amount that ordinarily would be added to cover such risks.

Favors Reasonable Profit.

"On the other hand," he asserted, "the government is vitally interested in seeing that all suppliers of necessary war material should stay in business and operate at capacity. Therefore the government has an interest in covering risks and maintaining a reasonable profit margin."

Noting that excess profits taxes and renegotiation of contracts are among the devices used to recapture excessive profits, Peloubet said "there is something to be said in favor of the renegotiation method, always providing that the profits have been clearly and fairly determined to be excessive."

"Renegotiation has resulted in the refunding of hundreds of millions of dollars to the government by war goods producers," he said. "In many cases, I believe, the contractors were as surprised at the size of their profits as the government. They were overwhelmed at the results of unprecedented volume and voluntary restitution of excessive profits has not been unusual."

Wyman P. Fiske, professor of accounting at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., was elected president of the association.

Bethlehem Offer to Buy Cambria Iron Co. Accepted

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23 [Special]. —Stockholders of the Cambria Iron company voted today to accept the Bethlehem Steel company's offer to purchase all Cambria properties at a price equal to $55 a share for Cambria stock.

Jobs, Pay Roll Totals Record Gains in State

Illinois employment and pay rolls both increased last month over April, Francis B. Murphy, director of the department of labor, announced yesterday. Gains of 0.3 per cent in employment and 1.6 in pay rolls were reported in a survey of 6,455 industries, employing 811,907 workers, or one-third of all nonagricultural workers in the state.

Chicago industries reported a decrease of 0.3 per cent in employment, but an increase of 0.8 in pay rolls. In the Chicago suburban area increases in both employment and pay rolls were reported by 368 companies. Employment was up 2.3 per cent, while pay rolls gained 1 per cent.

Manufacturing Pay Rolls Up.

A decrease in employment of 0.1 per cent was reported by Illinois manufacturing companies, but despite this pay rolls increased 1.4 per cent. This was true of the important metals and machinery group which, despite a decrease in the total of workers, showed an increase in the amount of pay rolls.

Individual situations in this group varied, with some firms reporting substantial increases in workers and pay rolls as war work was intensified, while other companies laid off workers because of priorities orders, shortages of materials, and other wartime adjustment problems. Substantial overtime payments in many war industries accounted largely for the increase in wage payments.

Large increases in pay rolls and employment were shown by some of the nonmanufacturing industries. Best gains were in construction work and road construction and repair. The combined reports of this group showed gains of 30 per cent in employment and 20 per cent in pay rolls.

Wholesale Staffs Cut.

Approximately one half of the employés covered in the nonmanufacturing group are in wholesale and retail trade establishments. Wholesalers reduced their staffs and paid out less in wages and commissions. Mail order houses increased their workers, but decreased pay rolls, which was also true of department and variety stores.

The higher trend of weekly earnings in the manufacturing group was continued in May, with the average for both sexes $36.91. An average of $31.39 was paid in the nonmanufacturing group.

Thirteen of the 20 downstate cities reported increases in both employment and pay rolls.

TRUMAN CHARGES CONTROL OF WPB BY STEEL CHIEFS

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Chairman Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] of the senate war investigating committee declared today that "dollar a year men from the big steel industry absolutely control the steel policies of the WPB." His comment was made at an agriculture subcommittee meeting before which Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] had outlined the need for development of sponge iron manufacturing processes.

Truman said there is "plenty of evidence" that the sponge iron development was being suppressed. O'Mahoney suggested sponge iron as a substitute for scrap steel and said this process—melting iron ore in a roaster instead of in a coke oven—could "render available every undeveloped deposit of iron ore in the United States."

"The situation in steel," asserted Truman, "is developing almost exactly as that in aluminum, copper, and light metal production. It is a matter of controled production. These [big steel] firms are endeavoring to find safety and security after the war for monopoly control."

2 CHICAGO RAIL MEN NAMED TO ODT POSITIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Appointments of two Chicagoans to the staff of the division of railway transport were announced today by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

William E. Curley was named supervisor of rail terminals at Chicago. He was Chicago terminal trainmaster for the Illinois Central railroad, for which he has worked since 1909.

Frank J. Swanson was named service representative in the mechanical section, and will visit car builders and railway shops to aid in car building and repair. He was until recently supervisor of the general car department of the Milwaukee road in Chicago.

WPB Frees Utility Extensions for War Housing Projects

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—The War Production board broke a bottleneck in war housing construction tonight, issuing orders permitting extension of utility services to thousands of newly built units now without electricity, gas or water.

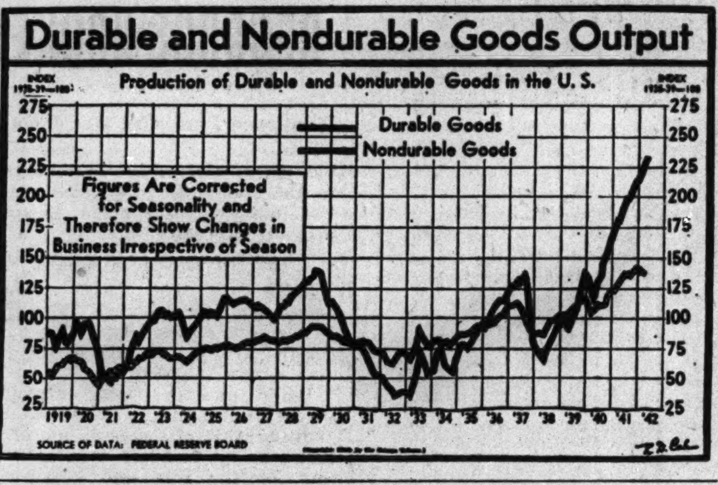
Under the order utility extensions to housing projects may be made under the same priority ratings as are assigned to the projects themselves. Previously, such extensions were specifically excluded from the ratings assigned war housing.

WPB also eased inventory limitations on a large group of slow moving, noncritical building materials. Dealers need no longer include them in records and reports called for under the inventory limitation order, altho they remain subject to the basic priority regulation requiring a "minimum practicable working" inventory.

The materials affected are portland and natural cement, lime, gypsum and gypsum products, bituminous roofing materials, concrete pipe, cut stone, sand and gravel, crushed stone, clay products, insulation board, acoustical materials, mineral wool, paving materials, concrete products, brass, lumber, and wooden millwork.

In another order, the WPB froze all large stocks of imported canned beef in the United States for 90 days and made them available to the armed services. It indicated that after July 2 all canned beef imports probably would be diverted to the army or navy.

The Office of Price administration made provision for the adjustment of abnormally low ceiling prices on ice sold to commercial or industrial users so as to reflect usual summer price levels. It previously had permitted upward adjustment of prices on ice sold to household consumers.



CROWLEY ANNOUNCES SEIZURE OF 750 MORE PATENTS FOR WAR USE

Washington, D. C., June 23—(AP).—Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian, announced today the seizure by his office of an additional group of more than 750 enemy-owned patents, including about 200 of I. G. Farbenindustre not previously taken over.

A number of patents owned by Japanese, Italian, and Hungarian corporations and individuals also were included.

Crowley said the patents seized varied widely in nature.

Start Surveys of Route Oil Line Will Take

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes announced today that ground surveys have been started to determine the exact route of the 24-inch Texas to Illinois oil pipe line "which will provide partial relief for the east coast shortage area next winter."

Simultaneously, he disclosed that the government-owned, nonprofit, common carrier line would be constructed for the government by War Emergency Pipeline, Inc., an organization of 11 companies that supply petroleum along the Atlantic seaboard.

Terminus Not Announced.

The announcement said the 550 mile conduit, with a daily capacity of 300,000 barrels and costing between 35 and 40 million dollars, would "extend from Longview, in the heart of the east Texas oil field, across the states of Arkansas and Missouri to Illinois. It will cross the Mississippi river at Thebes, Ill.

It was indicated unofficially that the terminus probably would be in southeastern Illinois, with a branch line continuing to the Ohio river in the vicinity of Mount Vernon, Ind.

The contract for ground surveys was awarded to the Monroe, La., firm of Huey and Cage. About 30 days will be required to complete the work.

Work May Start Sooner.

Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coördinator, said it should be possible, however, to commence the actual laying of pipe before the surveys are concluded.

War Emergency Pipeline, Inc., is headed by W. Alton Jones, president of Cities Service Oil company.

Participating companies were listed by Ickes as Cities Service Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Oil corporation, Sun Oil company, Atlantic Refining company, Socony-Vacuum Oil company, Tide Water Associated Oil company, Texas company, Gulf Oil corporation, Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, and Shell Oil company.

DEWEY SAYS ADS ARE ESSENTIAL TO A FREE PRESS

New York, June 23 (AP).—Former District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today described advertising as "an instrument of freedom" and urged 600 members of the Advertising Federation of America to fight for it as a "necessary part of a free press and free radio."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the federation's 38th annual convention, Dewey said:

"There can be no freedom without a free press, and there can be no free press unless it is able to print its papers without subsidy from any man, any single industry, or any government."

He called advertising "the only means yet devised for producing the necessary revenue to support a free press and, I may add, free radio."

War Factories Ranked First in Protection

Walter D. Binger.

War production facilities must be ranked ahead of civilian populations in preparations for defense against air raids, Walter D. Binger, chairman of the national technological protection committee, declared yesterday. Binger, whose civilian position is commissioner of Manhattan borough works in New York, addressed the annual convention of the American Water Works' association in the Stevens hotel.

He told the association that the duty of protection authorities during air raids must be the maintenance of cities and towns and the transportation systems linking them in as near normal condition as circumstances permit. The big job is to keep industry running to provide the means for carrying on the war, he said.

Studies British Methods.

Binger, who was in England recently to study the effects of bombing on utilities, said the British had found that the best course after an air raid was to make restorations on a permanent rather than a stop gap basis.

He stated that 60 days after the Germans made their last large scale raid on London 96 per cent of the water main breaks had been repaired and streets had been resurfaced.

A part of the London water system was first laid in the 17th century and rambled over the city. It was this fact, he was told, that saved the city because the authorities were able to route water where needed when pipes were broken by bombs.

Recommends Safeguards.

Binger recommended that as a safeguard all city water systems be constructed with a maximum number of connections so that in the event of a disaster water could be rerouted. He also recommended that money spent on civilian defenses be kept at a minimum to provide a maximum amount for the direct war effort.

The convention sessions, attended by about 1,350 water department officials and others, will continue thru tomorrow.

AIR BOARD ASKED TO HALT FREIGHT LINE OPERATIONS

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Examiners J. F. Reilly and Ralph L. Wiser recommended today that the civil aeronautics board order the Universal Freight corporation to cease operating as an air carrier without a certificate from the board.

The examiners said the corporation contracted for shipment of individual packages in consolidated form, offering cheaper rates thereby than those of the air express division of Railway Express Agency, Inc.

Universal is a subsidiary of the United States Freight corporation. Its service was offered in Chicago and several other cities. A number of air lines intervened in the proceedings.

The examiners said the company offered its consolidated shipments to the express agency for shipments by air, consigned to itself at the destination.

OPA CHARGES INLAND STEEL VIOLATED ITS SCRAP PRICE CEILINGS

The OPA filed a petition in federal District court yesterday for an injunction to prohibit the Inland Steel company from purchasing iron and steel scrap at prices in excess of the ceiling. The federal agency charged the company violated price regulations in buying scrap at prices higher than provided in the OPA schedule and in accepting material of grade and quality inferior to that for which the company was billed.

John C. Weigel, regional OPA director, said the suit was one of a number being filed in a national enforcement drive to hold scrap prices down. The suit was filed by Alex Elson, regional OPA attorney.

Officials of the company had no immediate comment, but said a statement will be issued later. Inland is one of the largest scrap buyers in the Chicago area.

VOTE POST-WAR TAX CREDIT ON EXCESS PROFITS

Corporations Would Be Paid in Bonds.

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—A broad plan to turn some excess profits taxes back to corporations after the war, to facilitate their conversion to a peacetime economy, was approved today by the house ways and means committee.

The committee already had agreed to tax excess profits at a flat rate of 94 per cent, compared with the present scale of 35 to 60 per cent. By a close vote it adopted a motion by Rep. A. W. Robertson [D., Va.] which said in part:

"The amount returned shall be 14 per cent of the adjusted excess profits net income—the base upon which the excess profits tax is computed. Giving effect to the proposed refund, therefore, the net excess profits tax rate will be 80 per cent."

Endorsed by Treasury.

The postwar credit principle had the endorsement of the treasury department, committee experts, and war officials, including Donald M. Nelson, War Production board chairman.

It contemplates the issuance of bonds within three months after the payment of excess profits taxes which would mature in three equal annual instalments beginning at the end of the second calendar year after "the cessation of hostilities."

The bonds would be nonnegotiable and noninterest bearing, but would be assignable after the war's end. No amount becoming available to a corporation as a result of issuance or redemption of the bonds could be used for payment of [1] dividends in cash or stock, or [2] bonuses or salary increases to executives, or to purchase securities or increase cash reserves unless used in the business.

Subject to Capital Tax.

Proceeds from redemption of the bonds would be subject to a capital gains tax of 15 per cent. The excess profits tax would be continued on the basis of average earnings or on the basis of a corporation's invested capital.

Chairman Robert C. Doughton [D., N. C.], announced that the committee also had decided to exempt cash registers used in retail over the counter sales from the present 10 per cent manufacturers' tax on business machines. The committee expects to complete consideration of its 6 billion 640 million dollar bill tomorrow.

DECLARES RADIO IS NECESSARY AS ENGINE IN PLANE

Radio heretofore has not been indispensable in transportation — not even in ships—but in the new form of transport, aviation, "it is just as necessary as the engine," Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith Radio corporation, told the company's stockholders yesterday at their annual meeting. "The last war was run by telephone; this one is being run by radio," he said.

McDonald informed the stockholders that the company, like others doing work for the government, had been asked not to publish quarterly reports revealing production figures, sales, or other data of possible value to the enemy.

Irving Herriott, general counsel of Zenith, was elected a director to fill a vacancy. The other directors were reëlected and the board reëlected the officers.

RURAL BANKERS URGED TO MATCH U. S. LOAN RATES

Illinois banks serving rural areas would solicit the farmer's patronage in competition with government supported lending agencies, reducing rates to whatever extent is necessary to get the business, under a committee recommendation made yesterday to the Illinois Bankers association.

The suggestion that the banks compete with the federally bolstered agencies on the latters' own terms was made by the bank management committee of the association at a meeting in the Palmer House. Various committees are meeting this week to plan the year's activities of the organization.

Spaghetti, It Seems, Is Just Like a Bathing Suit: All's in Shape

The major problem considered yesterday by the National Macaroni Manufacturers' association, meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel, was how to convince the nation's macaroni and spaghetti eaters that they must get along for the war's duration with less variety in the shapes and sizes of their favorite dish.

One manufacturer alone makes 170 varieties of macaroni and spaghetti for the Italian-American trade [but only seven for the other consumers]. That's some idea of the size of the problem.

Now, according to M. J. Donna of Braidwood, Ill., the association's secretary-treasurer, it's difficult if not impossible to obtain packaging materials for innumerable varieties. Also, the molds used in making some of the fancier shapes require priorities on materials that are practically unobtainable.

"All spaghetti and macaroni is made mostly from semolina and farina, which are wheat products and water," Donna said. "To the Italian-American consumer who often eats them twice a day, the size and shape mean much, for size and shape of the product affects his taste for it.

"Our industry makes its products for the Italian-American trade. Those made for Americans of other national origins are incidental."

Donna declared the industry is being squeezed between price regulations which place ceilings on its finished products, but fail to control prices of flour, eggs, and other materials used in the trade.

Donna said consumption of spaghetti and macaroni is increasing. As consolation for restrictions on variety he told consumers:

Baldwin Salvages Scrap from First War's Tools

New York, June 23 [Special].—Scrap from machinery which made guns, shells, and locomotives for the first World war will soon be utilized to provide munitions for the present forces, Ralph Kelly, executive vice president of the Baldwin Locomotive works said today. "Since June 1, we have salvaged more than 870 tons of iron and steel," Kelly said, "and expect to at least double today's figure. If we do, we shall have salvaged enough metal to make 60 M-3 medium tanks in our shops."

PULLMAN SETS NEW RECORDS IN TROOP TRAFFIC

Travel by Bus Also Soars in May.

War effects on the nation's transportation system were spotlighted yesterday in two reports on May travel. In one the Pullman company disclosed that it had transported more than a half million troops in sleepers last month and urged the public to keep its vacation plans flexible this year. In the other the National Association of Motor Bus Operators reported an all-time peak in bus travel for May.

"Troop travel is at an all-time high and is still increasing," George A. Kelly, vice president of Pullman, said. "Civilian traffic is running 30 per cent ahead of 1941. The situation for vacationers may not become acute,

ERNEST W. BELL AND COMPANY
CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS
25 Beaver Street, New York

To the Directors,
American Car and Foundry Company, 30 Church Street,
New York City.

We have examined the Consolidated Balance Sheet of the American Car and Foundry Company and its wholly-owned subsidiaries as of April 30, 1942, and the Consolidated Statements of Income and Surplus for the fiscal year then ended, have reviewed the systems of internal control and the accounting procedures of the companies, and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, have examined or tested accounting records of the companies and other supporting evidence, by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards applicable in the circumstances and included all procedures which we considered necessary.

In our opinion the accompanying Balance Sheet and related Statements of Income and Surplus present fairly the consolidated position of the American Car and Foundry Company and its wholly-owned subsidiaries at April 30, 1942, and the consolidated results of their operations for the fiscal year, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Yours very truly,

New York, June 15, 1942.

GLASS REPLACES JEWEL BEARINGS IN INSTRUMENTS

Engineers Told of Search for Substitutes.

Precious sapphires, used almost exclusively as bearings in electrical indicating instruments until the war cut off the supply, are now being replaced successfully by tiny drops of fused hard glass, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was told yesterday. More than a thousand members of the institute are attending the 58th annual convention in the Drake hotel this week for discussions of methods to aid the war effort and the exchange of the latest technical developments.

F. K. McCune and J. H. Goss of the General Electric company reported that the glass substitutes have been developed to the point where they can be produced in quantity and where "there is little to choose between the two for actual miniature instrument application."

Bearings Shaped as V.

McCune explained that it had been an almost universal practice to use highly polished jewel bearings, cut approximately in the shape of a V, in such instruments as ammeters and volt meters.

Making these jewel "V's," he said, is a highly specialized art and most of the machine equipment and trained workmen are concentrated principally in Switzerland. When the war cut off the supply, the United States was left with inadequate facilities for sapphire bearing production and it was necessary to find a substitute which would not impair the performance of instruments used by the army and navy, he related.

McCune told the institute the instrument industry had 30 years of experience to guide research because substitutes had been sought that long ago for poor quality sapphire bearings then being made. Research was abandoned when the quality improved.

Special Glass Type Used.

The revived research uncovered a type of glass known as "Material H," which was chosen as the most satisfactory because it contains a large percentage of alumina, a substance found in sapphires, which are next to diamonds in hardness. The new material, McCune said, is particularly satisfactory in resisting impact damage.

David E. Trucksess, Bell Telephone laboratories engineer of New York City, reported a new electronic device which provides automatic control of electric current in telephone exchanges and thus saves time for operators rushed by heavy war traffic and lengthens the life of equipment. These self-controled rectifier units, which convert alternating current power to direct current for charging batteries used in communication, replace the old type rectifiers which required an operator to control the charging current by means of hand switches or rheostats, he explained.

May Invite Latin Members.

Officials of the institute discussed the possibility of extending the organization to include sections of South America in an effort to further the "good neighbor policy." At a conference of section chairmen from all parts of the United States, it was proposed that consideration be given such an expansion in order to pool the talents and knowledge of all electrical engineers in the western hemisphere.

A letter from a Brazilian engineer assuring enthusiastic reception of the plan in Brazil was read on the convention floor. Among the 72 sections in the institute are groups in Mexico and Canada, but South American countries never have been represented. The institute was organized in 1884 and has a membership of 19,000.

President Signs Bill Making 'Hot Oil' Law Permanent

Washington, D. C., June 23 [Special].—President Roosevelt today signed a bill making permanent the Connally "hot oil" act which prohibits interstate shipment of petroleum produced in violation of state proration laws. The law would have expired on June 30.

American Car Profits Reach a 15 Year Peak

Increasing sales resulting from war production brought earnings of the American Car and Foundry company to the highest level in 15 years, the company's report for the fiscal year ended April 30 showed yesterday.

Charles J. Hardy.

Net earnings were $9,275,376, equal to $12.09 a share, compared with $5,161,129, or $5.23 a share in the preceding fiscal year. Sales totaled $216,336,567, against $67,192,012, and the company went into its current fiscal year with an order backlog of $424,810,772.

Charles J. Hardy, president, said the company spent more than 11 million dollars of its own funds during the year in providing additional facilities for the production of light combat tanks, armor plate, shells, bombs, fuses, and other war materials.

Business at Peak.

Hardy revealed the company's volume of business was the largest in history. He told the stockholders that enactment of a new tax bill will determine dividend payments, but assured them the company will not deprive them of profits to which they are entitled. He called attention to the fact that in the fiscal year the company cleared up an indebtedness of 10 million dollars to banks.

Increased production resulted in substantial additions to personnel at company plants in Chicago, Madison, Ill., and elsewhere, he said.

AMERICAN BOSCH BOARD ELECTED TO SERVE AGAIN

New York, June 23 (AP).—The twice adjourned annual stockholders' meeting of the American Bosch corporation was held today and George Murnane, chairman, reported that 77 per cent of the outstanding stock held by him in voting trust for foreign interests had been deposited with Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian.

Murnane said Crowley had approved reëlection of the present board of five directors, an action ratified by the stockholders at the meeting. An increase in the board to seven members was to be effected later, two of the new directors to represent the alien property custodian.

American Bosch, a manufacturer of ignition and fuel injection devices, was taken over by the government a month ago by the alien property custodian's acquisition of 535,000 shares of the capital stock. Its property is at Springfield, Mass.

400 IN ST. LOUIS MACHINE SHOPS STRIKE OVER PAY

St. Louis, Mo., June 23 (AP).—AFL employés of 11 machine shops, which have subcontracts for war vital precision tools, dies, and gauges, affirmed a decision today to strike, charging the companies were "doing a lot of flag waving to put something over on us" in a wage controversy.

The 400 men walked out this morning after collapse of negotiations over their demand for an increase of 40 cents an hour from the minimum of $1.25 in contracts which expired June 1. The companies offered an increase of 10 cents an hour.

A spokesman for the 11 plants declared the union's wage demand was "out of line." One employer said his tool and die makers received $80 a week for 40 hours at regular pay and 16 hours of overtime under the old contract and some working longer hours made as much as $136.

NEW YORK LIFE.

Please report on New York Life Insurance company.—F. W. V.

Answer: New York Life Insurance company ranks as the third largest insurance company in the country. Originally organized in New York in 1841 as a marine insurance company, it was authorized to write life insurance in 1845. Four years later the present title was adopted. The company is owned mutually by its policyholders.

Admitted assets at the end of 1941 were $2,987,268,732, an increase of $117,533,526 over a year earlier. Insurance written last year was $457,544,762, which brought insurance in force to $7,013,883,403, compared with $6,895,182,749 at the end of 1940. Insurance written in 1940 amounted to $436,742,826.

At the end of 1941 the company's assets were invested as follows: 32 per cent in federal government obligations; 38.3 per cent in other bonds; 14.1 per cent in mortgage loans; 8.9 per cent in policy loans; 3.1 per cent in real estate; 2.8 per cent in preferred stocks; 0.8 per cent in premium notes.

Total income in 1941 was $448,650,110 against disbursements of $329,586,674. This compared with $455,094,978 and $346,319,297, respectively, in 1940.

AVIATION DIVIDENDS.

How many of the total aviation companies listed on the New York Stock exchange paid dividends on the common stock last year. What aviation company was the first to have its common stock listed on the exchange?—W. B.

Answer: Of the 17 aviation companies listed on the New York Stock exchange, 12 paid common dividends totaling $47,472,000 in 1941. Wright Aeronautical corporation was the first aircraft company to join the list, the year being 1921.

DIVIDEND LOWERED.

Answer: Victor Chemical Works declared a dividend of 25 cents on the capital stock payable June 30, compared with a 30 cent disbursement in March.

INSURANCE LOAN.

Is it necessary for me to file a statement of purpose with a national bank in order to secure a loan of more than $1,500 on my insurance policy?—K. S. C.

Answer: It is not necessary to file a statement of purpose on loans over $1,500, according to a recent federal reserve board ruling.

PULLMAN TROOP TRAFFIC AND BUS RECORDS BROKEN

but those who expect to take trips by rail should be prepared to make last minute adjustments in their plans if necessary."

525,000 Moved in Month.

Kelly said that 525,000 soldiers, sailors, and marines were transported in sleepers during May. The figure for the first five months of the year was almost 2,500,000.

While military traffic expanded, civilian rail travel increased substantially because of increased use of the railroads by business men as a result of the war and because of curtailment of other forms of transportation.

Kelly said that so far the railroads have been able to meet all demands for both military and civilian travel without a hitch, but he added it would be wise for vacationists to take precautions against disappointments. He advised travelers to allow one or two days leeway in planning for transportation and suggested that they visit places on lines not crowded with wartime traffic.

Bus Traffic Up 67 Per Cent.

Arthur M. Hill, president of the bus operators' association, said that last month's bus traffic was 67 per cent above May, 1941, and that this volume was accomplished with only a 27 per cent increase in mileage. Only a small amount of new equipment was used in handling the record breaking traffic, he added.

"The bus industry has absorbed a great share of the war transportation burden because the flexibility of the motor coach permits it to proceed directly to all war production plants and military camps. Buses, too, have absorbed much of the increased civilian traffic caused by the decline in the operation of private automobiles."

Hill urged that bus travel be restricted to essential purposes. He advised vacationists to start their holidays in the middle of the week when traffic is light and suggested that vacations be staggered thruout the year.

Extend President's Power to Seize Foreign Munitions

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—The senate has approved a two year extension of Presidential authority to requisition munitions and other critical articles intended for foreign nations, after hearing that more than 8,000 carloads of these still are tied up in railroad yards of this country. The authority was scheduled to have expired June 30.

South Chicago Bank Joins Federal Reserve System

UNDERWRITERS RAISE WAR RISK INSURANCE CHARGES ON CARGOES

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—The Institute of London Underwriters announced today that under a new schedule war risk rates between North and South America and Australasia via the Panama Canal and Pacific ocean would be increased to 15 per cent, from 5 per cent.

Other rates to or from points in North and South America included: West and South Africa, Canary Islands and East Africa, 12½ per cent; Haifa and Alexandria, 20 per cent; Port Said and Suez, 17½ per cent; Red sea and Aden, 12½ per cent. Rates via the Cape of Good Hope were up 5 per cent.

Lift United States Rates.

New York, June 23 (AP).—An increase to 15 per cent from 12½ in charges for cargo war risk insurance between the United States and Africa via the Cape of Good Hope was announced today by marine underwriters. The rate includes Red sea and Egyptian Mediterranean port shipments. Rates for cargoes moving to other Mediterranean ports were to be quoted only on application.

Curb to Single Annual Furniture Show Asked

Washington, D. C., June 23 [Special].—The WPB asked the furniture industry today to hold only one buyers' market a year and thereby reduce demands on transportation facilities. Normally the industry conducts four major markets each year, at which new lines are shown.
